RIBOT REFUSES AID TO SOCIALISTS ON PEACE MISSION

Denying Passports to Delegates, He Says That "Peace Can Come Only with Victory."

CHEERED BY DEPUTIES

What Would America Think, He Asks, if France Should Give a Sign of War Weariness Now?

NO PARTY CAN MAKE PEACE

British Laborites Going to Russia to Warn Against Any Separate Peace.

PARIS, June 1.—Premier Ribot announced in the Chamber of Deputies today on behalf of the Government that passport would not be issued to French Socialist delegates to the Stockholm conference and that passports for Petrograd would be given Socialists only when there was no longer danger of their meeting enemy delegates in Stockholm.

The Premier's declaration brought three-fourths of the members of the Chamber to their feet in a demonstration unsurpassed in enthusiasm since the beginning of the war, except in the historic session of Aug. 4, 1914, and the manifestation in honor of the intervention of the United States in the war.

M. Ribot spoke with deep feeling. His voice, though clear, was often pitched so low that members of the Chamber called out "louder." Some phrases of his speech were drowned in applause, while others were lost in loud interruptions from the extreme Socialists. The more moderate members of the Socialist Party, such as Jules Guesde, a former Minister of State, and the venerable M. Groussier joined in the applause.

The galleries were crowded to their [illegible] the diplomatic box were [illegible], the Russian Ambassador, and M. Vesnitch, the Serbian Minister.

Deputies from all parts of the chamber called for the posting of M. Ribot's speech throughout France, but M. Ribot requested the chamber not to consider the question in view of the division of sentiment.

The policy of the Government was determined at a Ministerial Council held this morning, at which President Poincaré presided.

The Premier's announcement was made in response to an interpellation presented by Deputy Georges Le Bail-Maignan concerning "the attitude the Government proposes to take in regard to the delegates to the International Conference at Stockholm."

All the Deputies, except the Socialists, stood up and cheered wnen Premier Ribot added:

"Peace can come from victory alone."

Continuing, the Premier said:

"It is certain that in peace negotiations no party can take the place of the Government. The peace of tomorrow cannot be a peace of any party, neither of the Socialist Party nor of the Catholic Party. As it concerns France it should be a French peace. When the hour comes, the Government will ask the advice of your committee, and it will tell everything. The Government has a complete knowledge of its responsibility.

"It would be laughable if one sought to make the country and army believe that peace could come from such conferences. Victory alone can bring peace. What would they think of us in the United States if we allowed Americans to believe there was weariness among us after three years of war? Our energy must continue indomitable."

Premier Ribot then referred to what he termed an "audacious and impudent campaign" to spread reports that secret agreements had been signed with Russia, adding:

"We shall ask the Russian Government to publish all the documents in question at an early date."

"It is even said," the Premier went on, "that a secret convention with Russia, which is offensive and non-defensive, exists and that it was executed by the President of the republic himself. Gentlemen, that is an infamy."

The Premier closed with the statement that the Government was ready to arrest certain elements, charged with inciting riots, and also would see to it that foreign residents in France did not escape responsibility to the military laws of their own countries.

On the proposal of Marcel Cachin, the Socialist Deputy, who recently returned from Russia, the Chamber voted to hold a secret sitting to learn the facts uncovered by the visit of M. Cachin to Petrograd and take cognizance of documents brought back by him, concerning which Paris has been filled with gossip for the last few days.

The Chamber, after a three-hour secret session, adjourned until tomorrow.

LONDON, June 1.—The Executive Committee of the Labor Party today reaffirmed its decision of May 9 to send a deputation to Russia.

At the May meeting W. F. Purdy, Chairman of the committee; Arthur Henderson, M. P., and G. H. Roberts, now Under Secretary of the Board of Trade, were selected as a deputation to proceed to Russia as early as possible to confer with the Labor and Socialist

American Invents Air Bomb Said to be the Most Deadly Yet

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, a member of the Military Affairs Committee, brought into the House today and exhibited to curious but cautious members a "dummy," of what he described as the most terrible of all aerial bombs.

"The bomb explodes horizontally," said Mr. Tilson, "and with terrific force. The fragments go in every direction. The model I have here works only on land. If it strikes water it does not work. They are developing one like that to drop on submarines. There is a timing device in this new one that can be set to let go at any depth below the surface of the water before it explodes.

"The one for use in land warfare will explode when within five or six feet of the ground, it makes no difference from what height it is dropped. They exploded one at the Sandy Hook proving ground. The report of the official test said that the bomb destroyed everything for 300 feet around it."

The bomb, according to Mr. Tilson, was invented by Lester P. Barlow, a native of Pennsylvania, who enlisted several years ago as a coal passer in the navy and developed into a first-class electrician.

JOHN SPARGO QUITS SOCIALIST PARTY

Says It Has Been Committed to an Un-American and Pro-German Program.

HE REMAINS A SOCIALIST

Asserts a Victory for Germany Would Be a Supreme Disaster to Civilization.

In a letter in which he declares the Socialist Party here is the greatest obstacle to the progress of Socialism in America, John Spargo, lecturer, worker in the cause, and a writer of many works on Socialism, has resigned from the party. Mr. Spargo frankly states he believes the organization is committed to a program that is "unneutral, un-American, and pro-German." He charges that the Socialists' anti-war proclamation was simply an evasive apology for the "whole German policy of frightfulness and international anarchy." His letter was sent yesterday to Adolph Germer of Chicago, the International Secretary of the party. Mr. Spargo was one of the five leaders who made up the National Executive Committee, and his writings on Socialism have been translated into many languages.

Mr. Spargo intimated that he would probably join with others in bringing about a new Socialist organization—"a reorganization of the social-democratic forces of the country upon a sound program of democratic public ownership."

His resignation was written from Old Bennington, Vt., where he resides. He says:

Holds to Socialism.

"My withdrawal from the Socialist Party does not mean that I have decided to renounce Socialism. My Socialist convictions were never more intense than now. Now, as always, I am a Socialist, an internationalist, and an anti-militarist. I leave the party with which I have been identified from its formation, and in which I have been privileged to hold the highest positions in the gift of the members, because I am profoundly convinced that it has ceased to be an efficient instrument for the advancement of Socialism. For a long time it has been painfully clear to my mind that the Socialist Party is probably the greatest single obstacle to the progress of Socialism in America.

"From the early days of the war the Socialist Party has, in actual practice been committed to a program essentially unneutral, un-American, and pro-German, Knowing well that every sincere pacifist who criticises or opposes the war is bound to be dubbed 'pro-German,' and perhaps subject to real persecution, I have hesitated to use that term, and hasten to add that I do not think that there has been (except in a few unfortunate instances) any conscious advocacy of the German cause, as such. But it is a fact that from the first the party as a whole has been, with notable uniformity, on the German side. Through the utterances and actions of the National Executive Committee, the National Committee, and our press, the party has been placed in the position of favoring precisely the things desired by the German Foreign Office, and of opposing the things which the German Foreign Office opposed. We have repeated all the miserable evasions and apologies of German statesmen, and been silent upon those questions on which the German interests required silence.

"The truth of this can hardly be questioned. At the time when the German Foreign Secretary was demanding that the Government of the United States warn its citizens from going to sea on ships bound for certain countries, and withdraw its protection from those ignoring the warning, the same demand was made by our party. And when the Germans demanded that our Government place an embargo on all munitions and foodstuffs, we adopted that demand as the centre of our policy, notwithstanding the fact that the principle involved, if universally accepted by the nations, would, pending the arrival of the era of universal disarmament, impose upon this and every other nation a colossal military system. Later, when the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany made war imminent, our Emergency Committee repeated this Teutonic demand. Coincidently, by the way, it was made by Jeremiah O'Leary of New York.

Apology for German Policy.

"Many of our leading spokesmen and journalists have made the most nauseating apologies for the betrayal of international socialism by the German Socialist majority, and have been as silent upon the outrages committed in Belgium as the most loyal subjects of the Hohenzollern dynasty could desire. Our so-called anti-war proclamation was, as I pointed out at the time, simply an evasive apology for the whole German policy of 'frightfulness' and international anarchy.

"What is it but a betrayal of the ac-

GUNS ROARING ON FRONT IN BELGIUM HINT OF OFFENSIVE

BIG AIR RAIDS BY BRITISH

London, However, Fails to Emphasize Any Land Operations in That Sector.

GERMANS ATTACK ON AISNE

Penetrate French Trenches Near Laffaux Mill, but Lose Most of Their Gains.

LONDON, June 1.—Unusual activity in the region of the sand dunes on the Belgian coast, at the Ypres salient, and in the sector of Wytschaete (south of Ypres) is reported in today's official statement from Berlin, received here late this afternoon. General Haig makes no special mention of any fighting in this neighborhood, although he says in tonight's report from headquarters that a party of British entered enemy positions south of Ypres and bombed a number of occupied dugouts. He also mentions artillery activity by both sides in this sector. The Belgian report, issued in Paris, merely says that on the front from the sea to Ypres the Belgian and German artillery showed some activity.

The British War Office, however, reports extensive air raids last night on Ostend, Zeebrugge, and Bruges. "Many tons of bombs were dropped on the objectives with good results," the War Office says. "In every case all our machines returned safely."

The text of the German statement follows:

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht—In the region of the dunes on the coast, in the Ypres bend, and particularly in the Wytschaete sector, the artillery engagement yesterday evening reached great intensity. Accompanied by concentrated fire the enemy at various places prepared strong reconnoitring advances which everywhere were repulsed in hand-to-hand fighting.

From La Bassée Canal to the southern bank of the River Scarpe the firing activity again attained great intensity. The English advanced in reconnoitring raids yesterday near Hulluch, Chérisy, and Fontaine. They were repulsed.

Army Group of the German Crown Prince—On the Aisne front and in Champagne the position was unchanged. Yesterday morning, during an enterprise at The Hochberg, southeast of Nauroy, sixty French prisoners fell into our hands.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht—There is nothing of importance.

The supplementary official statement issued in Berlin this evening says:

There has been a lively firing duel in the Wytschaete bend on the Artois front.

Northeast of Soissons there were patrol engagements which were successful for us.

The British War Office announces tonight that in the month of May General Haig's troops captured 3,412 German prisoners, including 68 officers. Added to the figures announced last month, 19,343, the British have captured 22,755 prisoners since the beginning of the Spring offensive.

The text of tonight's report follows:

During the month of May we captured in operations in the battle area and in raids and minor operations on other portions of the front 3,412 German prisoners, including 68 officers. We also took one German field gun, 80 machine guns, and 21 trench mortars.

A hostile raiding party was driven off early this morning northwest of Boursies, on the Bapaume-Cambrai road. A party of our troops entered the enemy's positions south of Ypres and successfully bombed a number of occupied dugouts.

There was considerable artillery activity by both sides during the day in the area southeast of Epéhy, on both banks of the Scarpe and in the Ypres sector.

On Wednesday night many long distance bombing raids were carried out by our airplanes, with good results, against hostile ammunition depots and railway stations. In the air fighting yesterday two German airplanes were brought down and one other hostile machine was driven down out of control. None of our machines is missing.

The early statement said:

Our troops gained ground slightly during the night west of Chérisy, (Arras front.) Patrol encounters resulted in our favor last night in the neighborhood of Gouzeaucourt. Successful raids were made by us northeast of Loos and near Ploegsteert Wood.

Small German Gain on the Aisne.

PARIS, June 1.—After a violent bombardment which lasted through the greater part of the night, the Germans launched an attack this morning north of the Laffaux mill, at the western end of the Chemin-des-Dames. They succeeded in gaining a foothold in the French trenches, but in a series of counterattacks this afternoon the French were able to drive the Germans out of the greater part of the positions captured.

The Germans also attempted attacks during the day in the Champagne district and on Hill 304, near Verdun. They were repulsed with heavy losses.

The French, on their side, captured a German outpost south of Chevreaux, in the neighborhood of Craonne.

The official communication issued tonight says:

To the north of the Laffaux mill the Germans, after a violent bombardment, started an attack in the course of which they succeeded in gaining a foothold in some portions of our advanced trenches. Our counterattacks succeeded in the afternoon in throwing back the enemy from most of the elements they had occupied. Cannon-

Make Austria a Union of Free States, Demand Spokesmen for Czechs and Slavs

AMSTERDAM, June 1, (via London.)—According to the Berliner Tageblatt's version of yesterday's debate in the Austrian Reichsrat, Chairman Stanek of the Czech Deputies, made a declaration on behalf of representatives of the Bohemian people in favor of reshaping the Hapsburg monarchy into a federal state of free national states with equal rights as a matter of imperative necessity.

A similar declaration was made by Dr. Anton Korosec, representing the South Slav Party, who demanded the union of all that part of the monarchy inhabited by Croats, Slovenes, and Serbs into an autonomous State, free from all racial and foreign domination.

According to Vienna dispatches the Austrian newspapers have greeted the speech from the throne of Emperor Charles as an historic utterance of extraordinary significance, and as laying the foundation for the erection of a new and rejuvenated Austria.

The newspapers pay special attention to the Emperor's concession to constitutionalism, and dwell approvingly on the peace passages in the address.

The Neue Freie Presse calls the speech the personal confession of the Emperor, whose words, it says, show that a new era has begun. It was the introduction to a democratic Austria, the newspaper adds.

COPENHAGEN, June 1, (via London.)—Austrian dispatches to the German papers give the impression that the Hungarian crisis is working in the direction of a dissolution of Parliament and new elections. In the interim a minority Ministry would hold office and Count Andrassy is mentioned as a possible head for such a Cabinet. Unless the Hungarian electoral practices are changed, the Cabinet in power during the elections would probably gain a majority.

SEIZE KRONSTADT, DEFY GOVERNMENT

COMMERCE MINISTER QUITS

Unable to Agree with Labor Minister Over Economic Measures —Big Strike in Petrograd.

PETROGRAD, June 1.—The Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates reached today the fateful decision to assume control of Kronstadt, the great fortress which defends Petrograd. This decision was carried by a vote of 210 votes against 40, with eight of the delegates abstaining from voting.

It is announced by the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates that henceforth the relations of Kronstadt with Petrograd and the remainder of Russia will be only through the intermediary of the Petrograd branch of the delegates. The local Workmen's and Soldiers' Council at Kronstadt announces that it has taken in its hands he effecive power of Kronsadt, that it does not recognize the Provisional Government, and that it has removed all the Government's representatives.

The Minister of Justice has notified his colleagues of this development, and on their instructions has communicated with the Kronstadt Council with a view to inducing it to revoke its orders.

The conflict between Vice Admiral Koltchak, Commander in Chief of the Black Sea Fleet, and the Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates has been settled, the official news agency announces, the Admiral remaining at his post at Sebastopol.

LONDON, Saturday, June 2.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Petrograd says A. I. Konovaloff, Minister of Commerce and Trade, has resigned, owing to a complete divergence in views with M. Skobeleff, Minister of Labor, concerning the economic and financial measures necessary in the present crisis.

Strikes or other measures to paralyze productoion have been decided upon in more than 120 of the largest factories in Petrograd, most of which are engaged in war work.

After the failure of efforts of the Conciliation Board to reach an agreement on many points, the staffs of the factories resolved to strike or alternatively to paralyze work by carrying out all regulations to the letter. The time and form of strikes are to be decided in each factory separately.

According to the Novaia Zhizn, Maxim Gorky's paper, the demands of the workers include a six-hour day and a minimum wage for women of 150 rubles (about $75) monthly.

It is believed that the latest act of the organized irreconcilable forces of Russia is intended to bring the navy under their dominion, just as the army is already through its delegates.

The Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates after repudiating, on May 6, the Provisional Government's declaration to the Allies of April 9, announcing its retention of the Allies' policy of freeing small nations and demanding indemnities from the Teutons, has been in constant conflict with the Government's attempt to maintain discipline in the army and navy so seriously menaced by the council's decree early in April to the effect that the soldiers should choose their own officers.

There have been several cases where delinquent soldiers condemned for infraction of the most fundamental discipline have been rehabilitated by the council and their accusers or judges dismissed or ordered to resign, or have voluntarily resigned, as they could not maintain discipline. These things have been going on while speakers of the council, on the invitation of M. Kerensky, were supposed to be at the front appealing to the soldiers to obey their officers.

TROOPS SHOWER GIFTS AS KERENSKY SPEAKS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, May 31, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—M. Kerensky made another of his rousing speeches at a congress of the southern front at Odessa. "Our watchword is liberty, equality, and fraternity, and our device is forward," he said. "We have now the freest policy in the world. We have reaped the harvest in a field watered by the blood of the best, but we must not selfishly use this harvest. We are guardians of the treasure of Russia.

"I have come to you, comrades, as the representative of the revolutionary part of the people, who must guard this treasure. We must not think of differences of opinion or thrust party programs into the foreground or ask whether we are full or hungry. Before we begin fighting at home we must prepare the ground for the future conflict. The time for destruction is past. We must understand that that period is not to be repeated.

"Serious danger threatens us. Those who are united in hatred of the new order are seeking a way to destroy the freedom of Russia, and they are clever enough to understand that by proclaiming a Czar they will gain nothing, since they have not a sword or a bayonet to rely on. They have chosen a treacherous way, an accursed way. They go to the hungry masses who were demoralized by the old régime and say, 'de-

CANADA MAY HAVE COALITION MINISTRY

Premier Borden Asks Laurier, Opposition Leader, to Aid in Forming Cabinet.

Voluntary System to be Tried Again, with Compulsion as Alternate.

OTTAWA, June 1.—Premier Borden called upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Opposition leader, late today and asked his assistance in forming a coalition Ministry.

It was reported upon reliable authority that the Premier offered to allow Sir Wilfrid to name half the members of the new Government and to grant the Liberals authority equal to that given the Conservatives in all questions of administration.

The condition attached to the proposal was that if voluntary enlistment, after a fair trial, did not provide the number of men necessary to keep the five Canadian divisions now in overseas service up to strength a measure of compulsory service should be put into effect.

Sir Wilfrid is understood to have promised his answer to the proposal by Sunday night.

Only two parties, the Conservative and the Liberal, are to be recognized in the new Ministry, if it is formed. The admission of Nationalists is not contemplated for the reason that they are not in sympathy with Canadian participation in the war in Europe.

Chief Liberal Whip Pardee has gone to Montreal for a conference with Premier Gouin of that province, whose support to coalition is desired. The proposal for coalition was due to the manner in which the country received the abrupt announcement of compulsory service made by Premier Borden immediately after his return from England, where he had been sitting at London on the Imperial War Council. There were anti-conscription demonstrations in many centres of the Province of Quebec; there was a formal protest by organized labor; there was a great deal of dissatisfaction expressed from the agricultural element of the country.

The Premier and his Government came to the conclusion that the announcement of compulsion should have been preceded by the application of some educational work to the country which, in many quarters, had begun to feel the drain resulting from having sent more than 400,000 men to the army.

SUBMARINES COLLIDE IN THE CHANNEL

U-Boat and Britisher Were Unable to Manoeuvre for a Fight, German Paper Declares.

AMSTERDAM, June 1, (via London.)—A submarine collision of a British submarine and a German U-boat is reported by the Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung of Essen, which describes the incident as unprecedented.

The paper says that the collision took place "in the Channel" on April 19 and declares that a German U-boat, while submerged, rammed a British submarine; that the British boat emerged, bringing up the German submarine lying across the bow of the British vessel.

The German vessel slid off into the water and both vessels started their engines, and, when separated by about fifty yards, both dived. The commander of the German U-boat did not see the British submarine again.

The paper asserts that both submarines were anxious to fight, but that it was impossible under the circumstances.

BRITAIN'S GRAIN SHIP LOSSES ONLY 6 PER CENT

Food Board Finds Cereal Stock Gaining—Will Have 24 Weeks' Supply When Harvest Ends.

LONDON, June 1.—Great Britain's losses in cereal ships has been only 6 per cent., according to a statement made to The Associated Press today by Kennedy Jones, Director of Food Economy. The Ministry of Food, he added, had made allowances for the loss of 25 per cent. of this kind of shipping.

Mr. Jones said it had been figured that if the stocks on hand ever got below five weeks' supply there would be local famine. The harvest would produce a twelve-weeks' supply of cereals, he said, and this, added to what would be on hand, would mean twenty-four weeks' supply. These stocks, he thought, might be made to last longer by careful rationing of both human beings and animals and by conservation in other ways. The maximum time the supplies could last would be thirty-four weeks, he estimated, and this would leave eighteen weeks of the year to be accounted for. The cereals for that period must come from the outside world.

PUTS LICENSE TAX ON PLEASURE CARS; OWNERS TO PAY IT

Senate Committee Decides on Graduated Levies on All but Business Purpose Machines.

WILL BRING IN $42,000,000

Increased Taxes on Cigars Are Adopted, Based on the Retail Selling Prices.

SUGAR DRAWBACK OUT

Step Taken to Drop the "At the Source" Income Tax Collection and Levy Direct.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Every owner of an automobile or motor cycle will pay a license tax if a provision put into the War Revenue bill today by the Senate Finance Committee becomes a law.

The motor cycle tax is $2.50 a year. The automobile tax, based on retail purchase price, ranges as follows: Cars worth $500 or under, $7.50; $500 to $1,000, $10; $1,000 to $2,000, $15; $2,000 to $3,000, $20; over $3,000, $25. A reduction of 10 per cent. will be made for each year's use for a period of five years.

The estimated income under this tax this year would be $42,000,000. The committee had figures showing that there were 3,360,000 automobiles and 260,000 motor cycles privately owned in the country.

A stipulation provides that no tax shall be imposed upon cars held for sale by dealers or manufacturers, or on automobiles or motor cycles used exclusively for business purposes.

Treasury experts estimate that there are 1,400,000 owners of automobiles subject to the $7.50 tax, 760,000 subject to the $10 levy, 1,219,000 in the $15 class, and 231,000 subject to the $20 rate.

The Finance Committee also decided to levy these increased taxes on cigars sold at retail: Cigars selling at retail at less than 4 cents, no increase; cigars selling at 4 to 7 cents, an additional tax of $1 a thousand; cigars selling at 7 to 12½ cents each, an increase of $3; cigars selling at 12½ to 20 cents, an increase of $5; over 20 cents, an increased tax of $7.

A tax was tentatively fixed upon tickets for moving picture shows, the rate being 5 per cent., where the price was more than 25 cents. This would exempt all the popular price houses. The committee had already tentatively agreed to a 5 per cent. tax on all other theatrical tickets. The yield from the amusement tax as it stands will be about $4,000,000.

The committee decided to repeal the drawback duty on sugar imported into this country and exported after being refined. This drawback amounted to $16,000,000 last year and would be more this year.

To Drop Income 'Payment at Source.'

An amendment to the income tax section of the bill, written today, would repeal the provision of the Underwood act of 1913, providing for collection of income taxes at their source, and require those receiving the taxable incomes to make a direct payment of taxes to the Treasury.

As a substitute for the present requirement of collection at the source, the committee adopted a new principle of "information at the source," requiring corporations and others to report to the Treasury Department the names of persons and amounts of income subject to taxation. This plan, the committee believes, will prevent evasion, increase income tax revenues considerably, and promote honesty of the law's operation and enforcement. Reports would be required on all incomes in excess of $800 annually.

The committee will make no change in the income tax, surtax, and exemptions of the House bill, except the elimination, previously agreed upon, of extra surtaxes on incomes of more than $40,000.

Senator Broussard of Louisiana urged the committee to strike out the increased tax of half a cent a pound on sugar. When the committee held that the tax ought to stand, Senator Broussard offered an amendment in the Senate calling for the elimination of the tax. The Senate turned the amendment over to the Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee talked over the proposed excess profits tax, which it tentatively agreed last week should be on a basis of a tax of 16 per cent. upon war profits last year, as compared with normal profits for an average of five years back. Senator Simmons said that no definite action would be taken until next week.

"We have gone as fast as we expected in whipping the bill into shape," said the Senator. "We have practically agreed upon the items that will yield the $1,500,000,000 tax, which we think is the amount that ought to be provided. We still have the tax on second-class newspaper and periodical postage to consider, and expect to be able to reach an agreement on that tomorrow. We expect the bill will be ready for the Senate by the middle of next week."

Ex-Governor Glynn of New York and ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston proposed today to the Finance Committee a war tax of $100 on each alien in the United States who has not expressed intention to become an American citizen. They said that such a tax would raise $300,000,000. Aliens who enlisted in the armed forces of the United States would be exempt.

A plan for raising $1,000,000,000 a year by means of a levy of half of 1 per cent. of the gross sales of every business in the country is proposed in a brief, submitted to the Senate Finance Committee by Horace De Lisser, Chairman of the Ajax Rubber Company, and Chairman of the Automobile Committee on the Liberty Loan. Mr. De Lisser would eliminate all special taxes proposed for different lines of business.

Aviators 5 Days on Wreckage Lived on a Piece of Chocolate

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

A BRITISH PORT, June 1.—Two British aviators were rescued in the North Sea today by a British warship. The men had been floating on some wreckage for five days and a night.

They had only a small piece of chocolate between them during that period. They were much exhausted when rescued and were landed here.

NATION'S WOMEN PUSH BOND SALE

Mrs. McAdoo and Others Perfect Plans for Co-operation All Through Country.

LIVELY CAMPAIGN ARRANGED

Friday, June 8, Chosen Special Loan Day—Boston Gets $15,000,000 More.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The work of placing the Liberty Loan progresses steadily, and it is believed that within a few days it will be possible to establish a general summary of the amount of actual subscriptions. There is a confident belief that the entire amount of the first issue of $2,000,000,000 has been subscribed.

As rapidly as issued the proceeds of these bonds, together with the proceeds of the corporation and income tax collections due the present month, will be employed to redeem outstanding Treasury certificates. The regular call for funds each month under the present program of advances to our Allies requires the sale of $400,000,000 of Treasury certificates. A call for another $200,000,000 will be made about a fortnight hence.

The organization of the women's movement to sell bonds promises to engage the activities of many thousands of women in all parts of the country. Friday, June 8, has been selected as Woman's Liberty Loan Day.

The Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, of which Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, is Chairman, today perfected plans for getting the co-operation of women throughout the land for the sale of the bonds. There were present as members of the Executive Committee Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip of New York, Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Mrs. George Bass, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of Chicago, Mrs. Francis L. Higginson of Boston, Mrs. J. O. Miller of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Guilford Dudley of Nashville, and Mrs. George T. Guernsey of Independence, Kan. Mrs. McAdoo called the meeting to order.

McAdoo Thanks Women.

Secretary McAdoo addressed the committee, expressing the appreciation of the Government for the enthusiastic and patriotic service that the women of America are giving to the Liberty Loan. Mr. McAdoo said:

"Let it not be said that 10,000,000 of the youth of America registered for military service on June 5 and that there was wanting a sufficient number of volunteers on June 15 to supply the means to keep those men in the field through the purchase of the bonds of their own Government, the safest investment on earth.

"Every woman may not go on the battlefield, but every woman may do her part in the defense of American liberty by doing all in her power toward the purchase or the promotion of the purchase of a Liberty Bond."

Mass meetings conducted and attended by women will be held in all the larger cities of the country. Women orators will make street corner speeches. Women motorists will distribute Liberty Loan dodgers through the country districts. Women, particularly telephone and telegraph operators, will take active part in the chain campaign for the Liberty Loan. Women to take subscriptions will be established at desks in office buildings, railway stations, and department stores. Under the comprehensive campaign started by the committee, every woman in the United States will be enlisted in the performance of service in response to the call to action by Secretary McAdoo.

Women's Clubs in Line.

Utilization of practically every existing woman's organization in the United States in behalf of the Liberty Loan was revealed by the reports of the members of the committee. Mrs. Vanderlip reported an organization in the Federal Reserve Banking District of New York that had already enlisted the services of hundred's of woman's clubs and societies and had sold more than $1,000,000 in Liberty Loan bonds exclusively to women in the last fortnight.

Mrs. Higginson has perfected a similar organization for the New England States, and Mrs. Guernsey, President of the Daughters of the American Revolution, reported the sale of more than $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds to members of that organization, some individual subscriptions running into tens of thousands of dollars. A comprehensive organization of the Middle West has been set in operation by Mrs. Funk and Mrs. Bass, and Mrs. Fairbanks has started a campaign of publicity through mail order houses that is expected to take Liberty Loan literature and subscription blanks to every woman on the farms of the country before June 15.

Secretary Daniels received the following letter today from a prisoner at the Wethersfield, Conn., penitentiary:

"As I am unable in my present position to be of service to my country in the manner in which I prefer, I should very much like to purchase two Liberty Loan bonds, one of $1,000 and one of $500, and help out a little in that way. Will you kindly advise me, when convenient, if I will be permitted to do so, and also let me know just what to do in regard to the matter?"

$15,000,000 from Boston.

BOSTON, June 1.—Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan in New England reported today amounted to more than $15,000,000. Hayden, Stone & Co., acting for themselves and for clients, asked for $10,000,000, the fourth block of this size subscribed in this city. Subscriptions of $3,000,000 by the Utah Copper Company, $1,000,000 each by the Ray Consolidated Company, Chino Consolidated Company, Nevada Consolidated Company, and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Company, and $500,000 by the Butte and Superior Mining Company were included in the Hayden, Stone & Co. lot.

The Second National Bank subscribed for $3,000,000 of the Liberty Loan. It was announced also that 35 per cent. of the $5,000,000 subscription by the General Electric Company should be credited to the New England district.

Forenoon subscriptions included: Industrial Trust Company of Providence,

PRESIDENT WARNS THOSE WHO FLEE FROM DRAFT LAW

Declares in Proclamation That They Will Face Punishment When They Return.

PLANS PATRIOTIC APPEAL

AGITATION WELL IN HAND

Washington Officials, However, Expect Some Evasions of the Law —Prisoners Arraigned Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Wilson today issued a proclamation warning all who are eligible for registration unde the army draft law against evasion of registration by going abroad. Those who withdraw from the country for the purpose of evading registration will, according to the President's warning, expose themselves to arrest and prosecution upon their return to this country. Passports are not being issued to persons within the registration ages, unless they take the prescribed measures for registration before leaving. The text of the President's proclamation follows:

Whereas, the President in a proclamation issued on the 18th of May, 1917, set apart the 5th day of June, 1917, between the hours of 7 A. M. and 9 P. M., for the registration of all male persons between the ages of 21 and 30, both inclusive, who may be subject to registration in accordance with the act of Congress, approved May 18, 1917, authorizing the President to increase temporarily the military establishment of the United States;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby give warning that all persons subject to registration under the provisions of the said act of Congress and the proclamation of the President who withdraw from the jurisdiction of the United States for the purpose of evading such registration expose themselves on their return to the jurisdiction of the United States to prosecution for such evasion of registration pursuant to Section 5 of the Act of Congress, approved May 18, 1917, which enacts that "any person who shall willfully fail or refuse to present himself for registration or to submit thereto as herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction in a District Court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof, be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, and shall thereupon be duly registered."

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington the 26th day of May, in the year of our Lord 1917, and of the independence of the United States of America the 141st.

WOODROW WILSON.

President Prepares a Statement.

It is understood that President Wilson is preparing a statement to the American people, to be published on the morning of registration day. The purpose of such a statement, it was said, would be to stimulate the spirit of patriotism. It was not disclosed whether the President contemplated explaining the war aims of the United States.

Department of Justice officials are of the opinion that the situation with respect to registration is well in hand, that there will be no really serious disturbances, and that the nation will wake up on Wednesday to find that outbursts have been sporadic and not the result of a general feeling against the conscription law.

It was said at the department tonight that more than 10,000,000 men were required to register under the law, and that it would be surprising indeed if such a day were to pass off without incident, as no general election ever held in this country ever passed without some disorder.

Attorney General Gregory's orders had caused the arrest of about thirty persons up to today in connection with anti-draft propaganda. Only a few more arrests, probably less than half a dozen, are expected before Tuesday. Such a showing is looked upon as extraordinary and as a convincing indication that despite oratory against registration and the few conspiracies discovered to interfere with it, or to prevent the response of the men of draft age, there has been no substantial movement to defeat the purpose of the law.

Some Evasions Expected.

The department expects that there may be a number of evasions of the registration provision that will look large in total but not when the great number subject to the law is considered. Many even of those who do evade registration on Tuesday are expected eventually to come forward without prosecution. It was said to night that of the 10,000,000, officials were confident the slackers would not number one in one hundred.

Attorney Gen. Gregory today reiterated his request that local organizations should aid in the work of seeing that every man between 21 and 31 years of age in their communities registered his name.

"The department," he said, "has been greatly aided in several instances by volunteer organizations in cities and towns which have compiled records and held them available for the department's use, and also have furnished valuable information to its agents. Assistance of the sort referred to is of great value, and will be gladly received.

"I urge patriotic men in every section of the country to perfect organizations which will see to the registration of all names in their communities, preserving notes showing the personal sympathies and activities of individuals. I do not suggest methods in detail, as these may be worked out by the men who are willing to act and are not otherwise engaged in serving their country."

ARRAIGN FIVE HERE FOR DRAFT CONSPIRACY

Man Is Also Seized in Jersey City for Distributing "Treasonable Literature."

Four men and one woman were arrested in New York and one man in Jersey City yesterday, charged with violations of the Selective Draft act. The persons arrested in New York were the five who were taken into custody by National Guardsmen at the Socialist peace terms meeting in Madison Square Garden on Thursday night, while the man who is under arrest in Jersey City is charged with the distribution of "treasonable literature." The New York prisoners were released from State custody at the request of the Federal authorities and immediately arrested on a United States warrant, charging conspiracy to induce men who are subject to military duty under the selective draft laws to refrain from registering on next Tuesday.

The five persons arrested by Department of Justice agents in New York are Louis Kramer, 208 Second Avenue; Louis Sternburg, 94 Rutgers Street; Joseph Walker, 3 West 113th Street; Maurice Becker, 18 West 110th Street, and Mrs. Jennie Deinser, 235 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn. The four men are in the Tombs, having been unable to give the $5,000 bail which the United States Commissioner fixed in each case, except that of the woman, who was held in $1,500 bail. Mrs. Deiner was bailed out late in the afternoon.

One of the New York prisoners—Maurice Becker—is the artist who drew the picture of the laboring man tearing in pieces the Conscription act, a cartoon which decorates the letterheads and the no-conscription posters of an anarchistic-I. W. W. organization, of which Alexander Berkman, Emma Goldman, and Leonard Abbott are members.

The man arrested in Jersey City charged with circulating treasonable literature is Charles Kromberg of 451 Central Avenue, that city. Kromberg, when taken into custody, was handing out circulars which were directed against the selective draft act. In most respects the circulars, it was said, were similar to circulars which anarchists and other agitators have been distributing in New York in the last two weeks. Kromberg is held in the Communipaw Avenue Police Station pending instructions from the Federal authorities.

The five New York prisoners first were arraigned before Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct. When the case was called Harry Weinberger of 261 Broadway, who was one of the men who spoke against conscription at a recent anarchist meeting in Harlem, appeared as counsel for the prisoners. Weinberger was also a delegate to the Socialist peace terms conference, which urged the United States to adopt the views of the Russian Workmen's and Soldiers' Committee, and also suggested a separate peace with Germany if Germany would end her present methods of submarine warfare.

When Magistrate Ten Eyck called the prisoners to the bar Weinberger informed him that a habeas corpus petition had been presented to Supreme Court Justice Bijur in behalf of the prisoners, and a few minutes later the writs were served on Warden Lynch of the Yorkville Prison. The prisoners were discharged in the Magistrate's Court and after they were freed Department of Justice agents stepped forward and rearrested them on Federal warrants.

The complaint on which the prisoners were held was signed by Assistant United States District Attorney Harold A. Content, and the conspiracy charge is the same as that on which Charles F. Phillips, Owen Cattell, and Miss Eleanor W. Parker, the Columbia University students, were arrested on Thursday. The hearing in the case of Phillips, Cattell, and Miss Parker, which was set for 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning, was postponed by agreement of the attorneys in the case, and it is doubtful if any hearing will be had before Commissioner Hitchcock. It was reported that the case of Phillips, Cattell, and Miss Parker had already been brought to the attention of the Federal Grand Jury.

The Collegiate Anti-Militarism League, of which the three students are members, two of them officers, is being investigated by the Federal authorities, the investigation covering all activities since its organization several months ago. Phillips, Cattell, and Miss Parker, accompanied by Winter Russell, attorney for Cattell, attended the Socialist peace mass meeting in Madison Square Garden on Thursday night and were present when Kramer, Becker, and the other prisoners were arrested for distributing circulars and pamphlets opposing the conscription laws. Mr. Russell is advertised as one of the speakers at the mass meeting to be held at Hunt's Point on Monday as a protest against the Selective Draft act. Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman are also advertised to address the meeting.

Professor J. McK. Cattell of the Department of Psychology in Columbia University, who is the father of young Cattell, went to the Federal Building yesterday and substituted himself for Professor Dana, also of Columbia, as bondsman for his son and Miss Parker. Dr. Cattell refused to talk for publication regarding the activities of his son as a member of the Collegiate Anti-Militarism League.

The attention of the Federal authorities was called yesterday afternoon to a scurrilous letter which is being sent through the mails over the signature of a man who is a notorious anarchist. This man says in the letter that he knows of 8,000 persons who have pledged themselves not to register on Tuesday. The man in question was said to be out of town last night.

DR. BUTLER'S DECISION.

Columbia's Position Defined in the Anti-Draft Cases.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University was asked yesterday what would be the attitude of the university authorities toward any student involved in activities directed against the enforcement of the selective draft law.

"No person who is convicted of a conspiracy against the United States will ever receive a diploma from Columbia University," Dr. Butler replied.

Several students of Columbia are said to be members of the Collegiate Anti-Militarism League, the organization to which Charles F. Phillips and Owen Cattell, who were arrested on Thursday charged with conspiracy to defeat the purposes of the Selective Draft Act, belong.

Miss Eleanor W. Parker, who was arrested at the same time and on the same charge as Cattell and Phillips, is a Barnard College senior. Her class graduates next Wednesday. Dean Gildersleeve of Barnard said yesterday that Miss Parker would not receive her degree unless she was vindicated of the charge which the Government has placed against her.

Charles Comon, mentioned in the documents in the possession of the Federal authorities as the City College representative on the National Council of the Collegiate Anti-Militarism League, could not be found yesterday. Comon, who is 27 years old, and a senior at the College of the City of New York, is known at that institution as a radical thinker and prominent worker in Socialist and pacifist propaganda. Although partially blind, he supports himself by working as a book and insurance agent. It was learned from friends that he was one of the organizers of the Anti-Militarism League, and spoke at its inception at a meeting held in Cooper Union.

When he was asked yesterday what action the authorities of the college might take in the matter, Dean Carleton L. Brownson said that there was no objection to any one belonging to an Anti-Militarism League, which was founded before the passage of the Conscription bill.

"If Comon was among those people who put through an anti-conscription measure in that league it would be a different matter," the Dean said. "If Comon were in any way concerned in any anti-conscription propaganda the college would dispose of him in the shortest possible manner."

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, June 1.—The Cornell branch of the College Anti-Militarism League has been inactive for several months. As far as can be ascertained, the only connection between the Cornell and the Anti-Militarism League is the name of the University, which appears on the stationery of that organization printed weeks before war was declared. Some forty or fifty students held a meeting to protest against war, under the auspices of the Collegiate Anti-Militarism Organization. The whole thing fell flat, and nothing has been heard of it since. The best answer of the university community to the suggestion that Cornell might be interested in such a propaganda is that since war was declared 1,912 students have left the university for military, naval, industrial, or agricultural service.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, June 1.—A canvass of students and faculty of the University of Pittsburgh does not reveal any regularly organized society for the purpose of opposing the military draft. Many of the students have enlisted in the Hospital Corps, and, on the whole, the military spirit at the university is strong.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Apparently there is no organized body of college students in this city connected with the Collegiate Anti - Militarism League. Ralph Cheney, a student at the University of Pennsylvania, who edited two numbers of the league's periodical "War," said today:

"The league is not against registration. But it is against conscription and the horrors of war. The league has not conspired in any way against the Government. I will register. But I will not take up arms to murder my fellow men."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 1.—William B. Southworth of Media, Penn., a member of the sophomore class, is now the representative of the Collegiate Anti-Militaristic League at Harvard. Southworth, who has been allied with pacifistic movements at Harvard, is taking the place of Hallowell Davis of Brookline, his former roommate, whose name was mentioned in dispatches today.

Davis now is serving with an American ambulance unit in France. Southworth said tonight: "I am sorry that we could not establish a branch of the league at Harvard, but the college is too strongly militaristic. I see no harm in discussing both sides of the question."

POSTERS ASSAILED WILSON.

Two Arrests in Paterson of Anti-Conscription Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 2.—Two men who were posting anti-conscription placards in the business streets of Paterson were arrested early this morning by the police on a charge of disorderly conduct. They will be turned over to the Federal authorities.

The men refused to tell where they got the posters. These read: "Ignore conscription! If you want to fight for democracy fight against conscription. Conscription is Hell! Think over what it means and tell Wilson he is a Czar and that you don't want to be one of his slaves."

The men said they were Joseph Marcolli of 22 Passaic Street, Paterson, and Gaston Trovano of 136 Olliver Street.

CATCH DRAFT SHIRKERS.

Federal Agents Seize Men Fleeing to Mexico.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 1.—Federal agents yesterday and today arrested more than a dozen young men who were seeking to cross into Mexican territory. The specific charge, according to Robert Barnes, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation, is "seeking to evade military registration."

Those under arrest, Mr. Barnes said, gave their residence as Boston, New York, Detroit, and other points in the North and East.

DETROIT, June 1.—Canadian officials at Windsor, Ontario, across the river from Detroit, are co-operating with American Government agents and Detroit officers to prevent persons of military age from leaving the United States to avoid conscription. It was announced today that Park Helsey and Carl Helsey, brothers, of Toledo, were arrested in the railroad yards at Windsor. They told Dominion officers, it is alleged, that they fled from Detroit and crossed the river in a rowboat. They were returned to this city by the immigration authorities.

SEIZE MORE AS PLOTTERS.

Federal Agents and Police Seize Nine Agitators in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 1.—Nine men were taken into custody by Federal Government agents and city detectives tonight in connection with the distribution of anti-conscription literature.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—Three more persons were taken into custody in the Government's investigation of alleged anti-conscription plots in Missouri and Kansas. W. E. Browder was held in default of bond of $5,000. Henry I. Doile was arrested in the print shop in which it is charged he printed circulars used by the organization known as the Federation for Democratic Control, the status of which is being inquired into by Federal officers. P. J. McCann, an alleged member of the organization, walked into the Federal Building and surrendered.

DETROIT, June 1.—Two more arrests were made here today by Federal officers working on an alleged conspiracy to interfere with the draft registration. Those arrested are Morris Sugar, prominent in local Socialist circles, and Samuel Diamond, a factory worker. The Federal authorities now have fourteen men under arrest in connection with the alleged plot.

WABENO, Wis., June 1.—Because of alleged attempts to discourage enlistments by telling applicants they were "fools to make cannon fodder of themselves," Dr. Hugo Miller of Laona, Wis., Government physician on an Indian reservation, was seized by citizens of Wabeno last night, thrown into the river, hauled out, and forced to march at the head of a parade through the centre of the town carrying an American flag. Before the parade ended Dr. Miller was made to kneel, kiss the flag, and retract his utterances. The Federal authorities are investigating.

SHOES FOR 3,450,000 MEN.

Army Orders 2,600,000 Pairs and the Navy 850,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Contracts have been let by the Government for 3,450,000 pairs of shoes—2,600,000 pairs for the army and 850,000 for the navy. It is the biggest shoe contract the Government has ever made.

The average price of the navy shoes is $4.83 a pair, and the army price $4.85. The officials who have been working out the details of the contract are satisfied that the best possible terms were obtained. In fact, it has been intended to order only 625,000 pairs for the navy, but the figure was increased to 850,000 in order to take advantage of the price quoted.

The contracts were awarded in every case to the lowest bidder. It is expected that a sufficiently large number of the shoes will be at the disposal of the Government to equip the new army of 500,000 men without delay. The Quartermaster Department of the army and the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts of the navy co-operated in arranging the contracts with the Defense Council's Committee on Supplies, of which Julius Rosenwald of Chicago is Chairman.

CALL FOR 3,600 MEN FOR HOSPITAL WORK

ARMY RECRUITING IMPROVES

Thursday, with 286 Enlistments, the Best Record for a Single Day in New York.

Acting on orders received from Washington the Medical Reserve Corps issued an appeal yesterday for 3,600 men to drive ambulances and make up hospital crews. Knowledge of medicine or first aid is not absolutely necessary, but those applicants who possess such knowledge will be recommended so far as possible to higher rank than that of private.

It was said yesterday that men having some experience in pharmacy, clerical work, cooking, the use of tools, &c., were particularly desired, but any intelligent young man if he met the standard physical and mental qualifications would also be acceptable. He must not be less than 5 feet 4 inches in height and must be a citizen of the United States or must have taken out his first citizenship papers. Privates in this section receive $30 a month, and clothing and board, and the higher ranks a sliding scale at a considerably higher rate of pay. A private upon proving his qualifications may rise to the following ranks: First-class private, corporal, sergeant, first-class sergeant, hospital sergeant, master hospital sergeant. In addition to these the corps requires ferriers, mechanics, saddlers, horse-shoers, and cooks.

Men are now being enlisted for this service at 1,790 Broadway, many of the recruits being chauffeurs and other persons who had experience with the driving of automobiles. Those enrolled now will be called out soon, possibly within a few days, and sent to a camp for several weeks' training and then abroad probably with the first contingent of American troops to leave this country.

The last contingent of the First Regiment Reserve Engineers will go into camp at Fort Totten today. The regiment has obtained its entire quota with 200 men in addition to serve as a depot unit from which vacancies may be filled. Captain Hogan of the engineers said yesterday that the period of training before the regiment was sent abroad might be very brief. The regiment will take to France a complete equipment of railroad supplies sufficient to last at least six months. According to Captain Hogan's estimate, the equipment and supplies alone will amount to 630,000 tons.

Major J. H. Hughes, attached to the regular army recruiting headquarters at 280 Broadway, received this notice from the War Department yesterday relating to the enlistment of recruits as effected by registration for the draft:

> Registration is no bar to enlistment. Men drafted for the army cannot be accepted for enlistment. Men of registration age accepted for enlistment prior to June 5, but not actually enlisted—sworn in —before that date must register. Notify all concerned and take action accordingly.

According to Major Hughes this means that those who are selected for the draft army cannot, by attempting between the time they register and the time they are actually selected, dodge the draft army by enlisting in the present regular army. Inasmuch as all those who register will not be selected, however, the mere fact of registration will not prevent them from enlisting in the regular army. In other words, if they are not selected by the draft and they are physically and mentally fit, they are still eligible for service in the regular army.

Thursday was the best day that the regular army ever had for recruiting in this city. The enlistment totalled 286 men. In May 3,210 enlisted in the regular army from this city, as compared with 2,207 in the month of April. This brings the total since the call for recruits up to 5,417 in New York, a little more than 50 per cent. of the designated quota.

Recruiting activities on the U. S. S. Recruit, the landship at Union Square, were impeded yesterday by the presence of numerous carpenters who are still engaged in fixing up quarters in the hold of the vessel. Marine and navy officers were satisfied, however, with the results. During the day about twenty men applied for enlistment on the ship for the Marines and about thirty for the Navy.

In actual enlistments, however, both the Navy and Marine Corps had a bad day, not more than thirty men being enlisted in the Navy from this city and thirteen men in the Marine Corps.

Today will be a special recruiting day for the Sixty-ninth Regiment. The regiment will parade between 7:30 and 8:30 this evening, after which there will be a grand rally at the armory at Twenty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue.

55,000 ALIENS ASK PERMITS.

Marshal McCarthy Has Cards and Will Soon Mail Them.

The number of enemy aliens who have applied for permits for barred zones in the Southern New York district exceeds 55,000, of whom about 2,000 made applications for permits yesterday. United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy estimates the final figures will show there are about 65,000 enemy aliens who must have permits. The permits have been received by Marshal McCarthy, who will begin mailing them in a few days.

The permits are made of cardboard 4 by 3 inches. On one side appears the certification of the Federal authorities that the person named in the permit is at liberty to move about in certain named zones. The waterfront is an exception, which will be indicated on every permit, for no enemy alien is permitted to go upon any pier in New York City except under special conditions. Every ship also constitutes a barred zone in itself. The permit stipulates that it is "revocable at the pleasure of the Attorney General if any violation of law or of the President's proclamation occurs within the prohibited locality above mentioned, or if the interests of the United States so require, or for any other reason."

Each permit must bear the signature of the United States Marshal, and also of a reputable American citizen who knows the holder of the permit and vouches for him as a law-abiding citizen. On the reverse of the permit is a description of the holder, to the right of which must be pasted a photograph of him taken at about the time the permit was issued. Applications for permits will be received up to midnight of next Saturday.

Natives of Alsace and Lorraine of French parentage, who would escape classification as enemy aliens are being certified to by the Friends of Alsace-Lorraine at its headquarters in the Aeolian Building in West Forty-second Street. One hundred and twenty-eight applied for such certification on Thursday and as many more yesterday.

"Every case is thoroughly investigated," said Jonas Lippmann, in charge of the bureau. "We have to be very careful, because the Germans have already tried to make use of this bureau to obtain certificates. A young fellow who came here the other day became confused and when I picked up the telephone it was too much for his nerve and he broke for the door and ran away, not waiting for the elevator. An Alsatian of German parentage under no circumstances received a certificate. The patois is a test that is almost infallible. No one can speak it except a French Alsatian."

Two of the men who applied yesterday came to this country since war began as stowaways. They escaped from German hands and made their way through that country to Rotterdam.

Stimson Joins the Army.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Henry L. Stimson, ex-Secretary of War, will serve as an officer of the Reserve Corps in the Judge Advocate General's branch of the army. He came to Washington today to make arrangements to take up his work. "I am now a soldier," he said, and would make no further comment about his plans.

HALF OF ARMY QUOTA OBTAINED IN 2 MONTHS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—At the end of two months of recruiting for the army approximately one-half of the total number of 183,898 men required on April 1 to bring the army up to war strength was passed last night. A total of 92,686 men have been obtained in April and May, leaving 91,212 to be recruited to bring the total to war strength of 293,000 men. During April 40,258 men were obtained, and in May the total was 52,428.

The total number of men enlisted on Thursday was 2,367. New York State again led with 383, Pennsylvania being second with 336, and Illinois third with 216. Wyoming furnished 16 more recruits, making it the sixth State to fill its quota. General McCain's daily recruiting statement follows:

BARRACKS TO BE BUILT AT WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The War Department announced today that Wrightstown, N. J., had been chosen as a site for one of the sixteen wooden cantonments to be established to shelter and train the half million men of the national army.

The War Department has abandoned its plans for establishing thirty-two cantonments. The original plan was to train sixteen draft divisions in as many cantonments and sixteen National Guard divisions in sixteen other cantonments. It has now been decided to establish only sixteen cantonments for the training of the draft army, and to establish sixteen camps for training the guard. The cantonments are to have wooden barracks. The guard camps will consist of tents. Secretary Baker authorized this statement regarding the changed plans tonight:

"The original plan was to build thirty-two cantonments, or divisional encampments. The department commanders were directed to appoint boards to study the available places and make recommendations which would lead to the selection of thirty-two such places.

"The Quartermaster General's Department, co-operating with the Council of National Defense Committee, studied the project and discovered that the cost of building the number of cantonments contemplated would be beyond the possibilities of the appropriation that Congress is now considering. It was further discovered that it would be impracticable to build that number on account of lack of labor, material, and transportation facilities. The supply of tentage has been increased now to such an extent that it will be possible to have some of the encampments in tents.

"The War College recommended that the number be reduced to sixteen; the places, however, have not yet been definitely selected, the Chief of Staff being in communication with the department commanders with a view to making the selections."

A canvas shortage was largely responsible for the original plan to house the army in wooden barracks, for army officials have preferred tenting from the start. Most of the tents used probably will be placed at Southern camps.

PERKINS TO SPEAK AT CAMP.

Prominent Men to Address Students at Sacket Harbor.

Special to The New York Times.

SACKET HARBOR, N. Y., June 1.—By invitation of the Y. M. C. A. George W. Perkins will come to Madison Barracks next Sunday and deliver a patriotic address to the students. He is the first of a list of nationally known speakers who are to give weekly talks to the students here. Others who are expected to speak are Governor Whitman, Mayor Mitchel, Chancellor Day of Syracuse University, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, and Professor Harry E. Fosdick of Union Theological Seminary.

With the organization of the Intercompany Baseball League completed, the first ten games of the schedule will be played tomorrow afternoon. Each of the fifteen companies is to be represented in the league, as there is a wealth of college baseball talent in each unit.

The men are gradually being hardened to disregard hardship. This morning, when the instructors sounded drill call, rain was coming down in torrents and the fields were muddy, yet the regular army officers, knowing that the men had reached the period where a little wetting would not hurt them, ordered them out on the roads. For hours the men tramped along the highways and through the wet meadows, the rain streaming from their ponchos.

PLATTSBURG MEN ON HIKE.

Several Students Discharged and Others Receive Commissions.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 1.—The second of the series of three practice marches was taken today, the two regiments leaving camp at 7 o'clock this morning, covering about four miles south of the camp, two hours being allotted. The first hike a week ago was in light marching order, while today was with full equipment. The next march will be of two and a half hours' duration in heavy marching order. Colonel Wolf, in arranging the second month schedule of instruction dating from June 15, will, he believes, include at least two overnight hikes.

Two candidates from New England, Robert C. Seeley and John C. Donnell of the Sixteenth Company, First Provisional Regiment, were discharged today as being not of the legal age for the acceptance of a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps. Five other New England men were let go for physical reasons. Another New England man, H. B. Webster, was discharged that he might accept a commission in the Medical Reserve, and was ordered to duty at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

Luke Thomas of New York and member of the Eighth Company was sworn in a Second Lieutenant of cavalry. David H. Crook of Brestow, Ind., became a first Lieutenant of infantry, and is the first candidate to be commissioned who gives farming as an occupation. He is in the Seventh Company, New York. Earl Marshall of Douglas, Ariz., a member of the New England regiment, was sworn in as Captain of infantry.

DENVER, June 1.—Denver had its first June snowstorm today, according to records at the Weather Bureau. The snowfall lasted a short time.

BOARD OF CIVILIANS TO INVESTIGATE NAVY

ROUND ROBIN INSPIRED IT

Every Ship and Every Branch of the Navy Medical Corps to be Investigated Thoroughly.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Dr. Abram Flexner of New York, Dr. William H. Welch of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and Nathan Straus of New York were appointed by Secretary Daniels today as a special committee to investigate health conditions in the navy. They discussed the situation with the Secretary this afternoon, and left here tonight to report to Admiral Mayo, the commander of the Atlantic fleet, who will give them every facility for making the investigation in their own way.

Dr. Welch and Dr. Flexner and Mr. Straus have been commissioned to investigate the round robin sent to Senator Calder of New York by thirty sailors of the hospital ship Solace, which was read in the Senate this week. These sailors charged cruelty and neglect in the treatment of sick men on the Solace. The committee will not only investigate the allegations made in the round robin, a copy of which was handed to them by Secretary Daniels, but will inquire into general health conditions of the fleet.

Secretary Daniels sent a telegram to Dr. Welch, Dr. Flexner, and Mr. Straus yesterday asking them to make the investigation. All accepted at once, and came to Washington today. Secretary Daniels's telegram to the investigators read:

> Proceed at once to make a thorough investigation of the hospital ship Solace in connection with the charges of ill treatment and improper conditions. It is a great favor I am asking, but an unusually great service that you can render the nation. These charges come on the very eve of Registration Day, and are already being used to foment a spirit of unpatriotic resistance to the law. Surgeon General Braisted is conducting an investigation, but I feel that in addition we should have the findings of experts not connected with the navy. Please wire me your answer at once and I will then acquaint you with the details of departure and transportation.
> JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

"The character of Dr. Welch, Dr. Flexner, and Mr. Straus should serve to establish instantly the careful, thorough, and impartial nature of the investigation," said Secretary Daniels today. "The committee will not only investigate the Solace, but the entire fleet as well. Admiral Mayo and Surgeon General Braisted have been requested to open every ship and every door to their searching inspection. If there has been neglect, the nation is entitled to know it. What I ask, from press and people, is suspension of judgment until the committee has returned its findings."

Secretary Daniels said the only papers he had given to the Commissioners was a copy of a protest signed by patients on the Solace. The investigators have been asked to go into every branch of the Navy Medical Corps system, afloat or ashore, and make what recommendations their conclusions justify.

FORCES CUT IN PAPER PRICE.

Defense Act Invoked Against Company Offering Government Supply.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The National Defense act has been successfully invoked to bring to terms a corporation which it was declared was "holding up" the Government. Under threat of seizure of its mills, the corporation agreed to furnish its product at a price which the Federal Trade Commission decided was reasonable. It is believed that the action taken will establish a precedent and result in the Government saving hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The act was invoked in the case of the International Paper Company, at the direction of the Congressional Joint Committee on Printing, of which Senator Fletcher is Chairman. Last February bids were opened by the committee for its annual supply of paper. Two bids were made on a quantity of news print paper, one of $7.25 and one of $7.50 a hundred pounds, and both were rejected as being excessive and exorbitant.

About three weeks ago, when it was decided by President Wilson to begin the publication of the Official Bulletin to contain official announcements in regard to the war, the Government Printing Office took up with P. T. Dodge, President of the International Paper Company, the question of obtaining paper for the Bulletin. Mr. Dodge agreed to furnish the paper at $3.10 a hundred. This the Public Printer decided was excessive, as the Federal Trade Commission, after an investigation, had declared that $2.50 was a reasonable price for news print paper. The Public Printer reported the facts to Senator Fletcher, who directed that bids be asked. This was done, and three bids came from jobbers, all bidding $4 a hundred.

Senator Fletcher addressed a letter to President Dodge of the International Paper Company and after reviewing the facts said that President Wilson had ordered the Official Bulletin established in his capacity as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, and that from one to three carloads of paper a week would be required for the publication. The Senator then forcibly directed attention to the fact that under the National Defense act the President had the authority to take possession of any mills or materials that were required for military purposes.

President Dodge replied that the International Paper Company would furnish the paper at $2.50 a hundred pounds.

BISSING OBEYED KAISER.

Letter Which Favored Holding Belgium Said So Bluntly.

COPENHAGEN, June 1, (via London.)—In reference to reports that the late Governor General Bissing of Belgium changed his mind as to the necessity of the complete annexation of Belgium to Germany, a letter is made public which he wrote on Jan. 14 to the Reichstag Deputy, Dr. Stresemann.

In this General von Bissing asserted that the war was lost if Belgium, at the end, was not chained to Germany, to be ruled and exploited in Germany's interest. He chides those "superficial thinkers who wish to content themselves with guarantees of a paper nature or who consider the Meuse line an adequate frontier, a line which can never constitute the frontier which we need."

Von Bissing goes on to say that the frontier needed to protect Belgium against England and France must be advanced as far as conceivable northward, and that the coast was and must be part of that frontier. The Governor General stated that his entire policy had been guided by this idea and that he had labored secretly but steadily to build up "connections" to support this program. He added that if these secret connections were maintained, he hoped the time would come when Germany would be compensated through Belgium for her great sacrifices in the war.

Von Bissing continued by saying that his policy toward the Flemings and the Belgian Church was inspired and guided by this thought. He said that he conducted his church policy with "wise moderation" and expressed the opinion that: "I should perhaps have had an easier time along kulturkampf lines (referring to Bismarck's kulturkampf or war with the Roman Catholic Church,) but we need the church when once we wish to bring German methods and German labors into effect in Belgium."

In conclusion von Bissing spoke of the confidence the Emperor showed in him and remarked that his policy in Belgium had always been conducted "in accordance with his Majesty's directions and wishes."

THINKS WASHINGTON SUPPRESSES PLOT NEWS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 1.—The American fight against such censorship as was proposed in the Espionage bill has been followed with keen interest in newspaper circles here. English journalists have been slow in making comment because they knew the American press was competent to safeguard the public interests involved.

The Spectator makes some remarks on the subject in the course of an article on why America is in the war. Among the reasons cited is the disclosure of German underground activity in America. "We should not be at all surprised to learn," continues The Spectator, "that the State Department has got a great mass of other material showing that German unfriendliness of an astonishingly virulent kind have been practiced throughout the Union or prepared and ready to be practiced in case of war.

"If we are right, as we feel confident we are, about the possibility of new disclosures being made, why should not the State Department give them to the world and so make that part of the American public who are still bewildered, understand why they are at war—understand that there is a hawk trying to pick out their eyes, and that it is no good to go on muttering, 'What ails the bird, we never did it any harm.' Let the Government explain to them that it is the nature of hawks to use their beaks and talons. We can of course quite understand why the American Government should hesitate to make use of these disclosures, for we have had plenty of examples of our own. The Government official spirit of Washington and of London is always very much the same—refusing to make disclosures even though they might have had a most excellent effect on public opinion. For example, though we disclosed everything in regard to the Dublin rising, which made us look foolish or even harsh, we published nothing which could be injurious to the Sinn Feiners or to show them in their true colors. Possibly at the back of the minds of our Government was the notion that it might make things unpleasant for people who were sorry they had given any encouragement to the rebellion, and generally that washing dirty linen in public was inexpedient, and so forth. Besides, it would have shown how unutterably stupid we were to have been taken in by the protestations and assurances that the Sinn Feiners, when they practiced street fighting, never meant to make use of their exotic accomplishment.

"In the same way there may be just a touch of wounded amour propre involved in the State Department's attitude on the question of publicity. They would hardly be human if they were very keen to show the world how completely they were taken in by Count von Bernstorff's declarations that Germany was a much misunderstood power, and that the very last thing she ever dreamt of doing was to prepare to attack her neighbors or to exercise the power of the strong over the weak. But despite these grounds for reticence we think the American people should demand the fullest publicity for the purposes of enlightening and awakening the mass of the nation. That President Wilson would personally be in favor of such enlightenment we cannot doubt, for all along he has shown great personal courage in the matter of publicity, and never has attempted to pose as omniscient or incapable of making mistakes. As his note of last January on the question of terms of peace showed, he has a personal predilection for laying his cards upon the table."

COUNCIL OF DEFENSE CRITICISED IN HOUSE

Mann Assails Method of Letting Contracts—Partial Report on Deficiency Bill Adopted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Indirect criticism of the activities of the Council of National Defense was voiced by Republican members of the House today during consideration of a partial conference report on the urgent deficiency bill carrying a war budget of approximately $3,000,000,000. The bill contains an item of $500,000, for the expenses of the Council, which was accepted by the House conferees.

Representatives Mann and Madden of Illinois pressed Chairman Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee to know if the President, at the suggestion of the Council, had abrogated the law requiring competitive bidding in the letting of Government contracts. Mr. Fitzgerald said that certain emergency contracts had been let without competitive bids because time was essential. The Secretary of War, he decided, had authority to suspend temporarily the requirement for competitive bids, but there had been no general abrogation of the law. Mr. Fitzgerald said there might be ground for minor criticism of the Council's work, but it was performing a great service.

"It has been disclosed to our committee," he said, "that the Advisory Committee of the Council has saved the Government a very considerable sum of money. In the emergency that arose some things have happened that could be criticised, but they are practically insignificant."

Representative Moore of Pennsylvania asked if "an alien" was being employed by the Council. Mr. Fitzgerald said he had no information to that effect.

"It has been reported," said Mr. Moore, "that the gentleman who is to be food director of the United States has brought his staff with him from England. It may be a good thing or not, but I think Congress should be advised whether an alien staff is to be paid out of money appropriated by Congress."

Mr. Fitzgerald said Mr. Hoover's staff probably would be paid from the emergency fund placed in the hand of the President, but he had no information as to whether such a staff was employed.

The House adopted the partial conference report and a complete agreement by the conferees probably will be reported early next week. As the House adopted the report, it did not include the disputed Senate amendments, and another attempt was made at compromise. The amendment include the $50,000,000 shipbuilding appropriation.

NEW ARMY HOSPITALS.

Bases to be Established at New York, Baltimore, and Detroit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Orders were issued today for the establishment of three new base hospitals, one each at Baltimore, Detroit, and New York. Base Hospital No. 18, to be established at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, will be in command of Major Charles C. Billingslea, with Captain James E. Baylis as his adjutant.

Number 15 will be established at the Roosevelt Hospital, New York City, and will be under command of Major Haywood S. Hansell, with Captain John H. Trinder as his adjutant.

Number 17 will be established at the Harper Hospital at Detroit, with Captain Henry C. Coburn, Jr., commanding and Captain Thomas H. Johnson as his adjutant.

Cuts in Train Service.

BOSTON, June 1.—The Boston & Albany Railroad Company today announced a discontinuance of twenty-eight daily and twenty-eight Sunday trains in its schedule, effective on June 24. Based on the mileage run, the road's statement says, the change is a reduction of 8 per cent. of the mileage of week-day trains and 10 per cent. of the mileage of Sunday trains.

OUR FLIERS ABROAD MAY BE CALLED HOME

Members of Lafayette Escadrille Needed to Instruct Young Aviators.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH FRANCE

Some Experts, However, Believe Training Should Be Done in the War Zone.

The United States has opened negotiations with the French Government which may result in the return to this country of Flight Lieut. William Thaw, the "American Eagle" of the French aviation section, together with the other members of the famous Lafayette Escadrille, the squadron of young American fliers who aided in saving Verdun by driving the Germans from the air when their "shot-spotting" work had enabled German gunners all but to cut off the French citadel from the rest of France. If they return to this country the American fliers will come as instructors in the advanced science of military flying to put the finishing touches on the 5,000 or 6,000 aviators whom the Aircraft Production Board hopes to develop each year.

There is no inclination on the part of the French Government to put obstacles in the way of the return of these men, according to authorities in informed quarters. The question is solely one of expediency: Is the Lafayette Escadrille of more value as a fighting unit in France or as the nucleus of an advanced training organization here?

In its personnel are some of the best fliers in France, men whose air work again and again has won the highest praise France could bestow, and who have exemplified the truth of the now generally accepted assertion that American fliers average in daring and ability higher than the airmen of any other race.

There have been several casualties in the ranks of the American aviators and new blood has been introduced as young Americans from the French flying schools have proved themselves worthy of membership in the squadron, until today a roster of the corps is not available. On a recent foray from St. Quentin to Craonne in search of German airplanes these ten young Americans took part:

Lieutenant William Thaw of Pittsburgh, Adjutant Raoul Lufbery of Wallingford, Conn., Sergeants Willis Haviland of Minneapolis, Charles C. Johnson of St. Louis, Robert Soubiran of South Boston, Robert Rockwell of Cincinnati, Edwin Parsons of Springfield, Harold Willis, Walter Lowell, and Stephen Bigelow of Boston, and Corporals William Dugan of Rochester, Kenneth Marr of San Francisco, Edward Sinkle of Cincinnati, W. A. Courtney Campbell, Jr., of Kenilworth, Ill., Ray Bridgman of Lake Forest, Ill., and Thomas Hewitt of this city.

The question whether to recall these young Americans for the less dangerous but highly necessary work of training their fellows is one on which aviation authorities in this country are no nearer an agreement than are the officials of this country and of France who are charged with making the final decision.

Dr. Charles D. Walcott, Director of the Smithsonian Institution, and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, an adjunct of the National Council of Defense, disclosed the negotiations between this country and France and gave the project to recall the Lafayette Escadrille his tacit support when, at a recent joint meeting of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics and the Aircraft Manufacturers' Association, he discussed ways and means of speeding up aerial preparedness in this country and offered suggestions on which were based the plans of the recently organized Aircraft Production Board to manufacture 3,500 airplanes and to train 5,000 or 6,000 aviators in a year. Referring to the phase of personnel in the task of aerial preparation, Dr. Walcott said:

"One of the really serious problems is the matter of obtaining enough competent instructor aviators to teach the very large number of young men who are applying for commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps, Aviation Section. It is apparently going to be just as serious a matter to build up an adequate force of teachers of the advanced science of military flying as now practiced abroad as it is going to be to produce the machines that are to be used.

"The Army and Navy Departments are endeavoring to secure from Europe the release of the Americans serving on the western front to form the nucleus of such an advanced training organization. Both departments, however, will require the fullest co-operation of the industry and of all private schools in bringing all those who are especially gifted into this line of work."

Frederick W. Barker, President of the Aeronautical Society of America, is one of those who believe, on the other hand, that no attempt should be made to provide in this country what may be termed postgraduate instruction in flying. American manufacturers, he believes, are not in the position to construct battleplanes, although they are quite capable of turning out training airplanes of a quality found acceptable in England, which has received many such machines from the Curtiss plant here.

Therefore Mr. Barker would have American airmen trained here in the rudiments of flying and sent abroad, as fast as they could be put through their novitiate, for finish under the tutelage of tried experts and in the atmosphere of real war. Only by confining their attention to the manufacture of training machines does Mr. Barker believe the manufacturers of the United States can hope to accomplish the task set for them by the Aircraft Production Board, the completion of 3,500 airplanes within a year, and only by sending abroad men whom the French can train to their own standards does he believe this country can meet Europe's first demand on America as her contribution to the war —a supply of aviators which shall settle for the war's duration the question of supremacy of the air.

CENSORSHIP FIGHT ENDS.

Senate Conferees to Drop the Section and Report Espionage Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Administration managers in the Senate today decided to let the newspaper censorship section of the Espionage bill die with the House vote of yesterday against it.

The Senate conferees expect to drop out the hard-fought section entirely and bring the bill before the Senate for final passage containing only the undisputed provisions.

FAILS TO MEET KIDNAPPERS.

Father of Stolen Baby Tramps Missouri Hills All Night in Vain.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 1.—Somewhere in the Ozark Hills the fourteen-months-old son of J. Holland Keet, the banker of this city, is being held by kidnappers. Two days and two nights of unremitting search failed to lead to the rendezvous of the kidnappers who, late Wednesday night, stole the baby from its bed, while the parents were attending a ball.

In response to an anonymous letter received yesterday, the baby's father drove through the storm last night carrying $6,000 with which to purchase his son's freedom, but either the intensity of the gale or the fear of capture prevented the kidnappers from keeping their appointment. Keet received another missive from the captors today. The parents refuse to discuss the contents of the letters, and apparently desire to come to speedy terms with the abductors.

It is said that Mr. Keet plans another lone trip into the hills to meet the demands of the kidnappers. The first letter stipulated that a failure to observe every provision would cost the father $10,000. It was intimated that the child would be tortured. Inclosed with the letter was a small piece of the youngster's nightgown.

Detectives assert the author of the letter is a woman.

Mr. Keet's mother is said to be one of the wealthiest women in Southwestern Missouri. Mr. Keet, a few days ago, resigned as Vice President of the Holland Banking Company in order to manage his mother's estate, which is roughly estimated to be worth $3,000,000.

ARREST BROKERS IN COURT.

Nagel and Simpson Accused in Kent Motor Fraud Case.

Frederick J. Nagel and John Simpson, brokers of 1,270 Broadway, New York, were arrested in Newark, N. J., late yesterday afternoon charged with conspiring with Frederick H. Clark, President of the Kent Motors Company, now going through bankruptcy proceedings, to defraud by selling stock of the corporation by misrepresentation. They were arraigned before United States Commissioner John A. Mathews, and each held in $7,500 bail for a hearing June 11.

Nagel and Simpson had testified before United States Commissioner Gilchrist in Manhattan yesterday that they had sold several thousand dollars' worth of the Kent corporation stock. After the hearing they went to court in Newark, where they were arrested on a warrant sworn out by Archibald Palmer, a New York attorney, representing creditors of the Kent concern. When they were taken before Commissioner Mathews Mr. Palmer asked the accused if they would make a check to a United States Post Office Inspector for the amount of their bank balance in Manhattan, so that the money might be in physical possession of the courts. In the absence of counsel for the defendants Commissioner Mathews advised that this not be done.

Nagel and Simpson then asked the protection of a safe deposit box in the firm name of Nagel & Simpson in the New Netherlands Bank's vaults. The keys to this box was accordingly turned over to the Commissioner, with the understanding that no one be given access until arrangements had been made with all counsel involved in the case.

M. Casewell Heine, representing Nelson T. Scott of New York, has brought suit against Clark for the recovery of $2,750 paid for 500 shares of the Kent stock.

FEDERAL SECRETS LET OUT.

Authorities Admit There Is a Leak in San Francisco Post Office.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—A leak in the San Francisco Post Office building from which Government secrets reached outside sources was admitted today by John W. Preston, United States District Attorney.

First intimation of the leak came in the form of a note thrust under the door of a room in the building assigned to newspaper men. The note said German spies had access to Government correspondence through wastepaper baskets.

"There is a leak," said Preston when the writing was shown to him. "This may be it."

NO LIMIT, SAYS KAHN, TO OUR DUTY IN WAR

Tells Merchants' Association if Liberty Loan Is a Big Success We Win First Battle.

BONDS BEST INVESTMENT

Points to Means for Economy and Promoting Business and Avoiding "War Weariness."

Appeals for prompt and generous investment in the Liberty Loan as good business, as an immediate heavy blow to Germany and hearty encouragement to the Allies and as an assurance of ultimate victory, were made yesterday afternoon by Otto H. Kahn, Thomas W. Lamont, and Frank A. Vanderlip at the Liberty Loan meeting of the Merchants Association at the Bankers Club in the Equitable Building.

Thomas W. Lamont said that Germany was watching the progress of the Liberty Loan with an eagle eye, and would form her opinion as to whether the United States was a foe to be feared or to be despised according to the country's response to it.

Frank A. Vanderlip urged greater and still greater efforts to make the Liberty Loan a success by selling the bonds to all classes, and he illustrated the fact that rousing the country to the true nature of the war was synonymous with popularizing the loan by recalling the experience of Great Britain, whose first loan was subscribed by 200,000 people, while the last loan was taken by 8,000,000.

Otto H. Kahn, in a speech which stirred his audience, urged that there should be no limit to what financiers, business men and every other class should be ready to do for their country. In his appeal for subscriptions he insisted that the provision exempting it from the income tax made it an extremely profitable investment for the wealthy to take in great amounts.

No Panicky Saving.

He read a table showing how the exemption of the Liberty Loan from income taxes makes the 3½ per cent. dividend worth 5.02 per cent. to a man with an income of $100,000 or over, and worth 9.21 per cent. to a man whose income is more than $2,000,000 a year. Mr. Kahn urged that the slogan of the business man should be "No panicky saving and no excessive profits," and he asserted that abundant employment and active business would prevent "war weariness." Mr. Kahn spoke in part as follows:

"This appalling conflict which has been drenching the world with blood is not a mere fight of one or more peoples against one or more other peoples. It goes far deeper. It sharply divides the soul and conscience of the world. It transcends vastly the bounds of racial allegiance. It is ethically fundamental. In determining one's attitude toward it, the time has gone by—if it ever was—when race and blood and inherited affiliations were permitted to count.'

"Speaking as one born of German parents, I do not hesitate to state it as my deep conviction that the greatest service which men of German birth or antecedents can render to the country of their origin is to proclaim, and to stand up for those great and fine ideals and national qualities and traditions which they and their ancestors inherited and in which they were brought up, and to set their faces like flint against the monstrous doctrines and acts of a rulership which has robbed them of the Germany which they loved and which had the affection and the admiration of the entire world.

"It is my deep conviction that the more unmistakably and wholeheartedly they throw themselves into the struggle which this country has entered in order to rescue Germany no less than the rest of the world from those sinister forces that are, in President Wilson's language, the enemy of all mankind, the better they protect and serve the repute of the old German name and the true advantage of the German people.

"The fight for civilization which we all fondly believed had been won many years ago must be fought over again. In this sacred struggle it is now our privilege to take no mean part, and our glory to bring sacrifices.

Value of the Bonds.

"I wonder whether any of you have figured out the value in dollars and cents of the tax exemption feature of the Liberty Loan? If you invest your money in taxable securities you realize the gross return less the income tax. If you invest in the Liberty Loan you retain the entire income. You must regard, therefore, as return upon your investment in the Liberty Loan not only the 3½ per cent. interest, but also that sum which you would have had to pay out as income tax. This naturally has a very substantial effect upon the actual interest realized. If you will take the income tax percentages adopted recently by the House of Representatives in the War Revenue bill and add to the 3½ per cent. on the Liberty Loan such percentage as you would otherwise have to pay on taxable securities you will get some astonishing results, as is exemplified in the following table showing the yield from investing in the Liberty Loan as compared to the yield from taxable investments:

P. C.		Per annum.
5.02	in respect of incomes over	$100,000
5.38	in respect of incomes over	150,000
5.93	in respect of incomes over	200,000
8.75	in respect of incomes over	1,000,000
8.97	in respect of incomes over	1,500,000

Our First Battle.

"The effect of large subscriptions to the Liberty Loan is a heartening to our allies, a warning to our enemies, and an insurance to ourselves. It will be the first American battle of the war. Woe to the man who proves himself a slacker by not taking his due part in the loan!

"I think the business men's slogan during the war should be 'No panicky saving and no excessive profits.' Business should be kept active, employment should be abundant, wages should be high. We are in this war to a successful finish, however long that may take. A serious decline in business would make us less able to provide the sums necessary to be raised by taxation and borrowing to conduct the war, and would, moreover, have a tendency, through its various and widespread effects, to produce that insidious disease, perilous and paralyzing to the nation's war efforts, 'war weariness.'

Only Usual Profits.

"It is, of course, absurd to preach—as is being preached in some quarters—that no one should be allowed to make more money during a war than his bare living expenses. But it is entirely right to preach that there must be no more laid by by the well-to-do during a war than, at the very highest, normal savings; that no one should benefit financially from the dreadful calamity of war; that no one should be permitted to use the urgent necessities caused by war to exact extortionate prices.

"If we, each one of us in his individual household pay careful attention to the avoidance of that waste of food and material for which America is proverbial, if we deny ourselves a few indulgences in the way of eating and drinking and late entertaining, if we do those and a few similar simple things the resulting national saving in the aggregate will be enormous, the stock of national assets will be increased, and no one will be damaged by the process in his own business.

"May I add that the worst and least permissible way of saving during a war is to cut down one's charitable and altruistic contributions along his habitual channels?"

Our Resources Greatest.

Thomas W. Lamont discussed the effect which a great response to the Liberty Loan will have on the war. He said that England and France had spent so much of their blood and treasure that they were staggering under the strain, and that Americans could save the blood of their brothers and sons and of the men under arms in Europe through the effect which the triumphant success of the Liberty Loan would have in shortening the war. He continued:

"As you know, the resources of the four great Allies over there, Great Britain, France, Russia, and Italy, together do not equal the resources of these United States, and yet, during a period of distress and hardship, giving up their sons and losing from day to day, the people over there have raised in war loans $40,000,000,000. That is as compared with the $2,000,000,000 that we have raised today.

"As I say, the task ought not to appear difficult, but it is hard, chifely because this country has not yet waked up to what it has got to do. Germany is watching to see whether we are going to make a mighty effort in the very first step of the war.

"She is going to gauge our ability to fight in the trenches by the way in which we take hold of this loan."

Mr. Lamont concluded with a tribute to the late Joseph H. Choate. He said:

"If ever a man laid down his life for his country it was Mr. Choate. He knew full well what was facing him; his physician had told him; yet he was determined to carry it out to the end. I sat near him and his wife at one function, and when it was over she said: 'Joseph, you are killing yourself; you cannot stand it.' He turned to her and said: 'I must stand it. I have got to finish.' And finish he did. None of us, I think, quite realized the work he did for his country, because it was his attitude and his eloquent speeches that made those foreign envoys, British and French, realize the full extent to which this country is in sympathy with them. As he spoke, tears sprang to the eyes of Balfour and Viviani. And make no mistake as to what he accomplished. That message got across the ocean to the British and French soldiers, and they are fighting better and more boldly today for the fine words and the fine deeds that Mr. Choate lived up to in the last days of his life."

ASTOR TAKES $2,000,000.

Other Large Subscriptions to Liberty Loan Reported.

Vincent Astor, who has joined the Naval Reserve, and is ready to go to war, subscribed for $2,000,000 of the Liberty Loan bonds yesterday, his applications going through the Corn Exchange Bank and the National Bank of Commerce, each institution receiving a subscription for $1,000,000.

Among other large subscriptions reported yesterday were: Three million dollars by the Utah Copper Company, $2,500,000 by Adolph Lewisohn & Sons, $1,000,000 by Sutro Bros. & Co., $1,000,000 by the Ray Consolidated Copper Company, $1,000,000 by the Chino Copper Company, $1,000,000 by the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, $1,000,000 by the Atlantic Gulf and West Indies Steamship Company, $500,000 by the Butte and Superior Mining Company, $400,000 by the Sinclair Oil and Refining Corporation, $400,000 by the United Drug Company, $200,000 by the Island Creek Coal Company, $100,000 by the Pond Creek Coal Company, and $25,000 each by the American Zinc Company, the American Pneumatic Service Company, and the Maverick Mills. It was also announced that the Mohawk Mining Company had increased its subscription to $1,000,000.

Ellis Parker Butler, Secretary of the Flushing Bankers' Liberty Loan Committee, announced yesterday that the Nathan Manufacturing Company had subscribed for $450,000 worth of the bonds through the Bank of Long Island. In addition to that, the committee has secured subscriptions for $145,650. The committee started out to get $500,000 for the loan, but has now set the amount forward to $1,000,000.

Besides taking $2,000,000 of the loan for itself, the International Mercantile Marine Company has notified employes that it will do all in its power to help them to subscribe, making it possible for them to pay 10 per cent. a month. Jacob Wertheim of New York has subscribed for $100,000 of the bonds, and the Plaza Operating Company for $50,000, through Hallgarten & Co. The Mortgage-Bond Company has taken $50,000.

More than three hundred houses in the Keith Circuit and booking through the United Booking Agency, are to be put into the Liberty Loan publicity service next week, according to an announcement made yesterday by E. F. Albee.

Robert W. de Forest, President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, has issued a notice to employes saying that the Museum authorities would be glad to subscribe to bonds on their behalf under an arrangement by which the securities are to be paid for in installments. A similar opportunity has been offered to the staff of the New York Charity Organization Society, a large majority of whom are women.

Surveyor of the Port Thomas E. Rush has asked all of his employes to buy at least one Liberty bond. He has addressed a plea to each of the nearly 3,000 of his subordinates. He told them that the ocean is made up of drops of water, that the common people of France paid the war indemnity of a billion dollars after the Franco-German war, and that it was up to the American artisan, clerk, and laborer to show the same patriotism.

From now until the closing of Liberty Loan subscriptions the movie theatres throughout the country will do their bit. A committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry yesterday began sending films known as trailers to all of the 15,000 or more movie theatres in the United States. These films are seventy feet in length and will be attached to longer films that are shown at every performance. This will insure every person who attends a picture theatre within the next two weeks seeing the screen advertisement. A fluttering American flag, a picture of President Wilson making his speech to Congress, and the closing paragraph of the speech are included in the trailer, which closes with the command: "Do your duty! Buy a U. S. Government Liberty Loan Bond Today!"

President F. D. Underwood of the Erie has completed the organization of a staff to sell the Liberty Bonds to employes, and the work of canvassing the 40,000 men on the payroll will be under way within a few days. It has been arranged that each employe who desires may buy bonds in twelve equal monthly installments to be deducted from his wages.

By unanimous resolution, a meeting of the Police Sergeants' Benevolent Association at Terrace Garden last night authorized the Secretary to buy $5,000 worth of Liberty Bonds with money from the Mortuary Fund.

BANKERS POINT TO APATHY.

Public Not Doing Its Share to Make Liberty Loan a Success.

The American Bankers' Association, which includes 17,000 banks and through its affiliations with State Bankers' Associations is in close touch with 12,000 additional institutions, made public yesterday an analysis of reports on the Liberty Loan received from its members. These show that the subscriptions thus far have not been as large as most people imagine, and that while great corporations, wealthy men, and banking institutions have listed their subscriptions, the response from the general public has not been very encouraging. In giving publicity to the facts it was pointed out that the object was to arouse the country to the situation. The association is convinced that the loan will be a success, but feels it desirable to impress upon the public the need for action on the part of every citizen, rich or poor, especially in view of Washington announcements that have created the impression that the Liberty Loan was on its way toward a tremendous overscription.

The association has received more than 1,500 reports, some of which show lack of public interest and others absolute apathy.

A. D. Welton of the association said that the lack of public interest was due in no small part to statements issued at Washington when the loan was first announced that the loan would be "oversubscribed," that "subscriptions are coming in at the rate of $20,000,000 an hour." &c. The association feels that while bankers are working hard the public is not responding as it should.

WOMEN URGED TO AID LOAN.

Mrs. Havemeyer Tells of Experiences In Selling Bonds.

"War is won by a nation's money, and we women must do our part," said Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, speaking for the Liberty Loan before the National Service Committee of the Women's University Club yesterday. "If we do not give money in loans it will be taken from us in taxes or, if we should lose the war, in indemnities to the Germans—and the Germans will take everything from us if we lose. We are not the kind of women who want some other woman's sons to go to fight for us. We want to do our own part—and we are going to do our own part."

Mrs. Havemeyer told of the first Liberty bond she sold. It was bought by a nurse who had volunteered for service at the front, and who said that she "wanted to help with her money as well." Her second was bought by a small boy who had to work to help support a war-stricken family, and still insisted on putting part of his earnings aside for his country.

"My brothers are in the war," he said. "They wouldn't take me with them because I'm too small. But I want to buy a bond."

The Women's Committee of the Liberty Loan Committee announced yesterday that it would send teams of women today to sell the Liberty bonds in four hotels—the Gotham, St. Regis, Savoy, and Netherland—and that two other teams would work in Grand Central Terminal. Five thousand posters will be distributed from Washington Square to Fifty-ninth Street on Monday and Tuesday by the Women's Committee.

MGR. GIBBONS INDORSES LOAN.

Asks Catholic Clergy to Urge Parishioners to Subscribe.

BALTIMORE, June 1.—In an open letter to the Catholic clergy today, Cardinal Gibbons strongly indorsed the Liberty Loan, and asked that they urge their parishioners Sunday to subscribe to it. Cardinal Gibbons said:

"When a nation finds itself facing a condition of war, and all its attendant horrors, doubts and fears, it is incumbent upon us all to take counsel one with another, to the end that the best interests of the State and its citizenship may be conserved and through our clergy to help disseminate whatever knowledge may be necessary in the peculiar conditions confronting us.

"In order that the present aims and objects of our country shall be fully financed and our national interests safeguarded, the Government of the United States has deemed it advisable to issue certain securities which are called 'Liberty Loan' bonds and which will bear interest at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum.

"The security is the full credit of the United States of America, and for the specific reason that some of our people may not understand, or perhaps may not have gone into the matter as fully as they should, I would lay stress upon the fact that these bonds are supported by the honor, credit, business integrity, and actual property of the community at large.

"These undertakings are the best evidence we can give to the world that we are firm in the faith and unswerving in our devotion to the cause of our country and those who have joined with us. It will prove that we are single-minded, and that we know no dividing lines in cases where the general welfare is to be considered.

"I would therefore impress upon the clergy of the archdiocese that they do all in their power to further the work, to the end that these bonds may be fully subscribed. I would suggest that on next Sunday, June 3, you urge your people to subscribe to the loan. The seriousness of the situation cannot be overestimated. It is something of personal interest coming home to each one of us. Let it not be said that we were weighed in the balance of patriotism and found wanting."

UNVEIL EDISON LIBERTY TORCH

It Will Flash Progress of Loan Campaign at Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., June 1.—An electric Liberty torch, symbol of the Edison Liberty Loan Club, was unveiled at noon today, and at night it was lighted. More than 10,000 persons crowded into the yard of the Edison plant in West Orange or thronged the streets in the vicinity to witness the unveiling by Charles Edison, son of Thomas A. Edison. The unveiling was preceded by a parade of the 7,000 employes of the plant. They bore banners with inscriptions.

The torch is placed on the side of Building 21, directly under a great American flag presented by Mr. Edison. It will flash the progress of the drive being made among the employes to obtain at least $300,000 in subscriptions to the loan. Secretary McAdoo sent a telegram expressing the hope that the loan would be oversubscribed. This, he said, would be an indication that the American people stood back of their Government in the fight for liberty and justice.

The torch indicated tonight that the subscriptions at the plant amounted to $120,000.

GOMPERS APPEALS TO LABOR.

Every Federation Member Urged to Help Liberty Loan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, called upon organized labor today to help float the Liberty Loan as a patriotic duty. He said in part:

"Liberty Loan Week has been designated, and June 6 of that week has been set aside as Labor Liberty Loan Day. Every worker and every labor organization will find it advantageous to support this Liberty Loan as extensively as lies within their financial ability.

"The Executive Council has authorized the investment of $10,000 of American Federation of Labor funds in Liberty Loan bonds. All organized labor is urged to do its part."

CONVICTS WISH TO SUBSCRIBE.

Officers of Clinton Prison Invest $12,000 in Liberty Loan.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 1.—The officers at Clinton Prison, Dannemora, through Warden Twombley, have subscribed for $12,000 of Liberty Loan bonds. One of the inmates of the prison, who shines the shoes of the officers, subscribed for a $100 bond. Other inmates of the institution have expressed a desire to subscribe.

Arrangements have been completed for the enrollment of all inmates of the prison under the provisions of the conscription law, and the enrollment cards will be filled out in the presence of the prison chaplain on June 5. There are about 600 men in the prison of conscription age.

CHINESE PROVINCES REVOLT

Three Districts Oppose Pro-German Policy of Peking.

AMOY, June 1.—It is reported here that the provinces of Anhwei, Honan, and Hupeh have declared their independence. This action is said to have been taken to express disapprobation of the pro-German policy of the Kwo Min Tang, the political party now ascendant in Peking.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Discontent against the republic in China has caused the revolt of two provinces and trouble in four more, according to cable advices received by Chinese newspapers here today.

Si Shi-Chung, the dispatches said, is heading the revolt, and has stirred Anhwei Province, of which he is Military Governor, and Chekiang Province, adjoining, to active rebellion. Shantung, Honan, Fukien, and Hupeh Provinces were reported to be in arms but not formally to have joined the movement. All these are northern and eastern provinces, where Manchu sentiment has flourished.

The southern provinces are said to be firmly behind the republic.

Paris Strikes Are Waning.

PARIS, June 1.—The strike movement in Paris is now on the wane. Of forty-odd classes of workers who were out on strike yesterday morning, twenty-one obtained satisfaction for their demands and will return to work today, these including the most important lines affected. Only twelve new trades, on the other hand, joined in the strike movement.

NATION'S WOMEN AID LIBERTY BONDS SALE

R. I., $1,500,000; Commercial Trust Company of Boston, $500,000; Federal Trust Company of Boston, $375,000; United Drug Company, $300,000; Webster and Atlas National Bank of Boston, $269,000; H. W. Payson & Co. of Portland, Me., $176,750; Massasoit-Pocasset National Bank of Fall River, $125,800; Manufacturers' Bank of Lynn, $100,000.

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—The St. Louis Merchants' Exchange has subscribed for Liberty Loan bonds to the amount of $1,250,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1.—Portland made a holiday for the Liberty Loan bond visit of the Hillis-Chamberlain bankers and manufacturers' party here today. There were banners flying, military bands, and a parade of National Guardsmen and citizens. Two mass meetings were arranged for Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis and Lawrence Chamberlain to address the local patriots. Every State and local organization of women pledged aid in oversubscribing Portland's allotted share of the loan.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 1.—St. Paul closed its Liberty Loan campaign tonight with the total subscriptions $11,000,000, and claims a record in the country on per capita and bank deposits. The subscription per capita is $44 and the total is 9 1-16 per cent. of the city's bank deposits. Individual bondholders in St. Paul number about 22,000.

OFFERS $200,000,000 MORE TREASURY NOTES

Certificates to Bear 3¼ Per Cent. Interest—British to Pay Off $50,000,000 Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A call on the Federal Reserve Banks for a further loan on United States Treasury certificates to the amount of $200,000,000 was made today. These certificates draw 3¼ per cent. interest, must be subscribed by June 6, and mature July 30, when they will be convertible into Liberty Loan bonds. With this call for a loan the Government goes on record as borrowing $918,205,000 since Jan. 1, 1917, of which $868,500,000 is for war account. The remaining $50,000,000 was for the purchase of the Virgin Islands from Denmark and current funds for ordinary expenditures.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, on instructions from Washington, sent out letters yesterday to banks and bankers in the district inviting them to subscribe to another issue of $200,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness. Subscriptions are to be filed on or before 1 P. M. June 6, and payments are to be made on June 8. The certificates fall due on July 30.

It is expected that just as the last issue of certificates sold a week ago was heavily oversubscribed, the new one will be promptly taken up, especially in the New York District, where the banks have been purchasing more than 50 per cent. of the total offered.

Thus far there have been four offerings of certificates of indebtedness, and the total outstanding is $718,205,000. The following table gives the dates of sale, the amounts, and rate of interest and the maturities:

March 31	$50,000,000	2%	June 30
April 25	250,000,000	3%	June 30
April 26	5,000,000	3%	June 30
April 27	2,000,000	3%	June 30
April 30	8,000,000	3%	June 30
May 1	2,000,000	3%	June 30
May 2	100,000	3%	June 30
May 4	1,100,000	3%	June 30
May 10	200,000,000	3%	July 17
May 16	5,000	3%	July 17
May 25	200,000,000	3¼%	July 30

The $50,000,000 loan made eighteen months ago by a syndicate of New York banks to a group of eight London joint stock banks, and which falls due on June 20, will be paid off, according to a cable message received here yesterday from London.

The credit was arranged in December, 1915, and it was for only six months, but upon maturity last June it was renewed for twelve months, the rate of interest being increased from 4½ to 5 per cent. The credit is secured by the deposit of £11,000,000 of British Treasury bills with the Bank of England. The New York group of banks includes the National City, the National Bank of Commerce, the Guaranty Trust Company, and the Bankers' Trust Company, while the London institutions participating in the loan are the London City and Midland, Lloyds, Parr's, Union of London and Smiths, the Westminster, the National Provincial, the London Joint Stock Bank, and Barclay & Co. The New York syndicate distributed the loan certificates among some 400 banks of the country.

The New York committee has held several meetings lately at which the question of renewing the loan was discussed. It was pointed out that the credit could not be renewed, but that it would be necessary to pay off the maturing loan and float a new loan in view of the fact that the certificates were so widely distributed. It is understood that Lord Cunliffe, Governor of the Bank of England, who is in this country, will make arrangements for paying off the loan.

It is doubtful, bankers say, if any attempt will be made to negotiate any new loans, even with private institutions, now that financial operations between Great Britain and the United States are being looked after by the American Government. It is intimated that the London banks would be glad to continue the credit if arrangements could be made, and that they would be willing to pay slightly more than 5 per cent. for the accommodation.

ITALIANS BEAT BACK FIERCE MASS DRIVES

Austrian Troops Fight Desperately, but in Vain, to Recapture Heights of Vodice.

TOWNS IN ITALY RAIDED

Airmen Drop Incendiary Bombs on Udine and Cervignano, but Damage Is Reported as Slight.

ROME, June 1.—Violent efforts were made by the Austrians last night to regain some of the ground they lost in the Italian offensive. Austrian masses attacking in the Vodice area were firmly met and the attack failed completely the War Office announced today in the following bulletin:

Considerable artillery activity developed in the northern sector of the Carso and on the line from Gorizia to Plava. In the Vodice area last night numerous massed troops of the enemy made a violent attack upon our positions on Hills 592 and 652. The attack, prepared by intense artillery fire and carried out with stubbornness, failed completely, owing to the firm resistance of our troops and the well-directed fire of our batteries, which dispersed the enemy's massed reinforcements. The enemy suffered severe losses, and left in our hands eighty-three prisoners, including three officers.

There were minor encounters, favorable to us, between our advanced posts and enemy reconnoitering parties in the Posina Valley and at the head of the stream.

Last night enemy aircraft made a raid on Udine and Cervignano, dropping incendiary bombs. Our anti-aircraft guns put them to flight. Very slight damage was done. One civilian was wounded.

Our machines in response successfully bombed military works at Barcola, north of Trieste, and returned safely.

VIENNA, June 1, (via London.)—The repulse of Italian attacks on the Isonzo front is announced in the official statement of the War Office today. It reads:

There was relative calm on the Isonzo front yesterday. Toward evening the Italians again attempted to pierce our front near the Vodice by the use of strong forces, but the attack broke down under our fire.

The Italian advances were resumed this morning, but suffered a similar fate near Jamiano.

There is nothing of importance to report in the Carnia or Tyrol sectors.

AUSTRIAN LOSSES TERRIBLE.

Italians Say Hindenburg Is Trying to Keep Them from Public.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

UDINE, June 1.—Italian Headquarters says that Hindenburg finds himself in an awkward quandary. Having declared the Austrian positions on the Italian front impregnable, owing to the formidable fortifications erected there, he does not know how to keep from his people the news of the losses suffered on this front, which every day are becoming more apparent.

The German generalissimo, experts say, is trying to accomplish the impossible—make the Italians retire by launching assault upon assault against them, ordering terrible concentrations of fire, sending his reserves to be butchered, and puting into the task all the diabolical agencies which kultur has been able to suggest.

The unshakable firmness of the Italian troops has prevented the enemy from gaining round. In many places indeed, the Italians have themselves gained important positions. On the Vodice Ridge the enemy assaults take place under the most adverse conditions. The Austrians must climb amid a shower of bombs, thrown down on them by the Italian soldiers, and their losses are frightful. The ground descending toward Gargaros is covered with dead bodies.

The whole Italian press greatly appreciates the favorable comments published by the American newspapers on the action of the Italian Army on the Carso front, quoting especially the editorial from THE NEW YORK TIMES entitled "Incredible Italy," and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Italians feel gratified also at the friendly reception given to the Italian mission, now in America. They point out that while no serious incident ever occurred between Italy and the United States the present ideal comradeship in war unites the two countries in the strongest bonds of friendship to their reciprocal advantage.

SAYS ITALY SAVED ALLIES.

Mission Member Recalls Her Intervention at Crises of the War.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—How Italy's action helped France throw back the Germans at the Marne and also weakened the German-Austrian offensive on Russia was detailed today by Augusto Ciuffelli, former Minister of Public Works and now a member of the Italian war mission. In both cases, he said, Italy's attitude was most decisive.

"Upon Italy's declaration of neutrality at the outbreak of the war," said Mr. Ciuffelli, "France was able to withdraw half a million men from our frontier and to throw them across the German path before Paris. At that time France was pressed for trained men and for supplies and the British army was not yet mobilized. Without Italy's action, the Germans would probably have entered Paris.

"Similarly, Italy's actual entrance into the war in May, 1915, tremendously aided the retreating and disorganized Russian armies and created such a diversion as to save Russia from being reduced to impotence. Again Italy's action was decisive.

"If Italy had been inspired by the lust of conquest she could easily have joined with Germany, whose victory would have been tremendously facilitated by her intervention. But Italy could not make herself party to the aggression of Austria upon Serbia or aid in a war featured by the invasion of Belgium. Italy could not join the two imperial dynasties which dreamed of world domination on the principle that might makes right.

"Italy's sacrifice in this war has been almost staggering. We now have 4,000,000 men under arms. Our front is 540 kilometers long, greater than the whole French and Belgian front. Every yard we have conquered has cost us terribly.

"Some of our heavy guns are fighting from an elevation of almost two miles on peaks 9,000 feet high. Our roads and supply lines in many cases have been cut through solid ice. A whole new human centre has been built up in the most inaccessible part of the Alps.

"This must be the last war. Nations cannot in the future squander all their money on military preparedness. The new spirit must make us live together in the ideals of peace and justice. Italy is eager to take her place in a new world organized for peace, just as on a smaller scale at the Algeciras Conference she made possible the international agreement on Morocco."

BELGIANS DEFY GERMANY.

Refuse to Give Up the Entente Allies' Deposits in Banks.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 15, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The correspondent in Belgium of the Lausanne Gazette write that General von Falkenhausen, the new Governor General of Belgium, has demanded all the scrip, titles, and money deposited in the Belgian banks belonging to the Entente Allies, and amounting to many millions of francs.

The Belgian bankers and the Belgian firms who constructed the bank safes refused to open them. Thereupon, according to the correspondent, General von Falkenhausen sent to Berlin for expert safebreakers, who went to Brussels, but failed to open the safes.

The Gazette's correspondent suggested, "Why not give up all the goods, as, in North and South America there are plenty of German bonds and scrip to cover many times this loss to the Allies in Belgium."

GUNS ROARING ON FRONT IN BELGIUM

ading continues rather violent in the entire region.

Several attempts against our positions on Hill 304 (Verdun sector) were repulsed by our fire. The enemy sustained heavy losses and gained no advantage. On the rest of the front intermittent cannonading was reported.

Aviation.—Our special cannon brought down today two German airplanes, which fell inside the German lines.

The statement issued this afternoon follows:

During the night the enemy's artillery, vigorously countershelled by ours, conducted a rather violent bombardment of our first lines in the region north of the Laffaux mill, on the Californie plateau, and in the Chevreux wood. Various attacks by the Germans west of Cerny and south of Loivre were repulsed by our fire. A German effort against our positions at the Casque also was fruitless, costing the enemy losses without yielding any result. The enemy left twenty prisoners in our hands.

We captured a German post south of Chevreux and took prisoners. There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

Victors on the Aisne Have Inflicted Heavy Casualties on the Germans.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRENCH FRONT, June 1.—I am able from an authoritative source to give the total of German prisoners captured by the French from the beginning of their offensive, April 15, till May 24, the period comprising the first three phases of the battle which is still progressing. The prisoners are divided into two categories, the first, composed of unwounded officers and men, numbers 28,045; the second, consisting of wounded enemies picked up on the battlefields, total 3,784, or, all together, 31,829. Since May 24 several further batches of prisoners have been taken, probably numbering some hundreds, but returns from the various armies are still incomplete.

The publication of these figures does not mean that the offensive begun by the French in the middle of April is yet concluded. On the contrary, it is the intention of the French to continue battering at the German lines. The French now have the initiative in their hands and they can force the Germans to give battle whenever they see fit. They now occupy positions along the front stretching from Soissons to Auberive which are much more to their advantage than those they held before the first forward move on April 15. Their progress, as natural from the conformation of the ground, has not been equal all along the line, but they hold positions at the present moment which give them an excellent jumping-off place for future movements when the temporary lull comes to an end.

The locality and date of the next advance may not even be hinted at, but at every point of the long line the artillery is busy, and occasionally a local infantry encounter causes brief excitement. Sometimes the Germans begin a tussle in the hope of winning back some of their lost positions. Occasionally they succeed in entering a French advanced trench, holding it for a few hours, only to be ejected again in spite of their frantic efforts to hold on.

On other occasions the French start a small attack for the purpose of straightening their lines, and they usually attain what they seek. Slight fluctuations, however, are natural along such an extended front, and occasionally these French minor attacks do not give the results expected at the first attempt. The French, however, keep up their harrying tactics, which, if they have no other effect, seem to make the Germans extremely nervous, for the slightest movement in the French lines now suffices to bring a hurricane of artillery and machine gun fire.

FELLED TWO AIR FOES IN FIGHT OF A MINUTE

Guynemer, Most Famous of French Aviators, Has Destroyed Forty-three Machines.

PARIS, June 1.—Captain George Guynemer, most famous of all French army aviators, has brought down five more German airplanes, two of them in one minute. The Captain now is credited officially with having destroyed forty-three enemy machines. Between May 17 and May 31 the French airmen brought down thirty-two German machines, and fifty-seven others are believed to have fallen to earth behind the German lines. The following official account of aerial activities was given out here today:

"In the period between May 17 and May 31 thirty-two German machines were destroyed on our front during aerial combats, in addition to fifty-seven others, which were damaged seriously and probably crashed to earth within the enemy lines. Captain Guynemer brought down five machines, four of them on the same day. Two of these airplanes were felled in one minute, which is perhaps the first time in the war that such a thing has been accomplished. These five new victories bring up to forty-three the number of German machines destroyed thus far by this valiant officer.

"In the same period Lieutenant Pinsard put out of action three German machines, triumphing over his fifteenth adversary. Here are the names of other pilots who have increased the number of their exploits: Adjutant Madon, 12 machines; sub-Lieutenant Tarascon, 11; Adjutant Jaillier, 10; Captain Matton, 6; Sergeant Souillier, 5."

GERMAN TROOPS FED LESS.

Rations for Fighting Men Considerably Below Those for British.

From a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 1, (via London.)—The conditions as to food supplies in Germany may be conjectured from the fact that it is now definitely settled that the best fed of the German fighting units subsist on a ration which equals only three-fifths in weight and value that issued to the British troops. The best nourished German troops are those in reserve just back of the fighting lines. They receive the maximum ration. Since the Spring of 1916, however, their bread allowance has been cut down one-third. The greater part of this reduction has occurred during the last eight months.

There are now two meatless days a week in the German trenches. Even the indispensable sausage allowance has been cut down to two and three-quarter ounces daily. Rice has been eliminated entirely, being replaced by dry turnips.

A comparison between the British and German rations is interesting and illuminating. The only issues which are common with the two forces are bread, meat, and vegetables. These are common in substance, but not in weight or quality by any means. The Germans have exclusively an issue of flour and sausage, while the British have exclusively rice, oatmeal, jam, cheese, and bacon.

SKIMMING THE EARTH IS NEW AIR TACTIC

British Airplane Attacks German Position When Only Twenty Feet from the Ground.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, June 1.—There is natural enmity between British airplanes and the anti-aircraft guns of the Germans, those noisy, barking weapons that rejoice in the name of Archie. One must not imagine that the British airplanes have taken the strafing from the Archies as a matter of course. Time after time they have shown their resentment by diving at the presumptious batteries and scattering the crews with rapid bursts of machine-gun bullets, just as by night they dived at searchlights behind the German lines like giant moths dashing at a flame.

Since the British aerial offensive began early in April the Germans have rushed many anti-aircraft batteries to the western front in an effort to check the carefree manner in which the British cross their line. You can hear them barking all through the day and often far into the night. One of these new batteries, larger and noisier than most of its truculent brothers, incurred the special disfavor of a certain squadron a few days ago, so the squadron flew up one bright afternoon, drew the fire of the battery, then closed in upon it and let go with 124 bombs. There is not much more to be said about that particular family of archies.

Partly overcast skies made airplane hunting more difficult during the last few days, but the British aviators have learned the art of low flying and have recently broken some records in this direction. One plane attacked a German machine-gun position and the crew recently while flying only twenty feet from the ground. To attack a German observation balloon in its bed a few days ago a British scout flew over the lines so low he had to "zoom" over a number of trees and badly strafe the hedges. Zooming means just barely lifting the machine to surmount the obstacle and immediately putting her nose down again. In much of the fighting of the last two months battles begun at dizzy heights have been fought down to within fifty feet of the trenches, and at least one British contestant in such a fray came home after having been fired at by practically every branch of the German service, including infantry and cavalry.

LORD DEVONPORT OUT AS FOOD CONTROLLER

General Shakeup in British Cabinet Forecast—Churchill May Join the Ministry.

LONDON, Saturday, June 2.—Political circles are absorbed in a discussion of supposed actual or impending resignations and a redistribution of posts in the Ministry. The only officially admitted resignation thus far is that of Baron Devonport, the Food Controller, who has resigned because of ill-health. But the Parliamentary correspondents of the morning newspapers predict several other changes, involving Dr. Christopher Addison, Minister of Munitions; Viscount Cowdray, Chairman of the Air Board; Baron Rhondda, President of the Local Government Board; Albert Illingworth, Postmaster General, and others of minor rank, who are expected to obtain promotion. The likelihood of Colonel Winston Spencer Churchill rejoining the Government is again to the fore.

The several reports of the correspondents contradict one another, and none of them can be confirmed in authoritative sources. While some of the correspondents deny Dr. Addison will quit the munitions post, The Times says he will leave it and probably will join the War Cabinet without portfolio.

The Daily Chronicle has Mr. Illingworth on the slate to succeed Baron Devonport, in which case, it says, Dr. Addison probably will become Postmaster General. Viscount Cowdray's resignation is referred to by some of the correspondents as an indefinite possibility, while others imply that he has actually resigned. The Daily News, which says he will resign, and also that it now understands Dr. Addison will retain the munitions post, asserts that Colonel Churchill is being seriously considered as the new Chairman of the Air Board.

The Daily Express forecasts the immediate resignation of Baron Rhondda, while The Daily News says it hears that Lord Cozens-Hardy is about to retire from the post of Master of the Rolls, to which Sir George Cave, Secretary of State for the Home Department, will succeed, resigning his present portfolio.

The reports of resignations from the Ministry naturally open a wide field of speculation as to the probable successors to the various posts, and the opportunity thus given is being eagerly seized upon by the political reporters.

TROOPS THROW GIFTS AS KERENSKY SPEAKS

mand everything immediately.' They whisper words inspiring distrust of us who have fought against Czardom all our lives. There are among us, too, idealists who, gazing intently at the sky, drag us into the abyss of anarchy, and we must say to them, 'Stand still; hands off the new order!'

"It is easy to criticise, easy to destroy, but it is not this that the Russian revolution demands. It demands political insight. You are the freest army in the world. It is your historical duty to prove that free discipline is stronger than discipline of 'the last lash.' If you do not do this, generations to come will curse you. Forward, then, for liberty."

There followed ovations, bouquets, showers of orders, military crosses, and gold and jewelry. Kerensky was the hero of a triumphal procession, and wherever Kerensky goes at the front he leaves behind him a glow of enthusiasm.

But here in Petrograd, that faithful city, his enemies are at work. "Who," they ask, "is Kerensky going to be—the new Bonaparte? We'll see!" and the yelp of the wreckers is growing louder daily. "Don't dare be a strong man; don't dare be positive, definite, constructive; don't dare work for the safety and welfare and greatness of Russia, or we will down you, as we downed Milukoff and Guchkoff."

It must be quite definitely stated that there is a group of wreckers here in Petrograd. It is absurd to call them "Socialists." They would horrify the Marx and Engels, and they certainly are not anarchists of the Kropotkin school. They ignore the experience of Western Socialists. They cold-shoulder our British Socialists, and Vandervelde and the French Socialists, and Socialists who have just come from Italy.

If any of them go to Stockholm to meet Kauthky and Bernstein they will meet with approval only in so far as Kauthky and Bernstein are German patriots, but inasmuch as Kauthky and Bernstein care for the future of Socialism they will look on these men with indignation and sorrow.

There are a great many real Socialists in Russia who realize perfectly well the danger of the wreckers, but they, too, are cowed by the violence of these extremists who profane the name of socialism and use it as a bludgeon, so it happens that as the wreckers begin a campaign against Kerensky a number of the more unstable Socialists begin to wobble. If there were no noise the unstable Socialists would probably support Kerensky, but once a hue and cry is raised they grow fearful for their own popularity.

NEW CABINET STILL ATTACKED

But Has More Power Than Predecessor, British Observer Thinks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, May 30, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The new Provisional Government has hardly had time yet to show its hand, and is working in very difficult conditions. One fact that stands out clearly is, it has more power than its predecessor, not because of any superior ability—on the whole, it is inferior in ability to the first Provisional Government—but because it possesses, through inclusion of representatives of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, a broader basis of authority.

The majority of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates support their comrade Ministers, not, it is true, with the overwhelming energy with which they attacked the previous Government, but steadily and with considerable consistency. There are still a number of free lances who, having attacked governments all their life, find it impossible to abandon the habit of invective now. The maximalists of both the Socialist parties, the Social Democrats and Socialist Revolutionaries, daily rush into the lists against the Government with unmitigated ardor, even though the Russian Government is now practically Socialist. These attacks for the most part are echoes of the eternal wrangling of the close coteries of émigrés in Paris and Switzerland, and in the open air of free discussion and in the face of urgent practical work they are gradually losing their force and point.

A mentality formed in long years of conspiracy is not easily shaken off, but hard facts are undermining the influence of the extremists and a desire to support the Government is daily spreading.

The new Government will probably succeed in restoring discipline in the army and re-establishing civil order. Whether it will successfully handle the serious financial and economic problems with which it is now confronted remains to be seen.

SEE AMERICA FACING BRUNT OF THE WAR

Gerard and Gordon Warn That Our Role May Be Greater Than We Expect.

GERMAN RESOURCES SHOWN

Ambassador Tells Broadway Association Truth Needs No Concealment in This Country.

Ambassador James W. Gerard and Major Charles W. Gordon of the Forty-third Cameron Highlanders spoke at a luncheon of the Broadway Association in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon. The Ambassador, who was introduced by Jefferson De M. Thompson, President of the association, emphasized his view that two years of war are ahead of this country. Major Gordon pleaded with his hearers to profit by the mistakes of Great Britain. When he asked whether this country should wait until the Allies were worn down or throw its full resources into the fight today the audience leaped to its feet and cried, "Todav, today."

"One of the most necessary things for us to do," said Mr. Gerard, "is to save food. The people of France are used to wheat bread, which is about 50 per cent. of their diet, so you can save wheat to send to France. The people there cannot change their diet in this time of war. Here we have a variety. We use corn bread. In France they do not use it and would not perhaps know how to use it."

As a measure of bread conservation the Ambassador repeated his suggestion that hotels charge for rolls and bread by the piece. He quoted figures to show the resources in men that still remain to Germany.

Demands Truth About War.

Mr. Gerard won applause when he said that the people here did not need to have facts kept from them. "The people of America do not have to be scared," he said. "They do not need to have things concealed from them. What the people want is to know what is happening so that they can rise to meet it.

"We have been too indulgent in this country. We have too many pacifists and foreigners who oppose what is being done. We have said that free thought and free speech are all right if a man is sincere. But sincerity does not excuse an act that strikes a blow at the defenses of the country. The trouble is our inability to think in a military way. It is in a military way that we will have to face Germany. If Germany is successful in the war or if the war is a draw we may have to face Germany alone."

How Germany had conserved her resources and placed a ban on many amusements was touched upon by Mr. Gerard. To buy even a pair of woolen stockings it was necessary to make application to a Magistrate, and he also illustrated by telling how, when the wife of one of his secretaries wanted to give her servant a new dress, a policeman came and inspected the girl's wardrobe.

Russia May Shift Burden Here.

The possible extent of the disaster to the Allies if Russia went back upon her pledged word was reflected in the opening of Major Gordon's talk on "Pointing Out the Road We Must Follow." He said that such an act by Russia would neutralize much of what the Allies had done and were doing.

"If Russia should go back now," he said, "the British blockade would be ineffective, and the great warehouses of Russia would be opened to Germany. Who knows what might happen? Not that the present Government is not true; but will it be able to control those millions of untutored men, emotional and susceptible to demagogic influences?

"It may be that the weight of battle will fall on America. It seems to me an awful thing, after England has taught the folly of delay in preparations, if that lesson is not learned. These days should be a time of earnest, feverish, and immediate preparation in America. The alternative is, will you fight when the Allies are strong or wait until they are worn down and do it alone?"

If the British fleet were destroyed by some unforeseen happening, he said, this country might have a taste of the frightfulness visited upon Belgium.

"You might see those things in New York and the villages about New York," he continued, "for frightfulness in New York would be the same as frightfulness in Belgium, only, because of opportunity, a little richer. German cult is this: only one big nation to show the world how to live. We believe in the right of every nation to live its own life."

German crimes against women were not the result of lack of discipline, Major Gordon said. Discipline went with frightfulness, and every German crime against a woman was, he charged, "ordered by some devil who stands high in Germany."

"You may not be called to pay that [illegible]ce, but you will pay in war," he said. "You will pay in the blood of your sons. It is the conviction of all men that America will be worthy and stand fast in her day of trial."

Upholds Draft Precautions.

George McAneny, the last speaker, said that in a city of such varied population as New York it was to be expected that there would be opposition to the draft, and many had believed there would be plenty of trouble here. That there had not been spoke well, he said, for the effectiveness of the steps taken by the City Government. He prophesied that a united people would do their full duty. "No measure that the Government may take," he said, "can be too harsh or vigorous to put down opposition of any kind to registration." He also declared there was no more substantial investment than the Liberty Bonds, and predicted the loan would be over-subscribed.

3 AMERICAN SHIPS SUNK BY U-BOATS

Sailing Vessels Attacked Without Warning and Destroyed by Bombs and Gunfire.

ONE SAILOR IS DROWNED

U-Boat Commander Tells Crew of the Dirigo to "Steer by the Wind; Land Is Not Far Off."

LONDON, June 1.—Three American sailing vessels have been sunk by German submarines in the last few days, according to announcements made today by the British Admiralty. The vessels destroyed were the Dirigo, the Frances M. and the Barbara. The sinkings were attended by the loss of one life, John Ray, the third mate on the Dirigo being drowned while launching one of the lifeboats. All three vessels were attacked without warning.

A statement issued by the British Admiralty said that the Dirigo was attacked by gunfire by a German submarine, which gave no warning. The vessel was subsequently sunk by bombs, after it had been ransacked by the crew of the submarine. The sinking occurred on May 31 and the crew, with the exception of Ray, was landed at Plymouth.

The Dirigo was attacked at 7 o'clock in the morning. The weather was fine, although hazy. The men were rescued before 9 o'clock. Joseph G. Stephens, American Consul at Plymouth, is caring for the survivors.

The Frances M. was attacked by gunfire on the morning of May 18, according to a report from Cadiz given out today by the Admiralty. All the members of the crew are now at Cadiz.

Another Admiralty report said that the Barbara was attacked by gunfire of a German submarine at 7 o'clock on the morning of May 24. All the members of the crew were landed at Gibraltar.

PLYMOUTH, England, June 1.—Captain Urquhart of the Dirigo was asleep in the chartroom when the attack was made. He rushed for the deck to find the mate giving orders to abandon the ship. One boat with eleven men was in the water as the Dirigo was still under way, and it was while he was attempting to reach the boat that Third Mate Ray fell overboard and was drowned.

The Dirigo was hit by the third shot fired from the submarine. Then the U-boat commander ordered her alongside the submarine, and an American boat was used to carry German sailors to the Dirigo, which was blown up by bombs after all her papers had been seized.

"Steer by the wind; the land is not far off," was the parting salutation of the submarine commander to the Dirigo's crew. The sailors were finally picked up by a fishing boat and brought here.

The Dirigo was a four-masted sailing vessel of 3,005 tons, owned by C. C. Mengel Brothers of Louisville, Ky. She sailed from New York on May 3 for Havre, in command of Captain J. A. Urquhart, and carried a crew of thirty-one men, nine of whom were American citizens. She carried a cargo of mahogany logs and other material valued at $500,000.

The records of the United States Commissioner of Shipping in New York give the following names of the Americans in the crew: Donald E. McDonald, mate, Nova Scotia, naturalized; A. Anderson, second mate, Danish, naturalized; J. M. Ray, third mate, Maryland; Y. Yucasta, engineer, 96 Madison Avenue, New York; J. P. Shields, boatswain, New York; A. Winter, seaman, 326 State Street, Brooklyn; Harry Barim, seaman, French, naturalized; Chester Wright, seaman, McAllister, Okla.; J. Trate, seaman, 229 West Sixty-second Street, New York.

The vessel was insured for $250,000, her full value.

The Frances M. was owned by Cummings Brothers of Philadelphia. She sailed from New York on April 7 for a European port, and carried a crew of nine men, including the following Americans: Captain Charles Penniwill, Bath, Me.; John E. Rogers, mate, Philadelphia; August F. Lang, engineer, Philadelphia, and Oscar Tate, Ivandale, Va. The vessel was built at Phippsburg, Me., in 1896. She registered 1,229 tons and was 204 feet long.

The schooner Barbara, owned by the Foreign and Domestic Transportation Corporation of New York, was last reported as sailing on March 20 from Port Arthur, Texas, for Spezia, Italy, with a cargo of case oil. The vessel was built at Chelsea, Mass., in 1909, and was 185 feet long, of 838 tons gross. Prior to the war she was engaged in coastwise traffic between North Atlantic and Gulf ports.

The Barbara carried a crew of eleven men, in command of Captain F. E. Laury. Other Americans on board were: J. Johnson, second mate, Harrisburg, Penn.; P. Walton, seaman, Chicago; Harry Stone, steward, Colorado; Mrs. F. E. Laury, assistant navigator, Thomas Stoker, first mate.

SAFETY FOR NEUTRAL SHIPS

Germany Says They Must Leave British Ports on July 1.

LONDON, June 1.—The German Admiralty has promised a safe passage through the barred zone to all neutral vessels in English ports on July 1, provided they carry distinctive signs and follow indicated routes, according to a Reuter dispatch from Berlin by way of Amsterdam. The announcement reiterates that England has prevented the sailing of neutral vessels from British ports on dates fixed by the German Admiralty as safe, thus hampering the supply of food to neutral countries.

It adds that, since the German sea barrier is raised only against the enemies of Germany, "the German naval command, despite serious military objections, has decided once more to meet the wishes of the neutrals who are suffering through England's arbitrariness, and therefore has given orders that all neutral ships in England shall be granted safe passage through the barred zone on July 1, provided they carry distinctive signs and follow indicated routes."

German assurances of safe conduct to Swedish and Norwegian steamers in British ports on July 1 were announced on Mav 30.

GERMAN HINT TO JAPAN.

Berlin Paper Suggests Deal for the Kiao-Chau Lease.

COPENHAGEN, June 1, (via London.)—From an article in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin it appears that Germany has reconciled herself to the loss of Kiao-Chau, her former Chinese possession, and the South Sea Island colonies, which were captured by Japan.

Commenting on rumors regarding difficulties between Japan and Russia, the newspaper declares that Germany undoubtedly is ready to cede the lease of Kiao-Chau, in direct negotiations with Japan, in return for repayment of the millions spent in making it a German base in the East, and also is willing to discuss the future disposition of the South Sea colonies.

Pacific Corporation Declared Not Rightful Possessor of Occupied Ground West of Tract.

In the opinion of Attorney General Woodbury, much of the property taken by the United States Government for the building of a fort at Rockaway Point belongs to the City of New York and not to private individuals who have sought to sell the land to the city. According to a preliminary report covering the subject made by the Attorney General's office, little of the $2,500,000 set aside by the State to pay for the fort site will be paid to present claimants of title as compared to claims heretofore made, even if it is not decided that the city or the State owns most of the land.

An exhaustive search of title is being continued in the Attorney General's office by Title Examine Henry H. Cameron under the direction of Deputy Attorneys General Anson Getman and Alfred L. Becker. The two important questions which the Attorney General's office is trying to decide are whether the Rockaway Pacific Corporation, the city, or the State owns the lands which are within the fort site, but below high-water mark, and whether a considerable portion of the present point has not been constituted by the annexation to the point of a bar or island which formed in the sea and which has continued, notwithstanding its merging into the point, to be the property of the State.

The Rockaway Pacific Corporation is in possession of the end of the point west of the fort, but the State is preparing to set up the claim that it is the true owner. The city has no possible claim of title to the uplands, it was stated, or to lands below high-water mark on the ocean side, but its claim relates to lands between high and low-water mark on the Jamaica Bay side of the fort. These lands are about one-half of the fort site, and the city will doubtless claim nearly one-half of the award to be made by the Court of Claims.

KEPT THE PATROLMAN BUSY.

Gordon Had to Make So Many Arrests His Check Is Uncashed.

Patrolman John J. Gordon of the Hamilton Avenue Police Station in Brooklyn, while on his way from his home at 420 East Eighty-ninth Street, Manhattan, to the Corn Exchange Bank yesterday afternoon to get his pay check cashed, heard calls for help and ran into the house at 144 East Eighty-sixth Street. On the top floor he found Morris Block, a restaurant keeper, standing in a bedroom of his apartment with a revolver pointed at two young men standing against the wall with their hands above their heads. They had entered his room through the skylight.

Gordon took them to the Harlem Court only to find that the morning session had closed. The prisoners said they were William Buchalter, 16, of 210 East Eighty-fifth Street and Gustav Bohnen, 16, of 1,708 First Avenue. Gordon left them in the prisoners' pen and started out again to cash his check. He was walking through East 124th Street when he again heard screams from the house at 179 and he ran in to find John Brandt struggling with Henry Meyer, who lives at the same address.

"I came in on him after he had packed up my clothes and had taken $2.55 in cash. Arrest him," said Brandt. Gordon took Meyer to court and by the time his pedigree had been taken court reopened. All three defendants were charged with burglary and placed in $1,000 bail for examination this morning by Magistrate Frothingham. Gordon left the court with his check only to find all the banks closed for the day.

TIMELY BOOKS

A BOOK OF INSPIRATION CARRY ON LETTERS IN WARTIME
By Lieut. CONINGSBY DAWSON
Author of "The Garden Without Walls," etc.
Frontispiece. Cloth. Net, $1.00.

These intimate letters, written from dug-outs on the Somme battlefront in the intervals of incessant artillery fire, breathe the very spirit of heroism, and are a challenge to heroism in others. A book of unusual value at the present hour, when many men are being called upon to make great sacrifices for high causes and solemn duties.

A BOOK TO TREASURE
AMERICAN PICTURES AND THEIR PAINTERS
By LORINDA M. BRYANT
With 230 Illustrations. Cloth. Net, $3

In placing before her readers over two hundred examples of paintings by American artists, Mrs. Bryant here gives them a fair working basis for a wider knowledge of American art. The book is suggestive, not critical, with a human element that brings art close to the great heart of the American people.

LIVELY RECOLLECTIONS

The problem of meeting the difficulties of this new phase of our economic existence has been the cause of much scientific investigation, accomplishing more in the last decade than the aimless experimenting of our forefathers achieved in generations. The results of this intensive study are set forth in "Kitchenette Cookery" in a straightforward, concise form that cannot fail to prove of great value to the modern housewife.

This book not only tells what to cook in a kitchenette and how to cook it, but takes up also the more difficult problem, in these days of high prices, of what to buy and how much to buy when cooking for just two persons.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR REGISTRATION

Assembly District Headquarters Opened as Information Bureaus.

TAMMANY GIVES IT AID

Machinery of the Organization Will Be Used to Help in Getting to Polls All Subject to Draft.

The Central Board of Control, at the head of which is Edward F. Boyle, President of the Board of Elections, issued final instructions yesterday to the more than 6,000 registrars, who will register the 600,000 New Yorkers who are subject to the registration provisions of the selective draft law next Tuesday. The instructions are as follows:

Find out at headquarters who your associates are in your election district and get in touch with them before Registration Day.

Learn if an interpreter will be needed, and, if so, secure his service through headquarters, or get one yourself. Interpreters should be citizens.

Registrars will be at their respective registration places at 6:30 A. M. on June 5. If the required number of registrars are not present at the opening hour, notify your assembly district headquarters, either by telephone or by messenger; or, if there is a Notary Public or Commissioner of Deeds present or convenient, and a suitable volunteer, who must be a citizen, have him sworn in at once. Oath for this purpose is inclosed in your supplies.

If the number of applicants become so large that an additional registrar is necessary—act at once. This is very important.

See to it that the "Notice to Registrars" as pasted on your supply envelope is complied with.

Read the Registration Regulations; study that part as set forth on pages 17 to 27.

It is advisable to number registration cards and certificates in advance. Great care should be taken that the number on the certificate given the applicant corresponds with his card. If the registrars will provide themselves with a paper box about the size of a shoe box, it will greatly facilitate the handling of the cards, as shown in Section 54, on page 20, and pages 21 and 22 of the regulations. These cards and instructions should be compared and studied carefully before the summary is begun.

For the final disposition of the cards and summarization blank the attention of the Chief Registrar is called to notice pasted on envelope. Obtain a receipt for same when delivered to your assembly district headquarters.

The Assembly District Board is in direct supervision of registrars. If any information is wanted or supplies required, call on them at once.

Ascertain the telephone number and location of assembly district headquarters and post this information in the registration place for your own convenience and for the public generally.

The headquarters of the boards which will be in charge of the registration in each of the sixty-three Assembly districts in New York City were opened at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in public school buildings. The locations of the headquarters were published in THE TIMES yesterday. These Assembly district headquarters will be open today from 4 to 9 P. M., and again during the same hours on Monday. They will be in session all day Tuesday.

In addition to the work of supervising the registration the boards are also serving as information bureaus where any person who must register under the law can get any information he desires by applying at the headquarters. Maps giving the boundaries of each election district are in each of the Assembly district headquarters.

All the machinery of Tammany Hall was placed at the service of the Government yesterday to aid in bringing out a full and successful registration. The organization issued this statement:

"In order to quicken to the greatest possible extent the patriotism of young and old on the eve of registration for the new national army, every available resource of Tammany Hall will be brought into play next Monday evening. Forty mass meetings, to be addressed by more than 200 speakers, will be held on that night throughout Manhattan. Thirty-five of these meetings are to be held in the assembly district headquarters of the New York County Democratic Organization. Five others are to be held in large public halls.

Suits for Men and Young Men of "Gimbel Standard"
$16.50

Did you not read a clothing "ad" in the "Saturday Evening Post," or some other good weekly, some time ago and feel pretty well convinced that you would like to try "that" brand next time?

No doubt you did, for very few men don't read at least one good magazine.

No doubt you read about "Gimbel Standard" Suits for men and young men! For more than a score of America's foremost clothing manufacturers (national advertisers) contribute to the Gimbel assortments.

1000 "Gimbel Standard" Suits Were Put on Sale at $16.50 Yesterday Morning as a Week-End Special.

"Gimbel Standard" Suits at $16.50! Sounds incredible after what we've said about "Post" ads., etc.

But it's true! The suits of more than a score of famous makers. The exclusive style features, the fabrics, the patterns that have sold under labels that are famous everywhere—suits that measure up to the "Gimbel Standard" at $16.50.

Embraced are—

Blue Flannels, Plain Browns, Greens, Blues and Greys, Checks, Black and White Stripes and Blue and White Stripes, Plaids, Fancy Mixtures, and BLUE SERGES. One-quarter, one-half and full lined. Sizes for all.

No values, you will observe, are quoted. None are necessary,—the Clothes are "Gimbel Standard."

How the Military Draft Will Affect You

Tuesday, June 5th, 1917, will be Registration Day under the selective draft law.

It is expected that it will give the United States Government a list of 10,000,000 men (including those who have taken out first citizenship papers) of ages ranging from twenty-one to thirty years. From this list the first 500,000 men of the new national army will be selected to begin training about September 1st.

THE LITERARY DIGEST for June 2d gives all the available official and unofficial information which throws light on the many points in the actual operation of the draft law. The article shows the questions that will be asked and how they must be answered; who must register and where; the penalties for failing to register or for making false statements at registration whether about oneself or another person; those who are exempt, and how exemption claims must be made. Sickness or physical disability of any kind does not excuse absence or failure to register. The Canadian Government has closed the border to American citizens of military age until after Registration Day.

No date in the history of the country is fraught with more significance than will be June 5th, 1917, for on that day, as the New York Evening Mail states, "will be laid the foundation for the great bulwark that the American people have pledged themselves to build in the defense of the liberties of the world."

If you would save yourself inconvenience, not to say future anxiety, be sure to buy and read THE LITERARY DIGEST for June 2d. The information alone which the leading article contains directly affects a great proportion of the American people.

To Test "The Digest" Is to Prove Its Worth

The dictionaries define news as fresh information regarding something that has recently happened. This implies that news, to be worthy of the name, must be up to the minute, must cover actual events, and must be bona-fide. The average man who confines his newspaper reading to one or two newspapers gets only a confused perspective. He reads "as in a glass, darkly," and is naturally befogged.

There is one periodical which sweeps away every cloud of doubt and mirrors back the sunlight of truth by giving all sides and every angle of the world's news-reports. This is THE LITERARY DIGEST, which presents all view-points impartially, advocating none, giving the actual, unvarnished facts, and leaving you to form your own judgments. Test it and prove its worth.

Electricity—the Friend of Man, and Also the Foe of Man

WHEN harnessed up by science it is one of Nature's most valuable gifts. When it is not under control, it often spells ruin. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. We all know dyspepsia arises from immoderate eating; but it is also unhealthful to eat too little. Over-indulgence in anything is bad. Because of this we were given the heaven-born power of reasoning, in the not-too-much of anything.

Our sovereign brew BUDWEISER has for sixty years been a beverage of sane moderation. It has untold numbers of friends in every civilized land because of its Purity, Quality, Mildness and exclusive Saazer Hop Flavor. BUDWEISER sales exceed other beers by millions of bottles.

CHORUS OF 1,500 SINGS 'CREATION'

Community Music Conference Gives a Gala Oratorio Performance at Hippodrome.

5,000 IN PATRIOTIC SONGS

Vast Audience Joins in National Airs—Organization to Lead Armies' Singing in Camps.

This country's first National Conference on Community Music ended its two days' sessions at the Hotel Astor yesterday, when the 250 delegates voted a permanent national organization, that shall lead the nation and its armies singing patriotic songs in the training camps as the most direct service that musicians can render in the war. Then the conference adjourned to a great concert last night at the Hippodrome, where the 1,500 members of the Community Chorus of New York and neighboring New Jersey towns gave a performance of Haydn's "Creation" on a scale rarely attempted in New York.

More than 5,000 joined in popular and patriotic songs at the close of the oratorio itself, the house calling for some that were not down on the program, like the "Blue Danube" waltz, and others, such as "Dixie," that Leader Harry Barnhart had omitted in order to get the vast audience started home before midnight. Florence Hinkle, Dan Beddoe, and Frederick Gunther were soloists in "The Creation." Kitty Cheatham spoke and added Mrs. Stetson's "Love's Lullaby" to the later songs. Then the big crowd stood up for Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus and "The Star-Spangled Banner," with which the night ended, just as it had begun with "America."

The chorus, rising in twenty-four rows, fifty and more in a row, to a painted "sky" at the back of the Hippodrome's stage, looked like an army on review, the men in obvious minority seated forward at centre with an orchestra of a hundred around the conductor. Mr. Barnhart was dressed in white flannels for a strenuous occasion. He achieved really remarkable results of pianissimo and swelling tone at appropriate points in Haydn's music. "The Heavens Are Telling," at the close of the first part of the oratorio, aroused great applause, and so did the favorite solos, "With Verdure Clad" and "In Native Worth," and the final "Praise Forever."

The audience had its turn to sing Mrs. Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and it carried alone a stanza of "Old Black Joe," while those on the stage listened and applauded. Then there were "Home, Sweet Home," and some new American songs for a stanza apiece, including C. T. Griffes's "These Things Shall Be," Bessie Merz's "Prince of Peace," Mrs. Stetson's "Our America," and Arthur Farwell's "Joy, Brothers, Joy," and "March, March."

Mr. Farwell was elected President of the new national organization for community music yesterday, and was present with others of the delegates in the boxes last evening.

Lee F. Hammer of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, was a speaker at the midday meeting. He told of the desire of the Secretary of War to provide the young recruits with clean and wholesome recreation, and of the stimulating effect of songs upon men on the firing line.

Claude Bragdon of Rochester described the festivals of "Song and Light," that have become a feature of popular celebrations of holidays and patriotic occasions since the Community Chorus movement began its spread to many cities of the United States.

Mrs. David A. Campbell and Miss Frances Brundage of Chicago, were other speakers of the closing sessions, as was also Arthur Nevin of the University of Kansas. The organization of work in the training camps is to be begun at once as a result of the conference.

BACH FESTIVAL BEGINS.

Moravian Choir in Cantatas Heard for First Time in America.

BETHLEHEM, Penn., June 1.—The twelfth Bach festival by the Moravian Choir opened today at Lehigh University with an attendance that equaled any in the history of the festivals. The cantatas of today's program, under Dr. J. Fred Wolle, seven in number, together with a motet, "The Spirit Also Helpeth Us," were believed to be heard here for the first time in America. From the tower of Packer Memorial Church on the campus, each session was summoned by the trombone choir, an institution of the Moravian community of Bethlehem for 160 years.

Among the attendants at the festival, both afternoon and evening, were Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston, T. M. Spring-Rice of the British Embassy at Washington, Count C. T. Bonde of the Swedish Legation, Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem and New York, Fullerton L. Waldo of Philadelphia, Ernest H. Abbott of The Outlook, H. T. Finck, Pitts Sanborn, and Maurice Halperson.

The soloists included Marie Stoddart, Mildred Faas, and Marie Morrissey of New York, Grace Harden of Westfield, N. J.; Nicholas Douty of Philadelphia, Charles T. Tittmann of Washington, and Louis Kreidler of Chicago.

Tomorrow's sessions will be devoted to Bach's B minor mass, given for the tenth time in less than a score of years by the Bethlehem Choir, whose history goes back to the days when Benjamin Franklin heard it in 1756, and to a first American production of Haydn's "Creation" in 1811.

FREMSTAD BACK IN OPERA.

Will Appear at Metropolitan Next Winter—Other Singers.

Olive Fremstad, whose engagement at the Metropolitan next season was lately rumored and denied on successive days, announced through her concert managers, Forster & David, yesterday that she will return to opera on Broadway during January and February, 1918. The rest of the Winter she will devote to a concert tour. Mme. Fremstad first appeared at the Metropolitan in 1903, reaching a sensational climax in the one performance of "Salome," Jan. 22, 1907, and taking her leave of the institution on April 23, 1914, in a remarkable speech.

Mme. Fremstad is the first of many American artists to confirm the persistent reports of a large increase in Metropolitan casts of native or naturalized singers, in part resulting from the war. Besides May Peterson and Florence Easton-Maclennan, already announced, a well authenticated rumor mentions Julia Claussen, contralto, and Clarence Whitehill, baritone, for next season, and Charles Hackett, tenor, in 1918-19.

Ipolito Lazaro, a young Spanish tenor, and José Mardones, a basso, heard with the Boston troupe, are two others with whom the Metropolitan Directors have been negotiating. It is likely that a longer term than five performances, as now agreed upon, will be arranged in the case of the biggest star thus far added to the company, John McCormack.

The Road of Ambition

AMERICAN FACES TRIAL IN CHINA FOR SEDITION

Dr. Gilbert Reid, Editor of the Peking Post, Held in United States Court for Libeling the President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Dr. Gilbert Reid, an American, editor of the Peking Post, is to be tried in the United States Court at Shanghai for seditiously libeling President Wilson, according to a report received here today. The American Minister to China warned Dr. Reid that he was likely to come into conflict with American law if he continued to edit a newspaper supported by German funds.

The editorial utterance upon which the charge is based appeared in the Peking Post on April 7, and said in part:

> The people have had no more to do with America's entrance into the war than the peoples of the countries of Europe in the belligerent status of their own Governments. And the Kaiser of Germany showed no more symptoms of autocracy in getting Germany into the great war than has President Wilson in getting the United States into the war. The six Senators who have stood out against any form of a declaration of war on Germany are probably the same six as opposed in early February the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. A noble and brave band.
> If America had been looking only to the right and had never thought which side would probably win, or ought to win, for America's future safety, then Congress, while declaring a status of belligerency with Germany, would at the same time have declared the same status with Great Britain.

Two days after the appearance of the publication, Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, the American Minister, sent to Dr. Reid a letter of warning. He had previously written him that he could take no cognizance of Dr. Reid's position as long as he was editor of a paper devoted to the interests of a nation with which the United States had broken off diplomatic relations.

DIVORCE FOR DR. J. V. YOUNG

New York Specialist Alleges Desertion in Action in Reno.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., June 1.—Dr. John Vandoren Young, a New York surgeon and specialist, got a divorce here today on the grounds of desertion. He also alleged extreme cruelty, but the charge was not gone into.

Dr. Young asserted his wife left him on July 15, 1915, saying that she was going to visit her brother and not return. Five months prior to that, he said, she called him on the telephone when he was performing an operation to tell him that she would be occupying a separate apartment when he came home. She kept her word, he said.

An old love affair, according to Dr. Young, caused his wife to leave him. He said that after her departure he was called upon to pay bills aggregating $20,000 she had contracted for wearing apparel for herself, her brother and mother.

ASKS BILLION FOR MINISTERS

Monell Sayre Suggests Pension Fund for All Denominations.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 1.—A billion-dollar pension fund for ministers of all denominations was suggested by Monell Sayre, formerly chief of the Pension Bureau of the Carnegie Foundation, at the annual session of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, held here today. Mr. Sayre, who aided in the organization of the $8,500,000 fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church, said he believed many philanthropists could be induced to give millions to such a fund.

The Rev. Dr. Charles E. MacFarlane, General Secretary of the Federation of Christian Churches, asserted that the appointments of army chaplains were made through political influence, and urged that the right to nominate regimental ministers be given to the federation.

Holy Cross Degree for McCormack.

John McCormack is to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature at the commencement exercises of Holy Cross College at Worcester, Mass., on June 20. The Irish tenor has just had official notice of a vote to that effect by the Holy Cross Faculty. He will be the first singer, it is said, to hold the title of Litt. D. from an American college or university.

JOHN SPARGO QUITS THE SOCIALIST PARTY

cepted principles of international socialism to declare that the war now going on, the issue between the two groups of powers, is 'no concern of the workers'? What is it but a denial of nationalism—without which there can be no internationalism—to say that the only struggle which would justify the workers taking up arms is the social war; that therefore all struggles for national independence are unjustifiable? What is it but a fundamental departure from the socialism of Marx and Engels, of Liebknecht and Jaures, to urge equally upon Belgian and German workers to 'withdraw all support from their Governments'? Is it not clear that the Belgian Government in defending its territory and people against unwarranted invasion merited the support of all Belgian Socialists, upon Socialist grounds, while the German Government, engaged in a dastardly violation of the sovereignty of a peaceful and friendly neighbor, merited the opposition of the German Socialists to the end of their power? To contend otherwise is to set socialism against the moral sense of mankind; even von Bethmann Hollweg, admitting the grave wrong done to Belgium, manifested in that moment of unwonted candor a keener appreciation of the essentials of internationalism and socialism than did our National Emergency Convention.

"The resolution adopted by the convention, and which appears likely to receive the indorsement of the membership, declares that 'In all modern history there has been no war more unjustified than the war in which we are about to engage.' One thinks of the Franco-Prussian war, the Boer war, and the miserable land-grabbing Italian-Turkish war over Tripoli, to name only a few modern wars, and concludes that this declaration is the product of hysterical rather than historical minds.

For Defeat of Central Empires.

"From the opening of the great war I have believed and freely said that the best interests of civilization and of international socialism will be served by a definite defeat of the Central Empires. I have believed and said that the victory of German militarism would be a supreme disaster to civilization, a serious check to the International Socialist movement, and a terrible menace to the United States and its democratic institutions. Putting aside all the intricate maze of diplomatic contentions, the struggle from the first has appeared to me to be, in actuality, a conflict between militarist autocracy and democracy. I am well aware that the countries fighting against Germany have their military systems, and that none of them, not even the United States, is a perfect democracy. But I also know that Germany embodies the spirit of militarism in a special and unique way, and that the Entente countries embody the spirit of democracy in a greater degree than Germany or any of her allies.

"Naturally when I have given expression to these views I have been called pro-ally, and the fact that I was born in England and educated there has been offered in explanation. I have been accused of letting my nationalist feelings dominate my internationalism. On the other hand those who have taken the opposite position, and have either excused or defended German acts, or advocated as American policies, in the name of neutrality, the measures which would fit into the plans of Germany and have actually been contended for by the diplomats of the Central Empire, have loudly proclaimed their freedom from nationalist bias, despite their foreign birth and lineage.

Stand by Small Nationalities.

"Internationalism is not antinationalism. Internationalism presupposes nationalism. It is the inter-relation of nations. The maintenance of national integrity and independence is an essential condition of internationalism. This principle has not been seriously called into action in our movement hitherto. It has been the guiding principle of our policies. That is why we have always stood by the small nationalities in their struggles for independence. We have supported the people of Ireland, of Finland, of Poland, of Bohemia, and of India, in their struggles for national independence. Now, we are asked to abandon historic socialism and accept the doctrine that national independence and integrity is worthless, if not positively wrong, and that the workers do wrong to defend it. Of course, this propaganda admirably serves the purposes of aggressive military powers.

"When I came to this country of my own volition, because it appeared to me to offer greater opportunities for my work than did the land of my birth, the rights and advantages I then acquired carried with them certain obligations to this nation, and when later I took the oath of citizenship I did so without any reservation whatsoever. I repudiate the claim that loyalty to this nation is inconsistent with true internationalism. Loyal support to this nation in the present war is coincident with loyalty to the fundamental institutions without which there can be no Socialist organization of the world. The issue is not loyalty to a ruler or to a Government, but to the fundamental institutions of American democracy, which, however imperfect, is the most advanced yet developed in the world.

"Withdrawal from the Socialist Party is not an easy matter for me. For more than a quarter of a century, ever since my boyhood, I have been in the ranks of the organized Socialist movement. In it are centred nearly all of my friendships, and severance from it virtually means the beginning of life all over again. If I could have retained my intellectual integrity and self-respect and avoided the sacrifice which I needs must make, I would have done so. With the greatest possible reluctance I have been forced to the conclusion that I cannot honestly remain in the party."

Dean Bell Also Resigns.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The Rev. Bernard Iddings Bell, dean of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral at Fond du Lac, Wis., has tendered his resignation from the Socialist Party because he disapproves of party policy with reference to the war. In a statement he says:

"In the midst of this war the Socialist Party has made such utterances as are intolerable to me and to many others who are Socialists. Socialism will come, but not through the spread of Hapsburg or Hohenzollern kultur."

Union Men Table Peace Indorsement

The efforts of Benno Weinstein, representing the Sign Painters' Union, at the regular weekly meeting of the Central Federated Union in Labor Temple, 234 East Eighty-fourth Street, last night, to introduce a resolution indorsing the peace meeting of Socialists and others held at Madison Square Garden on Thursday night were unsuccessful when the meeting unanimously voted to lay the resolution on the table without discussion. Only routine matters were considered. William A. Walsh presided.

HUNGARIANS' PEACE VIEWS.

Want Germany to Indemnify Belgium, but Not if It Prolongs War.

STOCKHOLM, June 1, (via London.)—Immediate peace on the basis of no annexations and no indemnities and complete political restoration of occupied territories is advocated by the delegation of Hungarian Socialists which has come to Stockholm to attend the meeting of Socialists from belligerent countries who are now holding group conferences.

Regarding Belgium, the Hungarian group at today's conference urged the cost of restoration should be borne by Germany, although if persistence in this demand meant prolongation of the war, the cost should be shared by all the great belligerents. Serbia, too, in the opinion of the delegates, should be restored by the great belligerents. The question of Alsace-Lorraine, the Hungarians believe, might be settled between the Socialists of France and Germany.

On the other points the views of the delegation conform generally to those of the Austrian and German Socialists, as outlined at their group conferences.

URGES AUTONOMY FOR ALL.

Austrian Poles Favor a Declaration That Belligerents Favor It.

AMSTERDAM, June 1, (via London.)—According to a Vienna dispatch today, the Polish Club has decided to authorize Deputy Daszinski, in agreement with other parties, to introduce an urgent motion in the Lower House of the Austrian Parliament, declaring that both belligerent parties now recognize the right of nations to govern themselves as the foundation of a lasting peace.

The resolution, the dispatch adds, summons the Government in the name of the House to do everything possible "with all States and peoples who desire peace on the basis of an understanding among the nations, to render such a peace possible in the immediate future."

Peace Demonstration in Vienna.

COPENHAGEN, June 1, (via London.)—Reports from Vienna say that simultaneously with the opening of the Austrian Parliament thousands of workmen ceased work and attended meetings in different parts of the city. A great procession was organized, which paraded the streets as a demonstration for peace.

RIBOT REFUSES AID TO SOCIALISTS

parties there and impress upon them the necessity of avoiding anything in the nature of a separate peace, and also to urge the desirability of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council appointing delegates to a London conference.

In reviewing this decision today the committee faced the fact that Henderson has since been sent to Petrograd as a direct representative of the War Cabinet, thus necessitating a change in the personnel of the deputation. In addition to this it was thought desirable that none of the delegates should be open to the charge that he held an official position, which points to the exclusion of Roberts.

The committee further decided to instruct the deputation to call at Stockholm on the way to Petrograd in order to lay before Branting, leader of the Swedish Socialist Party, the attitude which the British Labor Party had taken up toward the war.

The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council in Petrograd has distributed its invitation to the Labor and Socialist Parties in this country with impartiality. Besides the Independent Labor and the British Socialist Parties, the Fabian Society will send a delegation, of which, it is said, Hyndman himself may be a member.

Secretary Appleton of the General Federation of Trade Unions stated this afternoon that the federation had decided to send delegates to the Stockholm conference.

Although such delegates as may desire to do so will have an opportunity on the way to or from Petrograd of exchanging views with the Dutch-Scandinavian Socialist committee, which is acting as a sort of clearing house in Stockholm for the Socialist peace efforts, no official recognition of the projected "International" is implied in the issue of passports for Petrograd.

The pacifist elements in England are straining every nerve. The British Socialist Party has called a meeting at Leeds on Sunday. It is receiving little public attention, and although some observers maintain that the pacifist cause has made some headway in recent months, it is but a small fraction in the mass of the public opinion of the country.

One of the reasons which, it is understood, influenced the British Government to grant passports to Ramsey MacDonald and his colleagues of the minority section of the British Labor Party is that no fears are held of the influence which they can exert upon Russian opinion, particularly when the real determination of the nation can be expressed by men of the standing of Henderson.

James O'Grady, a Labor M. P., who recently returned from a mission in Petrograd, emphasizes in an article in The Clarion his optimistic views in regard to the future of Russia.

"The great giant, Russia," he writes, "has, after centuries of travail, broken the shackles of despotism, I believe, forever. That sentence will be taken as implying there is no danger of reaction. It does emphatically. It does not mean, though, that the reactionaries are obliterated, or that they will not attempt a counter-revolution to refasten the shackles.

"I am just as emphatic that an attempt will be made, but those efforts will be as futile as Germany's efforts to enslave peoples whose freedom is centuries old.

"Every man, woman, and child in Russia is inhaling with joy the new social atmosphere, and I am glad to say, if one can so state from a brief sojourn in Russia, without any intoxicating effect, only the natural one."

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Saturday, June 2.—British participation in Stockholm and Petrograd meetings figures prominently in the morning newspapers. The Daily Telegraph says it learns that John R. Clynes, Labor member in the House, is likely to take the place of Roberts as a delegate of the majority Labor Party.

According to The Daily News all the delegations will travel together to Petrograd and all will stop in Stockholm on the way. These conferences, it is stated, will not, as far as the majority party Laborites are concerned, involve any reversal of the recent decision of the party not to participate in a conference of the kind, proposed by the Dutch and Scandinavian committee.

The Executive Committee of the party is said to resent keenly the insinuation that their going to Stockholm would compromise the British cause, but they believe the air will be cleared by a straightforward presentation of their views.

The belief is expressed that the Stockholm conference, as originally conceived, will not be held now at all, but will be superseded by an international conference, called by the Russian Socialists. Such a conference may not meet in Stockholm, but rather in Christiania.

"GOOD" BUYING OF THE LOAN.

When anything is bid for in $75,000,000 lots, the buying is what the sophisticated call "good," meaning good enough to be imitated without asking why. People who buy in hundreds or thousands instead of in millions can make no mistake in following where the leadership is so good. "Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to haste and buy." And yet there's no scarcity of reasons. Rather there are so many reasons that it is difficult to say which is best. One may be mentioned because only the enlightened few see it, as yet.

Emphasis has been placed upon the fact that the United States undertakes to repay all dollars paid, with 3½ per cent. interest. That makes the bonds better than greenbacks, which carry no interest. The greenbacks, or gold certificates, or other sort of currency, could be put in safe deposit and brought out when they will buy more than now, but there would be a loss of income while waiting for gold to be worth more than it is now. There can be no need of proof that gold is cheap now. The high cost of living is one proof of it. When other things are dear, gold is cheap. It is not now cheap for ordinary reasons, such as the world is familiar with. Neither economic reaction nor disturbance of credit explains the present cheapness of gold.

The reasons are such as the world never before experienced. Neutral nations are hungry at the same time that they have so much gold that they are putting obstacles in the way of its import, and paying a premium upon its export in exchange for other goods which are now dear. But the goods cannot be got for the gold, not even the most pressing necessities of life or trade. There is a mechanical obstacle more effective than the financial ever was. There are not ships enough to carry commerce, and there are pirates who prevent the free sailing of such ships as there are. There never was a situation like that before, simply because never before was there a war involving the entire commercial and financial world.

While this is the case with the neutrals, it is stronger with the belligerents. The belligerents, including ourselves, are showing feverish haste in putting to use substitutes for gold. It is difficult to comprehend or to believe the simple fact that during this war there has been borrowed, and mostly spent, five times as much gold as the total production in historic times. That explains the highness of prices in paper. At the moment, the paper seems to cost nothing and is paid out with corresponding liberality. Needless to say, it costs more than will be paid in many generations, to say nothing of the cost of the more precious blood spent with equal liberality. The world is paying a great price, the greatest ever paid for anything, for deliverance from Kaiserism, and it would be cheap at a greater price. All that a man hath will he give for his life, and the life of democracy is on the butcher's block. Never in any future which can be foreseen will there be regret that the price of freedom from Kaiserism has been paid, whatever it may be. Not until the world's freedom has been redeemed will it appear what this has to do with making the Liberty Loan the heart's desire of the best judges.

The reason why the Liberty Loan will have a greater value in peace than now is that in peace the world will resume commerce. At present, commerce has been stopped between two great divisions of world nations, and greatly obstructed between both of them and all neutrals. Gold now is cheap because it cannot buy goods. Gold is not needed to buy goods within individual nations. Germany is managing by swapping checks between Germans. Each nation is doing the same within itself, although for different reasons. We are the world's dumping ground for gold now, when other nations must buy here and cannot buy with their paper unless we concede credit terms. With peace all this will change. There can [illegible] cheap and we shall be able to sell it dear; that is, in exchange for goods sacrificed by those who will need gold when they stop printing paper credit and begin redeeming it. Then we shall have an opportunity of service to the world rivaling that we are now performing, so much to our present profit. Our future profit will lie in buying the goods which the world will press upon us, and which it would be inhuman in us to refuse to buy, not to mention the foolishness of it. No man was ever ruined by buying cheap goods. The prodigious wealth demonstrated by England shows hugeness of profits of freedom of trade, surpassing the extortions of protectionism, as demonstrated in the German manner of trade and of war.

It will be seen why the millionaires are buying the Liberty Loan away from the small subscribers, so far as they shall refuse the bargain. The wise ones know that Uncle Sam is selling futures in gold and promising to pay takers while they wait their time to take gold and buy cheap goods, making two profits. It is said that there is nothing sure but death and taxes. There may be some reason, such as the financial world never knew, why the Liberty Loan will not some time be worth more than it is offered for. But this is sure—if that shall happen, it will also be a new experience. The United States never sold a loan which did not thereafter sell at a premium. And that is true although Uncle Sam has seen such hard times that he has had to pay pawnbroker's prices to get credit, so low were his fortunes. The Liberty Loan is offered at 3½ per cent., and the United States has had to pay 15 per cent. As it happens, its credit is highest in the world at the very time that gold is cheapest in all time. There never was such a bargain as the Liberty Loan. Money never yet did such service as the money paid or promised for the Liberty Loan.

THE REGISTRATION.

It seems that by this time every male inhabitant of the United States between the ages of 21 and 31 years should know what the new army law requires of him June 5, but there are indications that the terms of the law have not yet penetrated to the minds of all persons who are subject to it. As in the case of the income tax returns in the first year of the income tax law, men are possessed with the idea that they are to decide for themselves whether or not they are exempt. There is, of course, no exemption from the registration, unless a man of the specified age is already in the military or naval service of the United States. Yet it is more than likely that more trouble will be caused to the Federal Government next Tuesday by well-meaning citizens who think, in spite of all the iteration of the provisions of the law day by day, that they need not register because they have dependent families or are physically incapacitated for military duty than from the anti-draft agitators, who, taken altogether, seem to be a feeble and impotent lot of mischief-makers.

The Government has been working with good results to curb the efforts of the agitators. In every case of conviction the severest penalty should be inflicted. The disloyal movement should be stopped now. Later on it would be more troublesome. The incidents of the last few days indicate that the Department of Justice has the will and the machinery to stop it. There will be no curbing of free speech within the law, but there will be no toleration of sedition or conspiracy. The man who fails to register through ignorance, though the ignorance may be inexcusable and the delay of the enrollment expensive, will doubtless be leniently treated. But the man who deliberately refuses to register will be sentenced to imprisonment for one year and will be forced to register just the same. For the conspirators, male or female, who try to induce men to avoid the registration the penalty will be much more severe. As for persons eligible to the draft who attempt to escape registration by leaving the country, the President's proclamation shows that they will fail in their attempt.

THE FINANCES OF RUSSIA.

An early and separate peace would not only bring the greatest political disaster upon Russia, it would bring about her financial ruin. In order to acquire funds for the payment of interest upon advances made her by her allies and to provide for the gradual retirement of the obligations, and beyond all that in order to reduce the vast volume of her paper currency and give value to the ruble in exchange, her Government, whatever be its nature, must from this time on be guided by safer counsels than have served in the past.

At the beginning of the present year there were eight and one-half billion rubles of paper currency afloat in Russia. The present Government now proposes an additional two billions of rubles, making a total which, at the par value of the ruble, would exceed the total of all forms of currency in the United States. This, of course, on the face of it, is an extreme form of inflation, for the internal business of Russia calls for no such amount of currency as is required in the United States; but while all forms of our currency are as good as gold, [illegible] medium is for the [illegible] Its volume [illegible]

the only way the Government could be kept in funds for the payment of bills. Over six billions of rubles of the outstanding paper was issued to the Treasury by the Imperial Bank, which took the bonds of the Government in exchange. There has been a similar process in Germany, to be sure, but Germany is financially more advanced, her resources are better developed.

This condition of the finances of Russia and the destruction of her export trade sufficiently account for the low quotation of the ruble in exchange. Yet Russia is as far as possible from being a bankrupt nation. Her solvency cannot for a moment be called in question, but all depends upon the wisdom and efficiency of the methods she adopts to bring her boundless resources to the support of her credit. A separate peace would invite ruin at once. She can work out her problem only by honorably keeping her obligations to her allies, and in that way peace will soonest come. Her first measure of relief must come in the increase of her exports. In the fiscal year of 1916 we exported to European Russia goods to the value of $178,694,800, while our imports amounted to only $3,613,986. That deplorable disorder in her foreign exchanges is, of course, a result of the war. She has immense stores of commodities that all the world will need when peace is restored. Large exports will put her in the way of financial salvation, but in order to develop her resources and help her in solving the problem it is evident that she will have need of a good deal of foreign capital for industrial uses.

It will be a long and painful process, but utter financial collapse can be avoided if the new Russian Government will listen to wise advice and profit by the experience of other nations, our own included, in finding a remedy for the evil of paper inflation. The present Government, which is really that of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, will be under powerful temptation to print more and always more paper currency. It may not have the wisdom and firmness to resist. Professing to be a Government of the proletariat and the best friend of the working classes, the Government of the Council would make itself really the worst enemy of all classes in Russia if it should swell the volume of currency beyond hope of redemption. That would bring terrible disasters from which the Russian people would be delivered only after long years. There are some men of sense and soberness in the Ministry. It is to be hoped that they will listen to reason and keep faith with the Allies, putting Russia in a position to expect that outside aid which has become indispensable not only for prosecution of the war but for the solution of her serious financial problems.

A SPEECH FROM THE GOLDEN THRONE.

The speech of the Emperor CHARLES to the Reichsrath was worthy of the Grand Hall of Ceremonies in which he read it. In its length, its meaninglessness, its parade of phrases, it recalls old China or Byzantium. As it falls solemnly and sleepily on the ear you recall KUERNBERGER's saying that Austria "must be comprehended as a kind of Asia." You are dazzled by the golden throne where the divine Hapsburg sits beneath a canopy, a heaven of red and gold. The splendid robes of Cardinals and Archbishops, the brilliance of Court and divers national costumes and uniforms, feed the eye. This is a pageant. It is enough that the Emperor should go through the form of seeming to say something.

Austria has done without a Parliament for three years. It is the Emperor's constitutional duty to assemble it annually. In view of the Russian situation and the fight of "democracies against autocracies," Austria must be democratic, just as Germany has pretended to be, off and on, since Easter. Therefore "the interests of "the State shall no longer be deprived "of that effective furtherance which "zealous co-operation of a popular as-"sembly rightly comprehending its "power, judicious and conscientious, "can provide." CHARLES is going to be a truly constitutional ruler and respect "inviolable liberties," whatever they may be, in Austria. The welfare of the State, the "grim cohesion" of the citizens has convinced him, "cannot be more securely rooted in times "of peace than in the unassailable "rights of a mature, patriotic, and "free people." There is no Austrian "people"; nor can the Austro-Hungarian peoples be considered as politically mature. Germans, Czechs, Poles, Ruthenians, Croatians, Slovenes, Serbs, Magyars, Italians, each is a nation, a people; and not all of them are free peoples. The Emperor reminds the representatives of his peoples that it is his business to conclude peace. That, in fact, is part of his "sublime office."

Austrian parliamentary government, especially since the start of parliamentary obstruction in 1897, has not been democratic. Race and party, not constitutional rights, have been foremost. The Emergency Paragraph in the Constitution makes the Emperor paramount and absolute in effect. Both Germans and Czechs, for race or party reasons, have [illegible]ted the voting of supplies. [illegible] to the Crown, ruling [illegible] a Cabinet responsible to it, [illegible] Parliament, this essential and [illegible] defense of par-[illegible] broadening, hidden in cloudy words, of constitutional and political life:

> A happy development of our constitutional life after the unfruitfulness of the past years and after the exceptional political conditions of wartime—apart from the solution of the Galician question, for which my illustrious predecessor has already indicated the way—is not possible without expanding the Constitution and the administrative foundations of the whole of our public life, both in the State and in the separate kingdoms and countries, especially in Bohemia.

The mention of Bohemia must carry old Czech memories back to 1870 and 1871, when FRANCIS JOSEPH in Rescripts to the Bohemian Diet three times dangled before the Czechs the hope of a Federal Constitution which he would swear to maintain when he came to Prague to be crowned King of Bohemia. He broke the hope. The Magyars and the Germans, clinging to the then young Dual system, brought about with BISMARCK's aid the downfall of the Austrian Premier, HOHENWART, made the scapegoat of the Rescripts. The late FRANCIS FERDINAND was supposed to lean toward the Slavs and some sort of Federalism. The Magyars are more likely to keep on the path of separatism than to consent to an abandonment of Dualism.

A comedy of liberalism is now going on in Hungary; the Emperor's talk about creating "conditions giving "scope to free national and cultural "development of equally privileged "people" may be interpreted in connection with that comedy. He may be a young man of highly liberal mind for a graduate of the archducal school, but the oppression and persecution of Slav peoples have been so familiar and recent in Croatia and Slavonia, in Dalmatia, in Bosnia and Herzegovina, that this sudden ardor for equality is more than suspicious. A "Serb swine" the equal of a Magyar, of a German!

Of course "our group of Powers" didn't begin the war! The complete speech writer, be it Count CZERNIN or some other master of purple ambiguities who sets this trumpet to the imperial lips, outdid himself in this oration concerning peace:

> And, more than that, it [our group] has, from the moment when, thanks to the imperishable achievements of the allied armies and fleets, the honor and existence of our States no longer appeared seriously threatened, openly and without ambiguity made known its readiness for peace, guided by the firm conviction that the true formula of peace can only be found in the mutual recognition that the positions have been gloriously defended.

Belgium, the beauties of submarine warfare, deportations, devastations, massacres, the rage against monuments of civilization, these are parts of a "glorious" defense. Each side has fought well. Let us have peace. The formula is curious. Austria-Hungary is but marking time, hoping with Germany to bamboozle the Russians and keep much of the spoil. "Whoever wishes to reopen better "and more human relations will cer-"tainly find our side ready in a con-"ciliatory spirit." Meanwhile we will fight, if we have to, and meanwhile we cheer up the loyal and somewhat hungry population by polite and cheerful talk and promise. If KARL KRAUSE's Fackel is still going in Vienna, warm should be its ironical delight in the Emperor's hope that the Reichsrath will "promote unanimous collab-"oration among the various races of "the State" and his vision of the moral rejuvenation of Austro-Hungarian political and parliamentary life. So may Budapest become another Emporia.

By order of Governor WHITMAN, the general registration of citizens of New York State for war service, provided for in a law enacted by the Legislature, was postponed until after the completion of the Federal registration for the selective draft. The general State registration will include women as well as men. Women, however, will not register next Tuesday, June 5. There are many things women can do in the service of their country when it is at war, but they will not be drafted for military duty. Their opportunity to express their practical patriotism by registering will come later in the month of June. This explanation seems necessary, for, to judge from letters received by THE TIMES, there is some confusion in the public mind because of the two registrations.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Patents as Affected by the War.

Precisely to what degree a country that desires and intends honestly to observe international law with respect to private property should refrain from violating patents issued or recognized by itself as belonging to the citizens of a country with which, later, it goes to war—that is a question of no little delicacy.

On the one hand, it obviously would not be justifiable simply to ignore the rights thus created and to manufacture the patented articles, regardless of the losses thus inflicted on the owners of the patents. That would be in effect the confiscation of property not contraband and belonging to private persons, and civilized nations do not do that. On the other hand, some articles thus protected are necessary or essential to the public welfare, and no nation, if able to make them for itself, could reasonably be expected to carry scrupulosity so far, in such a case, either as to do without them altogether, while a long war lasted, or even to pay the enormous prices created by the smallness of the obtainable supply.

This problem has been raised in regard to several products, notably some very important medicines, in the manufacture of which the Germans and their agents have had a [illegible] here under our patent laws. [illegible] one that prevents the almost intolerable deprivations that would follow a too meticulous respect for the letter of the law, and at the same time gives a decent recognition to the rights which survive even in war. The expedient devised was to suspend the patent restrictions until the return of peace, keeping, meanwhile, an official account of the profits made and leaving an equitable division of them to be made in the treaty under which the relations of the present belligerents ultimately will be resumed.

The task of doing this in the case of certain German synthetics has been suggested to Congress in resolutions just adopted by the Public Health Committee of the New York Academy of Medicine. As expert advice can easily be obtained, little time would be required for attending to what is really a very important matter. Of course there will be protests from the Germans and their friends, but to those protests no attention need be paid by our legislators.

Hoarding Needs Definition.

It would be highly expedient for Congress, before it passes a law penalizing the villains who hoard food at a time like this, to agree upon an explanation of the crime it intends to punish. The verb "to hoard" has many meanings, and the thing itself can have an almost infinite number of degrees, some of them certainly vicious, but others not a few that we have been wont to regard as justifiable or even virtuous.

Today, for instance, the householder who used to feel the thrill of conscious rectitude as the result of laying in his Winter supply of coal at this season of the year finds himself scolded as a public enemy when he attempts to follow his usual practice, and if he persists in doing it the coal dealer, by making him pay a famine price—though there is no famine—forces him to realize the enormity of his incivism. Most often, however, the dealer asks, "Do you need furnace coal now?" and, on hearing a reluctant and insincere "No" in reply, says, "Well, then you can't have it."

That has been the recent experience of many a suburbanite apprehensive of next Winter's cold, and never will he be able to understand why it is "hoarding" to fill his modest bins in decent anticipation of his inevitable wants. The last of his desires is to sell his little stock, if he can get it.

A situation already puzzling enough has been made altogether incomprehensible by Senator SHERMAN's declaration that hoarding in its worst form—the form he most wants to stop—is that of a German agent here who has been sending out ships laden with grain in order that they might be sunk by submarines, to the decreasing of our food supply and that of our allies. But such ships, if there were any, presumably would be under orders to a port of one or another of our friends, and, as the submarines in the weeks of their greatest successes sink only a small fraction of the ships so bound, even a German plotter would see the unwisdom of that plan.

Certainly the Allies would be glad to have him spend his money in a way so sure to help them without hurting us enough to count.

Instruction for Fly Campaigners.

This is the season when a fly in time saves, not nine, as in the case of stitches, but nine, or perhaps it is ninety, millions of the death-bearing little beasts later on. Killing one of them now, that is, saves humankind from the perils of some such numerous progeny of today's few survivors of the Winter's slaughter. Hence our Board of Health, though it knows and says that flies should be dealt with before they are born, by the abolition of their breeding places, has deemed it worth while to make a careful study of fly poisons for the purpose of ascertaining which ones are at once most effective and least dangerous.

The conclusions reached are set forth in Bulletin 108 of the Hygienic Laboratory, obtainable by all for the asking. From it there is to be learned that, of the substances used for this purpose, potassium dichromate and quassia syrup, though often recommended, are of little value. Formaldehyde in .5 to 1 per cent. solution—which equals 1.25 to 2.5 per cent. of the 40 per cent. solution sold as "formalin"—is distinctly better than the standard arsenite solution. Almost equally efficient as a muscicide, however, and in several ways superior, the bulletin declares, is sodium salicylate in a 1 per cent. aqueous solution. That can be approximated by putting three teaspoonfuls of the salicylate in a pint of water, and the flies are not the more attracted to their fate by the addition of milk or sugar.

No fly poisons of any kind should be necessary in fairly-well isolated houses, and the need for them in closely settled communities arises only from official ignorance or official negligence to use available knowledge. For flies disgrace as well as endanger homes and towns alike. They are an evil of the easily and cheaply preventable sort, and yet they still abound almost everywhere!

The Issue Made Clear.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to thank you for printing on THE NEW YORK TIMES Liberty Loan application forms the kernel of the Declaration of Independence.

> We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Also the heart of Lincoln's Gettysburg address:

> That the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

These, with Mr. Wilson's declaration: "The world must be made safe for democracy," epitomize the issue at stake in the world war.

The line of cleavage between the contestants is widening day by day into an impassable gulf. Between a soulless autocracy, intoxicated with the ambition to extirpate human freedom, ban individual thinking, and to reduce nations to mere groups of manikins registering the autocrat's will, and the United States with its allies battling for the principles so pithily expressed by Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence and by Lincoln at Gettysburg, there can be no peace and no compromise. As Elihu Root has well said, the world cannot be "half slave and half free."

This action of THE TIMES will help to broaden and extend the spirit of democracy and thus aid in welding the allied nations with the cement of a common devotion to the ideal of human liberty.

Your Liberty Loan applications are in form so "taking" that I have at once used up the four in my SUNDAY TIMES, and believe if I had some fifteen or twenty or more that I could get additional subscriptions.

THE BRAVE GERMAN-BORN.

Those Who Believe in the Principles for Which America Fights.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. von Falkenburg is one of ten thousand Germans brave and courageous enough to describe the German warfare as condemned "by the entire civilized and uncivilized world."

The German language newspapers have, since the outbreak of the war, as by command, defended every barbarous act perpetrated by the German military authorities. THE TIMES, The World, and The Tribune were referred to in almost every copy as "Britenblätter," "Im Dienste Englands," &c. In vain have I tried to convince my German friends as to the guilt of the German Government, which has prepared and willed this calamitous war. But I met with insults; they called me one day "an English spy," the next day a "French spy," and a "traitor." A traitor to whom and for what? Merely because I spoke the truth. A "traitor" was anybody who defended America in the controversy in regard to the submarines. All the war news printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES favorable to the Allies were "lies." I have time after time proved to my German friends that THE TIMES printed impartially all news from the belligerent countries, which the German language newspapers have not done, so I was called a "liar," too. They have themselves fomented hostility. They would have become unbearable had Germany won the war, which, fortunately, she will not.

JOHN ZALINSKI.

New York, May 30, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Where, oh, where are the friends of the German Republic? Your long article today states that they invite sympathizers and co-operators.

Born and reared in Prussia, since this hell on earth broke loose I have stood virtually alone among my fellow-citizens of German origin in the desire to see Germany humiliated, not because the French-English-Russians are more congenial, but because of a deeply felt affection for my motherland, which has not been diminished by my long residence in this country.

Pfingsten, das liebliche Fest ist gekommen,
Es gruenen und bluehen Feld und Wald,
Hecken
Singen die neuermunterten Voegel ihr Lied.

What of you, my fellow-citizens, who had not the benefit to be born in Germany? What do you know of the intense joy of the Germans at Pfingsten, at Springtime, when the beauty of nature emotionalizes him to worship of forest, dales, and hills?

What other people on this earth is so fond of romance, poetry, song, and music as the Germans? Take alone that delightful quality of theirs, "Gemüth." There is not a word in English or any other language to translate it. I could still further enumerate other endearing qualities if I could encroach on your allowance of space.

But they possess one contemptible quality which nullifies their many good ones, and that is their monarchical idolatry, with its attendant militarism.

Other peoples have been enslaved into servility. The Germans glorify servility. Their "Unterthansinn" is a menace to the world and its accelerated progress toward democracy. The Germans have to be licked into liberty.

Recruiting Psychology.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Considerable comment on recruiting methods has come to me of late, and I hope you will allow me to emphasize a few points. Condemnation of America or Americans does not bring results. It antagonizes. The American wants to be shown, to be told the necessity for action, to be praised, roused in his patriotism, and enthused. Several times, in conducting meetings, I have been embarrassed and compelled to overcome a handicap by a Britisher and his attack on the Americans as slackers. If they or others will tell the crowd that help is needed, comrades wanted, and then have men of the recruiting party, who know the requirements, step around through the crowd and speak quietly to individuals, results will be obtained. Make the man feel he is a hero—not a criminal—and you get him.

Loans in Australia and New Zealand

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just ventured to draw the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury to the fact that New Zealand a few months ago raised a war loan of over ten million pounds sterling in one issue, and apparently did so with comparative ease. The population there being under one million two hundred thousand, including the Maoris, it meant about double per capita that which is now being asked of the citizens of this country. Australia has raised in three installments £57,490,000 or nearly $300,000,000, each installment being about equal per capita to that which is now being asked here.

Suffragists and Soldiers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with considerable interest a letter by Miss Helen C. Mansfield, appearing in your issue of May 28, which appeared under the head of "Enlistments in the Suffrage States." Far be it from an old bachelor to express any too definite opinion as to why enlistments in the suffrage States are so much heavier than in the States where woman suffrage is not yet granted; but I wonder if it occurred to Miss Mansfield that the men so enlisting did so with the full realization that their enlistment would take them out of the suffrage State, and further to surmise whether the majority of these men so enlisting are married to voters.

The Maine Forgotten?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not a grave reflection on the hearts and heads of the American people that there is no monument here to the American officers and sailors who lost their lives by the blowing up of the battleship Maine?

THE HIGH ADMIRAL SPEAKS.

Now, go ye forth, fair gentlemen,
And sail upon the sea;
And fight beside me, sons of mine,
Who still are one with me!

The spirit of the conqueror
It lieth not in dust,
But still goes on from son to son
Who keepeth our high trust.

Ye name my name, I rise again
Right glad and merrily,
Who for three hundred years have lain
In Cornwall by the sea.

Oh, fair is young Virginia,
And sweet is Caroline;
And well I knew the skies were blue
That shone on me and mine!

As swept the Great Armada
Up from the Spanish sea,
And melted like the morning mist
Before my men and me,

WAR DEPLETES DARTMOUTH

Two-thirds of Student Body at the Front or in Training.

With the departure in the next few days of forty Dartmouth students for service in France with the Third Contingent, American Ambulance Corps, less than four hundred students out of 1,500 will be left in the college. The ranks will be further depleted, it was said yesterday by returning students, as many of the boys are planning to enlist in the army and navy.

A majority of the students entered the various officers' training camps, while more than a hundred went abroad with the other Ambulance Corps. Among those who will sail with the third corps are Stanley B. Jones, son of William O. Jones, Vice President of the National Park Bank; Lewis C. Pounds, a son of Borough President Pounds, and Paul Miner, son of George Miner, a lawyer of this city.

Jones, who has been secretary of the junior class for three years, has held the tennis championship of Dartmouth for the same length of time. He is 21 years old, and lives at 308 East Eighteenth Street, Flatbush. Miner is President of the junior class of 1918, and has won success in athletics. Lewis C. Pounds is a member of several literary societies at the college.

Eight students of the Washington University of St. Louis arrived at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday on their way to join the American Field Service in France. They were Herbert L. Parker, Jr., David Nicholl, James A. Rogers, Jr., Herbert S. Johnson, C. E. Hamlin, M. E. Northrup, R. N. Dodson, and William Carson.

DR. HEYMAN APPOINTED.

New Head of Hospital for Insane on Ward's Island.

Dr. M. B. Heyman, who was Assistant Superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, L. I., for many years, and later medical inspector for the State Hospital Commission, has been appointed Superintendent of the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, on Ward's Island. Dr. Heyman, who took up his new duties yesterday, is the successor of the late Dr. William Mabon. Dr. H. C. Evarts, who became Acting Superintendent after Dr. Mabon's death, will remain at the hospital as Dr. Heyman's assistant.

The new Superintendent will also undertake the rehabilitation of the hospital. In a report to the State Hospital Commission, made last Monday, Dr. Evarts presented many urgent needs of the hospital, saying that as conditions were it was impossible properly to care for inmates and visitors. This report will go before the new State Hospital Development Commission.

Dr. Heyman has been in hospital service for about twenty-five years. He is well-known as an alienist and has been a witness in many important trials. He is Vice President of the State Medical Society, ex-President of the Suffolk County Medical Society, and Auditor of the Medico-Psychological Association.

INSISTS PROTEST AVAILED.

Berlin Says Bernstorff Appeal Had Effect, Despite Our Rebuff.

AMSTERDAM, June 1, (via London.)—A semi-official Berlin dispatch says that the German newspapers assert that Germany's protest to the United States and British Governments regarding the treatment of Count von Bernstorff, retiring Ambassador to the United States, and the officials accompanying him at Halifax has been effective.

The Government of the United States, the dispatch says, strangely enough took the standpoint that it was not formally competent in the premises, as the Germans were traveling with a safe conduct, which was an affair of the British Government.

Nevertheless, the actual result of the German note, supported by accounts of independent eyewitnesses, it is stated, has been that the authorities at Halifax treated German authorities from China and Central America, who returned to Europe by way of the United States, more considerately and courteously than Count von Bernstorff and his party were treated. The dispatch says that the examinations were far more expeditious and that no complaints are being heard at this time.

$23,500,000 INCOME TAX PAID

Collector Edwards Issues May Report for Downtown District.

Income tax payments in the Second, or downtown, Internal Revenue District, including both individual and corporation payments, amounted to $23,500,000 in May, according to a statement given out yesterday by Collector William H. Edwards. These collections represented 12,009 payments.

The Collector estimated that the total amount of income tax, both corporation and individual, in his district for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, would total $71,000,000, $40,500,000 of this being paid by individuals and $30,500,000 by corporations. "This means an increase over the previous year on individual income tax of $26,000,000 and corporation income tax of $21,000,000," the Collector said.

As June 15 is the last day for the payment of individual and corporation income taxes, Collector Edwards said it would be appreciated if taxpayers would make their payments before the last day in order to avoid the customary rush and attending confusion. The Collector also stated that all assessment notices had been sent out of his office with the exception of returns which were erroneous.

Catholics of East Largest Contributors for Propagation of Faith.

Because of the war, Pope Benedict XV. asked branches of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith to refrain from making reports of receipts from different countries, the Right Rev. Mgr. Freri, General Director in this city, announced yesterday when making public the work of the society in the United States in 1916. Liberal support in past years has come from Austria and Germany. Mgr. Freri's report shows American contributions the largest since Catholics here began to contribute to world work in 1840. They amounted to $515,451, or at least a quarter of the sum given by Catholics of all other countries together.

New York, Boston, and Philadelphia Catholics gave almost half of the entire American sum, and even more than half if gifts from Albany and Brooklyn are included. New York gave $101,000, Boston $65,000, and Philadelphia $60,000. Albany Catholics gave $10,400, and Brooklyn $12,200. Cardinal Farley is praised in the report for his interest in the work.

WANTS AID TO GET COAL.

Leader of State's Mayors Appeals to the President.

ALBANY, June 1.—An appeal has been made to President Wilson by Mayor Cornelius F. Burns of Troy, President of the State Conference of Mayors, that the Federal Government take such action as will make it possible for the municipalities to purchase coal at a reasonable price and in such quantities as may be sufficient for their needs.

Mayor Burns wrote that although this was the time of year when city administrations let contracts for their Winter's coal supplies, it was nearly impossible to get dealers to submit estimates because of their inability to guarantee delivery or prices.

"The Municipalities," he informed the President, "must soon make provision for heating the schools and other public buildings and for operating their water plants and other utilities. We, therefore, appeal for your help to avert what will become a serious condition unless prompt and effective action is taken by the Federal Government against apparent discrimination in transportation and inflation in prices. We believe that the time for investigations, promises, and threats has passed and that the situation demands immediate and drastic action."

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY DIVIDES PUBLICISTS

ROBERTS FOR OFFICIAL AID

Conference on Foreign Relations Ends Without Taking Action on Any Question.

The National Conference on Foreign Relations of the United States, which opened at Long Beach Monday evening, closed yesterday with a morning session at the Chamber of Commerce, at which speakers discussed the general subject of "Property Rights and Trade Rivalries as Factors in International Complications, with Special Reference to Investments and Concessions."

The speakers differed as to what should be done to avoid future trouble growing out of international investments, especially the exploitation of the undeveloped resources of backward countries by capitalists of world powers. Extremes of view were represnted by Frederic C. Howe, Commissioner of Immigration, who recommended that capital be permitted to enter foreign fields only at its own risk, and George E. Roberts, Assistant to the President of the National City Bank, who argued that Governments should encourage their citizens to make foreign investments, protect them in their rights, and co-operate in the judicial settlement of international disputes. Stanley K. Hornbeck, Professor of Political Science in the University of Wisconsin; Charles E. Sutton, a mining engineer of this city, and Harry Allen Overstreet, Professor of Philosophy in the City College, made suggestions for the reform of international business.

The closing of the conference came without an attempt to commit it, by resolution or otherwise, to the recommendation of any policy. Those who had submitted resolutions at Long Beach did not push their causes, and the conference adjourned without having been anything more than a series of meetings for the discussion of the foreign relations.

Blames European Powers.

Simeon E. Baldwin, former Governor of Connecticut, presided at the final session. Dr. Howe, the first speaker, identified "dollar diplomacy" with "financial imperialism," and said that the present European war was "in large part the result of the continued conflict and diplomatic intrigue of high finance in Europe, which came into conflict all over the world, especially in Morocco, Persia, and Turkey.

"The best examples of financial imperialism," he said, "are England in Egypt and South Africa, France in Tunis and Morocco, Germany in Turkey and Asia Minor, Russia and England in Persia, and the United States and other countries in Mexico. All of the exploited countries have been penetrated first by representatives of high finance working in harmony with their respective Governments, and followed in time, except in the case of Mexico, with troops to validate the claims of high finance. During the last generation 100,000,000 people have been made subject to the great powers of Europe as a result of financial imperialism, and more than 10,000,000 square miles of territory have been added to England, France, and Germany."

Dr. Howe said that the United States had perhaps prevented the practical dismemberment of China by refusing to participate in the six-power loan. He also said he hoped the war would free Egypt, Tunis, Morocco, Persia, and India.

Professor Hornbeck proposed a policy of regulation, rather than one of hands off, regarding foreign investments. He said that, while other nations had exercised their strength against the weakness of China, the United States had "played a straightforward game."

Mr. Sutton outlined differences between the peoples of North and South America that involved danger to the continuance of friendly relations.

Defends International Finance.

Mr. Roberts followed as a champion of international business protected by Governments. He said:

"International investments are the natural corollary of international intercourse and international trade. Some countries are further advanced industrially than others, and it is mutually advantageous that they shall supply the more backward nations with railroads, docks and other public utilities, and take their pay by the only means practicable, to wit: in Government bonds, or by becoming in a greater or less degree the proprietors or creditors of the enterprises. This is what critics call the exploitation of one country by another. It was under exploitation of this character, at the hands of England, Holland and the other countries of Western Europe, that the development of the United States was so rapidly accomplished, until it is now in position to exploit other countries in turn."

Mr. Roberts said that good results had come to Mexico from American investments when the revolution "stopped the steady and orderly course of progress and engulfed the country in misery and ruin." He added that reports that American interests in Mexico were responsible for the disorders there or had "violated the proprieties of their dual relationship to Mexico and the United States," were untrue. Mr. Roberts said that "we have actually entered upon the greatest and most costly war of our history because the rights of American citizens beyond our borders have been violated."

Professor Overstreet proposed an International Trade Commission organized along the lines of the International Postal Union and the International Commission on Sanitation.

At the close of the meeting the delegates were entertained at a buffet luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce building.

REPUDIATES DR. ION'S CHARGE.

Greek Legation Denies Paxton Hibben Is in King's Pay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Greek legation issued a formal statement today denying the charge made by Dr. Theodore Ion, professor in George Washington University here, before the National Conference on Foreign Relations at Long Beach yesterday, that Paxton Hibben, a former correspondent at Athens, was a propagandist in the pay of the Greek monarchy. The legation statement reads:

"A statement attributed to the former Secretary of this legation that Paxton Hibben is in receipt of a monthly allowance from the Hellenic Government for propaganda purposes is without foundation. Paxton Hibben is a disinterested friend of Greece, who has not and has never had any connection whatever with the Greek Government. The Constitutional Government of Greece maintains no propaganda in the United States."

HAVE NO SURE DEVICE TO END U-BOAT PERIL

DANGER IS STILL THERE

Americans Must Awake to Facts of War and Hasten Their Preparations, Engineer Declares.

According to Professor Francis B. Crocker, who for twenty-five years was head of the Department of Electrical Engineering of Columbia University and is a Past President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the submarine problem is not solved, and is not even near solution. Professor Crocker, who is now studying methods of curbing the U-boats, said yesterday that the American people had been lulled into a feeling of security about the menace and were in danger of belittling it.

"No certain method of destroying submarines has been invented," said Professor Crocker, "and there is none that is past the experimental stage as yet. Neither of the two American inventions, which have been said to be 'sure death' to submarines, has been perfected, and to my mind neither is at all sure to do the work hoped for. Furthermore, there is no device in Europe that can do it. I know this from submarine experts recently arrived here from the other side.

"This is not generally known. The American people are under the impression that American inventive genius has solved the submarine problem and have ceased to worry about it. We are making the fatal mistake of patting ourselves on the back because we are going to do something. This was shown by the reports of Professor Michael I. Pupin's address before the New York Academy of Sciences last Monday night. These reports said that Professor Pupin saw the end of the submarine peril. Since then I have met a number of prominent men who have been congratulating themselves on the assumption that the end of the submarine activities was in sight. This is not so—far from it!

"Professor Pupin was misunderstood. He did not say that American inventive genius had solved the submarine problem. All he said was that we have the ability to solve the question and he based his assertion on our record of past achievements. All he did was to express a hope!

"The American people are anxious to hear of anything that will lessen the submarine menace and Professor Pupin's words were taken to mean that a solution of the peril had been found. This is not so. The people of this great peace-loving country are only too willing to listen to a lullaby—they do not like the strident call of alarm. They have been asleep for nearly three years and only stirred when it became necessary to declare war on Germany. They understood that the submarine was real then, but now that reports are being spread abroad that its master has been found, they are blissfully returning to their apathy.

"America must wake! All cannot enlist, all cannot farm, all cannot buy bonds, all cannot make munitions and airplanes, but all can and must wake to the peril now facing this country. Our people do not realize that they are at war, and they try not to do so. They have no conception of what this war means, and unless they wake to it the final cost will be terrible.

"If a perfect device had been found for destroying the U-boats it would be months before it was ready. War preparations are moving too slowly. They are being made with the slowness that characterizes peace. We must hasten; every hour gained is invaluable. While we are talking Germany is doing, and her submarines are continuing to destroy.

"England was slow to realize the vital import of the war—that it meant the extinction of the British Empire—but the English are awake now. We Americans are quicker to arouse than the English, but we are still resting assured that everything is all right, and that it is only a question of a short time before the end. This is absolutely criminal. We must realize that every delay avoided now means a proportionate shortening of the war, and we must hasten. We must wake up!

"Of course, I place every confidence in the scientific men of this country. In their line they are the leaders of the world, but all their inventions will be worthless if they come too late; and they will be too late unless our people stand behind them and urge action.

"The first step in waking the United States is the realization of the truth, and that is that the submarines are as active and dangerous as ever. We must remember this morning, noon, and night, and must make every effort to evolve a method for destroying them. This will probably be done by greatly multiplying destructive agents. Destroyers, trawlers, aircraft, nets, and other existent contrivances must be increased tenfold or perhaps one hundredfold, and these must be helped out by the new inventions now being developed, before we can cope with the undersea boats."

Miss Lubarski to Wed Dr. Garbat.

A. E. Lubarski of 452 Riverside Drive has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Rachelle Lubarski, to Dr. A. L. Garbat, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Garbat of 71 East Ninety-first Street. As Dr. Garbat is a member of the German Hospital unit no date has been arranged for the wedding.

HUNTINGTON NUPTIAL TODAY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Huntington to Wed C. H. Marshall.

The wedding of Miss Alice Ford Huntington, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, and Charles H. Marshall, the only son of Mrs. Charles H. Marshall, will be celebrated at 12:30 this afternoon in St. Margaret's Church at Staatsburg-on-Hudson. A special car attached to a train from this city will convey the guests from New York to Staatsburg. The ceremony will be followed by a breakfast and small reception at Hopeland House, the country estate of the bride's parents.

Miss Madeleine Carey Dinsmore, a cousin of the bride, will be her maid of honor, and there are to be two matrons of honor, Mrs. Vincent Astor, the elder sister of the bride, and Mrs. Marshall Field, 3d, the sister of the bridegroom. The two young bridesmaids will be the Misses Claire Dinsmore, a cousin of the bride, and Margaret Dows.

Mr. Marshall will have his brother-in-law, Marshall Field, 3d, as his best man. Mr. Field is a Sergeant in the First Illinois Cavalry, and is here on leave of absence. The ushers are to include George A. Dixon, Jr., William Averell Harriman, Walter Camp, Jr., and Cole Porter.

WILL WED LIEUT. REED.

Miss M. M. Carey Engaged to Officer of U. S. Army Aero Reserve Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Foster Carey of 51 East Eightieth Street and Tuxedo Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Madeleine Marie Carey, to Charles Reed, son of Mrs. Charles Reed and the late Mr. Reed of New York and Fairfield Farms and Great Barrington, Mass.

Miss Carey was presented to society Winter before last at a dance given at the Colony Club by her mother, who introduced at the same time her niece, Miss Marion Carey Dinsmore, who is to be the maid of honor at the marriage today of Miss Alice F. Huntington. Miss Carey has been identified with the activities of the younger set since her début, and has appeared at many of the fashionable society amateur affairs for charity.

Mr. Reed belongs to the Squadron A Club and is now a Lieutenant in the United States Army Aero Reserve Corps and a member of the First Aero Squadron on Governors Island.

No date has been fixed for the wedding.

MISS ALTHEA GIBB WEDS.

The Bride of E. I. Eldredge, Jr., in Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn.

The wedding of Edward Irving Eldredge, Jr., and Miss Althea Gibb, the daughter of Mrs. Walter Gibb, was celebrated yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, and was followed by a reception at the residence of Mrs. Gibb, 201 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn. Miss Gibb was attended by Mrs. F. Worthington Hine of New York and Glen Cove, by Mrs. Harold W. Carhart of New York, Mrs. Le Roy Martin, and the Misses Agnes B. Bigelow, Doris Mangam, Jessie K. Hopkins, and Louise W. Ruxton.

Mr. Eldredge had his brother, Seneca D. Eldredge, as his best man, and the ushers were Ammi W. Lancaster, Robert M. Grant, and John H. Mallory; Robert M. Eldredge of Los Angeles, O. Ellsworth Wood of Ottawa, Norman K. Toerge, Charles M. Bull, and his brother-in-law, Harrison Cady.

Russell-Shevlin Wedding June 14.

Mrs. Thomas Shevlin and Marshall Russell, whose engagement was announced recently, will be married on June 14 in the Pall Mall Room of the Ritz-Carlton.

Mrs. Shevlin has been residing in New York since the death of her husband, a young millionaire of Minneapolis, who was noted as a football player and coach at Yale. She has taken a cottage at Southampton, L. I., for the Summer.

Mr. Russell is a broker from Winchester, Va., and is a brother of Dr. James Russell, chief surgeon of Roosevelt Hospital.

Miss Rosina Norman Weds Today.

Miss Rosina Norman, daughter of Julian Norman, is to be married today at noon to John George Randall, a broker, at her father's studio in the Metropolitan Opera House. Miss Norman was born in Charkoff, in Southern Russia, but was reared in this country. Her parents sang in opera for many years.

Oliphant-Mount Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Oliphant of Montclair, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eunice Oliphant, to Raymond Inslee Mount, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Mount of East Orange, N. J. Mr. Mount is a graduate of Princeton, Class of '08, and is a member of the First Squadron, New Jersey Cavalry, National Guard.

A Dinner for Alfred L. Hoffman.

Albert L. Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, is to sail shortly for France on an important mission. Mrs. Hoffman gave a dinner and theatre party on Thursday evening at her residence, 58 East Seventy-ninth Street, for her son. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Z. Gray, and the Misses Helen Crocker and Rae Slater, also F. Burrall Hoffman, Jr., who is now at Madison Barracks.

CLOSING OF PORT WORRIED WALL ST.

Break in Stocks on Rumors That U-Boats Were Near New York Harbor.

Harbor Men Hear Navy Officers Wanted Time to Make Changes in the Defenses.

For the first time in its history, the Port of New York was closed in daylight yesterday from dawn to 12:20 P. M. for outgoing vessels and from 11 A. M. to 12:20 P. M. for incoming vessels. The navy yard order included the entrances by the Ambrose Channel and Long Island Sound. During these hours not even fishing boats or barges were permitted to pass out of the Narrows. The fishing steamboat Taurus, which left Pier 1, North River, filled with anglers for her daily excursion to the Fishing Banks, also had to return to the Battery.

No one gave the reason for the closing of the port, and at the Custom House it was said that nothing was known of the matter beyond the receipt of a notification from Rear Admiral Usher that no vessels could leave New York until the order was revoked by him.

It was understood later, however, that the closing of the port was merely due to the making of certain changes in the defenses for convenience sake, and was of no other importance.

The closing of the port brought something of a shock to the stock market and checked a violent advance in cotton. Coming in the midst of a bullish demonstration on the Stock Exchange, with Steel common in the foreground, traders feared that the action taken by Collector Malone indicated the presence of submarines in neighboring waters, and they sold stocks heavily. The break began about 10:30 and within a half hour Steel was down more than 4 points and losses from the highest prices of the early trading were scored to the extent of from 2 to more than 3 points in case of Crucible Steel, Bethlehem Steel B shares, Central Leather, Lackawanna Steel, Texas Company, and others.

The Street was nervous before announcement was made of the closing of the port. A Washington dispatch on the news ticker had reported the sinking of the American sailing ships Dirigio, Barbara, and Frances M., and the message was sufficiently meagre to give readers the impression that the sinking occurred in American waters instead of on the other side. The two developments, both connected in traders' minds with a possible blockade of American ports by German U-boats, unsettled the speculative markets sharply. Only a quarter hour separated the announcements of the closing and reopening of the port, and in this interval the worst of the break occurred. The later recovery left Steel with a good-sized fractional net gain, and decided improvement occurred among the other stocks. The tone of the market continued nervous, however, throughout the afternoon, with the commission houses full of rumors of naval battles off the American coast, in which reverses were suffered by the United States battleship fleet.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Port of New York was closed for two hours this morning for military reasons. The only statement which the Government would authorize today regarding this matter was embraced in the following announcement issued through the Committee of Public Information, of which George Creel is Chairman:

"At the request of the New York Navy Yard, the Customs House officials of the Port of New York closed that port at 9 o'clock this morning. The port remained closed until 11 o'clock, when it was reopened. In the interval vessels were permitted to clear with the warning that they probably would be held up at the harbor entrance, and some vessels were held up. The action was taken by the New York Navy Yard officials upon their own authority and the report of what had been done first reached Washington through Treasury Department channels. The report did not explain the reason for which the port was closed."

Bachelor Dinner for T. P. Randle.

John L. Carter gave a bachelor dinner last night at his residence in Montclair, N. J., for Thomas Pattison Randle, who is to marry Miss Iris M. Ramsay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ramsay of Montclair, on June 6. The wedding is to be very quiet, owing to the recent death of the bride's brother, Lieutenant Lyle C. Ramsay, Fifth Canadian Highlanders, who was killed in action at Vimy Ridge, France. Mr. Randle is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Randle of 375 Central Park West and a grandson of the late Rear Admiral Thomas Pattison, U. S. N.

Mrs. Pankhurst Going to Russia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 1.—Mrs. Pankhurst and some of her colleagues in the Women's Suffrage Political Union announce their intention of going to Russia in order to explain "to the Russian people the opinion as to war conditions and peace held by us as patriotic British women loyal to the national and allied cause." Mrs. Pankhurst yesterday wrote the Prime Minister requesting the necessary passports and permits.

WOODS DIDN'T TELL SWANN.

Commissioner Denies He Spoke of City Club Asking Him for Aid.

Police Commissioner Arthur Woods took the stand yesterday at the final hearing before Commissioner George L. Ingraham of the City Club's charges of misconduct in office against District Attorney Swann and denied he had ever told Mr. Swann that the City Club had asked him to aid it in obtaining evidence to be used in the prosecution of the charges. Commissioner Woods said he had received several visits from Mr. Swann relative to charges made by Miss Leonora Reinhardts that the District Attorney had called her abusive names, and then he added:

"I remember on one occasion Mr. Swann said to me, 'I think I know who asked you to investigate these charges,' but I do not recall making a reply."

"Did you tell Mr. Swann that Deputy Commissioner Guy Scull was working on these cases at the request of the City Club?" asked Mr. Mellen.

"I did not," the witness replied.

Deputy Commissioner Scull was not allowed to testify whether he had had any conferences with Chase Mellen concerning the City Club's charges. Mr. Stanchfield objected on the ground that neither the Police Department nor Mr. Mellen was on trial. In sustaining the objection Commissioner Ingraham said:

"To some extent this witness and others did what they did by my orders, and what they did was in full line with their duty. If they assisted in getting evidence against one of the District Attorney's investigators in Brooklyn, that, perhaps, was not in their line of duty; but in making that accusation the District Attorney did not pretend to know the truth of the charges."

The investigator to whom the Commissioner referred was Louis Levine, now under indictment in Kings County for white slavery. When on the stand the District Attorney accused the police of working with the City Club in obtaining the indictment.

INSULT TO FLAG COST $50.

William Meyer Commented on German Colors Above It.

On complaint of Miss Charlotte Fairchild of 5 East Forty-seventh Street, William Meyer, 45 years old, of 25 West Forty-sixth Street, a lace importer, was fined $50 by Magistrate Corrigan in the Men's Night Court last night for having written across an American flag printed on a placard and displayed in a shop at Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street the words, "Look at the German flag above it."

According to Meyer, the words referred to a decoration above the American flag composed of the colors in the German flag. He pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

SIR RICHARD BURBIDGE DIES.

London Merchant Was on Board of Ministry of Munitions.

LONDON, June 1.—Sir Richard Burbidge died at his home here last night. Sir Richard was a member of the Advisory Board of the Ministry of Munitions, and was created a Baronet last year. For twenty-seven years he had been managing director of Harrod's Stores, one of London's most famous department stores. He was 70 years old. Mr. Burbidge came to London in 1861 as an apprentice in the employ of Messrs. Harrod, and worked himself up to the head of the firm. He was the possessor of 1,000 acres in Middlesex, being Lord of the Manor of Littleton and Asthland, and 52,000 acres in West Australia, as well as considerable property in Canada.

Besides being a member of the Committee of the National Association for Employment of ex-Soldiers, Sir Richard served upon the War Office Committee upon the Assessment of Soldiers' Characters, and organized a territorial cyclist corps among the 6,000 employes of Harrod's. So keen was he in the cause of the Territorials that he gave a fortnight's extra holiday to every member of his staff who joined the force, as well as an extra week's pay.

He recently purchased the East Cowes home of Princess Henry of Battenberg.

NOTABLES PICKED FOR IRISH CONVENTION

Commons Speaker May Be Chairman — Hint That All Sinn Feiners Will Be Freed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 2.—The Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent writes:

"It has been definitely settled that the coming Irish convention will consist of 101 members, of whom fifteen will be nominated by the Crown. It was hoped at the outset that the personnel of the convention would not exceed sixty, but it was found impossible to keep it within these limits when it transpired that every county council in Ireland wished to have its own delegate.

"There will be very few M. P.'s in the convention. The Sinn Feiners will be represented.

"The convention will have among its members Lord Dunraven, Sir Horace Plunkett, Lord MacDonnell, Lord Pirrie, Sir Hutchinson Poe, George Russell, and prominent representatives of the commercial and industrial life of Ulster.

"No Chairman has yet been chosen for the convention. The Speaker of the House of Commons is to be approached. Were Mr. Lowther to consent, that fact in itself would go a long way to insure the success of the convention.

"There is reason to believe that the Government is about to give amnesty to all the Sinn Feiners who are now in prison. This act of magnanimity would help to create a favorable atmosphere for the convention."

DUBLIN, June 1.—The Council of the Irish Unionist Alliance, at a meeting today, resolved, while deprecating the opening of the question of Home Rule during the war, to participate in the convention proposed by the British Government provided the convention included a fair representation of Unionists from the three southern provinces.

BONDS FOR N. Y. CENTRAL.

Company Authorized to Issue $70,000,000 Gold Mortgage at 4%

TRENTON, N. J., June 1.—The State Public Utilities Commission today authorized the New York Central Railroad Company to issue 4 per cent. consolidation mortgage gold bonds to the amount of $70,000,000 for the purpose of retiring an equal amount of Lake Shore collateral gold bonds of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, the predecessor of the New York Central Railroad Company. The board also granted the application of the New York Central Railroad Company for the issuance of 4½ per cent. refunding and improvement bonds to the amount of $10,000,000 for the purpose of reimbursing its treasury for capitalizable expenditures to the total amount of $7,778,503.23 made from Jan. 1, 1915, to Jan. 31, 1917, and not heretofore capitalized.

The last issue is to pay for additions and betterments to the company's property now in progress. In the $10,000,000 issue it is stipulated that the bonds may be sold for not less than 93½ per cent. of their face value and accrued interest.

Harvey E. Roberts.

In 1906 he resigned and became editor and manager of the Insurance Advocate. He purchased the paper from its former owners in 1908.

POLISH NEWSPAPERS HELP THE DRAFT

Mr. Wilson's Recognition of a Free Poland Brings a Hearty Response.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—In recognition of President Wilson's declaration for a united and independent Poland, the Polish national organizations and the Polish language newspapers in the United States have united to make registration day, June 5, a patriotic holiday for young men of Polish birth and descent who are urged to register for the selective draft so as to be ready to serve this nation "in its struggle for the preservation of democracy throughout the world."

The Polish newspapers say that thousands of young Poles have already enlisted in the army and navy. From one recruiting station in Chicago 637 Poles have been sent to commands in the regular army. Several hundred Poles have enlisted in two weeks in Milwaukee, and in addition a Wisconsin infantry regiment has enlisted an entire Polish battalion.

All the Polish newspapers in the United States today published a message to the Polish people in America calling on the young Poles to register. On Sunday the pastors of the Polish churches will call for a full registration. The message in the Polish newspapers is in part as follows:

"We are anxious that the Poles of America on registration day should give new evidence of their spirit of loyalty in their whole-hearted observance of the proclamation. At a time when unfortunately groups of men throughout the country are advising that the work of registration be delayed or if possible made ineffective, we are desirous to set a high standard of enthusiasm."

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

What you want to know about Russia
Are you entirely clear about Russia or are you lost in a confusion of difficult names?
ASIA for June will straighten out the facts for you.

Arthur J. Brown's article, "THE STRUGGLE TO SAVE RUSSIA," clearly describes the Revolution and what led up to it.

"THE MILITARY POSITION OF RUSSIA" is vividly pictured by J. B. W. Gardiner, military expert of "The Times" who tells what we must do to help Russia resume her place of power against the Kaiser's disciplined armies.

And from the industrial standpoint, you have John Foord's "SIBERIA AND ITS RAILWAY" and George Kennan's hitherto unpublished article on "E. H. HARRIMAN'S IMPERIAL PROJECT"—how he very nearly built a line of steamships and railroads around the world.

SUCH features as these are making ASIA an indispensable magazine to those whose interests in business, in travel, in politics, in finance or in art and social customs are international. Have you started seeing ASIA regularly?

If you will pin one dollar to this notice and return to us before next Saturday, you will receive ASIA on a special offer for four months. Get the June issue on the news stands today.

GIANTS BEAT CARDINALS IN FIRST GAME OF THEIR TOUR

GIANTS START WITH A VICTORY IN WEST

TESREAU PROVES MASTER

Jeff Holds Huggins's Clan in Check While Fletcher and Burns Time Their Hits to Produce Runs.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—The ability of Messrs. Fletcher and Burns to pepper the ball at the correct moment for the scoring of runs started J. McGraw's invasion of the West auspiciously this afternoon. The Giants had the long end of the argument with the Cardinals by 2 to 1.

The afternoon was devoted strictly and entirely to a pitchers' battle between big Jeff Tesreau and Mr. Huggins's hurler, Lee Meadows. The Ozark Bear held the Cards to four singles while the Giants were touching Mr. Meadows for five, one a double by Fletcher, which was largely responsible for New York's first score, and another a triple by Burns, which paved the way for the second Giant marker.

It was fortunate that Mr. Fletcher proceeded to collect his double at the moment he did collect it. Otherwise he would have done no double collecting this afternoon. In the St. Louis half of the second, immediately after Mr. Fletcher had acquired this double, Long of the Cardinals scored on Snyder's sacrifice fly to right, after tripling. The Card outfielder left third well before the ball was caught. At least that is the way it looked from the stands.

Fletcher, Herzog, Holke, Heinie Zim, and Boss McGraw all joined in the conversation which ensued with Mr. Orth. It happened that Fletcher talked the loudest, so Mr. Orth picked on Arthur as the proper person to chase from the game. Young Mr. Kilduff stepped into Mr. Fletcher's shoes and did much during the afternoon to prevent incipient rallies by Huggins's hirelings.

As far as the Giants were concerned, most of the ball game was played in the second and third innings. Heinie Zim opened the second by dropping a roller between Mr. Fred Smith and Mr. Lee Meadows. Both of the started for it and then each stopped to let the other finish the job. The result was a single for Heinie. Fletcher's double to right sent Zim to third, and he scored on Benny Kauff's sacrifice fly to right.

Long's triple and Snyder's sacrifice fly tied it up in the St. Louis half, but the Giants came right back strong in the first of the third.

Burns smashed the first ball pitched to left centre for three bases. It was a high, soaring fly, which Long made a desperate effort to reach, but was able only to touch with his finger tips. Meadows then proceeded to hit Herzog on the arm. Robertson grounded to Miller and while Herzog and Robbie were being doubled Burns trotted home with the winning run.

Neither team threatened again seriously except in the ninth, when a great stop by Holke, with J. Smith on first, killed the Cardinals' hopes of tying it up. The first baseman got Miller's drive on the tip of his glove, held it while he was running with the runner toward second, and forced Smith.

HANK GOWDY IN THE RANKS.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, June 1.—Hank Gowdy, catcher of the Boston Braves and hero of the 1914 world's series, has gained the distinction of being the first ballplayer to relinquish voluntarily the life of a big league ballplayer to carry a gun as private in the army. Gowdy today left for his home at Columbus, Ohio, to enlist in the Ohio National Guard. The catcher will report for military duty July 15, and will play ball up to that date. His teammates became fired with military ardor by his decisive step and Stallings fears others will follow suit.

INDIANS HALT RED SOX.

Cut Champions' Straight String at Ten Games, Winning 3 to 0.

BOSTON, June 1.—The champion Boston Americans' straight string was cut at ten games today when Cleveland won 3 to 0. Ruth, who suffered his only previous defeat of the season from Chicago, was outpitched by Morton, but spoiled a no-hit performance for the latter by his single in the eighth. Cleveland made only one hit in the first eight innings.

Two runs were made in the fourth without a hit. Chapman walked, and, with two out, stole second. On a wild pitch for the third strike Roth reached first and Chapman third, and a double steal scored the latter. Gardner's error made Roth safe at third, from which he stole home. A pass, a sacrifice, and Roth's single scored Graney in the sixth. The score:

DODGERS' ATTACK OVERCOMES CUBS

Bruins Get Four Runs in First, Only to Yield to Robins, 5 to 4, in the End.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Showing a complete reversal of the form that brought them prominence on their Eastern tour, the Cubs opened up their home stand at Weeghman Park today and kicked away a ball game to Brooklyn's champion Dodgers. The Bruins collected four runs in the first and then, by everlastingly sticking to it, the Robins managed to nose out a victory in the ninth. The score was 5 to 4, with no alibis save bad baseball.

Errors of omission and commission and Jim Vaughn's let down toward the close of hostilities permitted the Dodgers to put in a pleasant afternoon in spite of the cold. Vaughn's wildness in the third gave them one run; Harry Wolter dropped an easy fly in the sixth that counted two more, and Deal's error in the ninth gave them all the opening they needed to bag their last two markers and win the game. Art Wilson made the Robins go to all this trouble to win by busting a double against the fence in the first with the bases crowded.

After the Cubs had succeeded in slumping for inning after inning, they again showed slight symptoms of living up to their reputation of being the league's dark horses. They uncorked a lot of pepper in their part of the ninth, when they were trailing by one run, and threw a bad scare into the Robins and all such as had an interest in seeing Brooklyn win. It was a thrilling rally and fell short of tying the score only because Casey Stengel and Jake Daubert relayed Wolter's drive to the plate in time to cut down Zeider with the tying run.

DEFATE GOES TO TIGERS.

National Commission Renders Decision Involving Draft.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 1.—Player Defate of the St. Louis National League Club was today ordered to report to the Detroit Americans by the National Baseball Commission. The St. Louis Nationals obtained first draft on Defate at the draft meeting last Fall and exercised it. Detroit had second choice.

President Navin appealed to the National Commission recently, stating that the St. Louis Nationals had drafted Defate with the understanding that he would be turned over to the St. Louis Americans. This was denied by ex-President Britton of the St. Louis Nationals, but according to the commission an agreement filed during the injunction proceedings by the St. Louis Americans against Branch Rickey and the St. Louis Nationals showed that Rickey was to do his best to turn over Defate to the St. Louis Americans at the earliest possible moment.

In concluding its decision today, the National Commission said:

"Club owners and officials are notified that the commission will exert itself to safeguard the draft from scheming and collusion, and will, where it is established that the selection of a player by a major league club is not bona fide, impose a severe fine on the guilty club or clubs, and if the offense be flagrant, debar the offenders from exercising the privilege of selection for one or more seasons."

FORDHAM MEN RUN TODAY.

Four Athletes to Compete in N. Y. A. C. Games at Travers Island.

Fordham University will compete in its last athletic events of the year today when four of the Maroon runners will appear in the games of the New York Athletic Club at Travers Island. The men who will wear the Winged Foot are Matty Golden, the Captain, who will appear in the mile; Fitzpatrick and Tachash in the dash, and Lee in the quarter. Besides their four regular representatives the Bronx students will see two of the men who were among the best on their team during the last season, running in competition for the N. Y. A. C. They are Ferrick and Murray.

At their last meeting yesterday, Edmund Dale was elected to lead the Fordham track men next year. Dale, who hails from Mount Vernon, will graduate from the School of Arts next week, but intends to enter the Fordham Law School. He was the Captain of the Fordham basketball team in 1915, and the last court team the Bronxites had before they abolished the sport.

HERMAN WINS HARD FIGHT.

Shades Joe Lynch in Battle of Sturdy Bantams.

Pete Herman, the New Orleans bantamweight boxer, who seems to have established himself as the title holder because of his twenty-round decision victory over Kid Williams some time ago, and Joe Lynch, the promising west side bantam, furnished a crowded house at the Pioneer Sporting Club with ten interesting rounds of boxing last night, but despite the fact that the local lad came through with a stirring tenth-round finished the Southern boxer was entitled to a shade in the honors of the contest.

Sheer sturdiness on the part of Herman carried the day for him, for he kept coming in against Lynch's tormenting jabs and crosses and punishing the west side product badly about the stomach. The Southerner piled up his lead in points on his ability to work effectively at close quarters, for when he clinched with Lynch he rested his head on the latter's chest and sent home body blows with pistonlike rapidity until the west sider was forced to break ground.

In the sixth and seventh rounds Lynch showed to particular advantage and won the honors of these sessions. Punished badly about the mid-section earlier in the bout, with Herman's heavy right and left-hand blows, the west side bantamweight threw caution to the winds in these two sessions and out-slugged Herman, while the entire house jumped to its feet and shouted vociferously for Lynch to land a deciding blow. The latter was not up to the task, however, and his efforts in these two stanzas sapped his strength without materially affecting Herman, so that the Southerner was able to come back in the eighth and ninth rounds with his heavy body attack and gain the honors.

Again in the tenth session Lynch discarded his careful style of boxing and swung out hard with both hands, but the best he could do was to hold Herman even on the honors of the round, and cut down the Southerner's lead of points on the bout, so that the latter won a comparatively close decision. The weights were: Herman, 119¾; Lynch, 118¼.

OMAR KHAYYAM ON BLOCK.

Kentucky Derby Winner to be Sold at Belmont Park Today.

Omar Khayyam, winner of the Kentucky Derby three weeks ago and richly engaged in the season's three-year-old events, will be sold at auction in the paddock at Belmont Park this afternoon with the other horses belonging to C. K. G. Billings and Frederick Johnson. Turfmen look on this as one of the most remarkable turf sales ever projected in this country. It is strange enough to see a Derby winner led to the auction block so soon after a classic victory that his owner has striven hard to attain, but it is all the more striking because within three hours after the sale the new owner of Omar Khayyam will be entitled to send him to the post for another classic, the Withers Stakes, which is to be run this afternoon.

The business engagements of Mr. Billings prevents him continuing racing at the present time, and he has been reluctantly compelled to part with his champion. Omar Khayyam is an imported son of Marco-Lisma and, outside of his ability as a racer, is a valuable acquisition for breeding purposes. His female line is unimpeachable as to strength and fashion, while in the male line he represents the house of Matchem, which has always done extremely well in this country. With the exception of the Belmont Stakes, he is engaged in all the big races in which R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Campfire is entered.

Other imported horses to be sold by Billings and Johnson include All Star, Man o' th' Hour, Spear Lance, Bachelor's Hope, Sanscrit, and Greek Legend. The stable also will dispose of the high-class three-year-old filly Pleasant Dreams and the two-year-olds Peace and Plenty, imp. Rapid Firer, and imp. Enfilade. The horses belonging to George F. Johnson also will be sold, including the stake winners Hidden Star and Fair Helen.

PIPING ROCK RACES TODAY.

Cherry Malotte Carries Top Weight in Feature Event.

Another fine card of cross-country events, with two races on the flat, will be presented by the Piping Rock Racing Association this afternoon for the final day of its Spring race meet at Locust Valley. The principal event is the L. Stuart Wing Memorial Steeplechase, at about two miles, which has attracted the leading jumpers of the country. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Cherry Malotte, carrying the Greentree Stable's colors, will be the top weight, and other good horses with steadying imposts are Pebeto, Hibler, and Falmouth. Three of the entries have won races since the publication of the weights and will have to carry penalties.

The Piping Rock Racing Association has arranged for two special trains to Locust Valley. One train will leave from both the Pennsylvania Station in New York and the Flatbush Avenue Station in Brooklyn at 11:30, reaching the course in time for luncheon before the first race, while the other will leave from the same stations at 12:45. The return trip will be made as soon as possible after the running of the last race.

In addition to this train arrangement there will be a special horse train from Belmont Park. This is for the accommodation of the horsemen who have their horses stabled there. This train will leave at 11 o'clock and will return the horses to their quarters at the end of the day.

FAVORITES UPSET ON MUDDY TRACK

Outsiders Beat Public Choices in Every Race on Card at Belmont.

A treacherous track, soft and slippery on top but fairly hard underneath, was the pitfall arranged by the clerk of the weather at Belmont Park yesterday. The conditions played havoc with public form, and after John E. Madden's Guesswork was beaten by a nose in the last race a look through the program established the sad fact that not a single favorite had been successful. The last race was the only one in which the public choice had a chance of getting down in front, for most of the other races were won by large margins by horses which had been overlooked in the speculation.

The most interesting race of the day, and one which gave the greatest shock to the form players, was the fourth, in which four fillies, all three-year-olds, made up the field. George W. Loft's smart filly, Julialeon, was not among those named, but the others were fairly representative of the best of their age and sex. It was distressing to the followers of the homebreds to see J. E. Widener's America III., the extreme outsider, come galloping home five lengths in front of August Belmont's Serenest, the favorite for the purse.

Swan Song, owned by the Wickliffe Stable, and Harry Payne Whitney's Golden Rod, both were considered to have a chance to outfoot Serenest, especially the former, which is by the noted mud horse producer, Ben Brush. Swan Song had early foot and led in the run along the back stretch. After opening a lead of two lengths Swan Song began to tire, and America III. was lapped on her as they made the turn.

Golden Rod and Serenest, which had been badly outrun at the start, began to move up then and a pretty race appeared to be the prospect when the quartet turned into the stretch with the four in close order. Little Hunt, who had the mount on the imported filly, called on America III. then, and she left the others as though they were standing still. America III. went on to gallop in the easiest of winners, while Serenest beat Golden Rod by half a length for the place.

There was general rejoicing when A. K. Macomber, the most liberal of the new supporters of the turf, scored his first victory of the season in the Richmond Handicap, at six furlongs, which was run in the third race. Mr. Macomber broke the ice through the medium of St. Isidore, which occupied second place in the quotations to R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Corn Tassel.

The race was run over the straight course and St. Isidore always was up with the leaders. Corn Tassel not only ruined his own chances by swerving across the track from the inside to near the outer rail, but also interfered with the Nevada Stock Farm's Slippery Elm, which was held in tight quarters by the favorite all through the last eighth. This worked to the advantage of St. Isidore, which reached the judges half a length in front of Corn Tassel, with Slippery Elm taking third money, the same distance back.

The Queens Selling Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth was considered the most open race of the day, with Emil Herz's Eagle finally closing favorite, at 3 to 1, over Sam McMeekin and Sasin. E. G. Soule's Pullux upset the calculations of the wise division and turned the race into a procession before it was half over. Catching the early leader, Air Man, at the bottom of the back stretch, Pullux opened a gap of five lengths on the turn and came romping home with that advantage. Sasin was in second place until the last fifty yards, when McTaggart shot up with Brynlimah to take second place by a length and a half.

The slaughter of the favorites began in the first race for two-year-olds, when R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Sunrose met with her first defeat. Sunrose was an even money favorite, but Gifford A. Cochran's Ballast galloped in front all the way and won by four lengths from the public choice.

BOUNTIFUL TAKES A COVETED RIBBON

W. H. Moore's Fine Chestnut Mare Captures Hackney Horse Blue at Devon Show.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1. — What proved to be the climax to a series of thrilling exhibitions in the third day's program of the thirteenth annual Devon Horse Show developed late today when Bountiful, a chestnut mare, sleek, well groomed and representing everything considered desirable in a thoroughbred, carried off the blue in a class in which the American Hackney Horse Society offered a medal. Bountiful is owned by William H. Moore, and when purchased by the New York sportsman was the champion of England.

Plenty of action was witnessed in the class for saddle horses of the American type. Miss Anna A. Austin's chestnut mare Buren Arnold was returned the victor.

The grim spirit of war made its presence felt when early in the morning it was announced that Charles R. Hamilton would hold a sale of his hackney ponies at noon. The reason given for Mr. Hamilton's desire to dispose of the noted Fairview stud was that his son, C. Ross Hamilton, Jr., had enlisted in the First Troop, Philadelphia Cavalry, and that through conscription he would lose all his men. Mr. Hamilton's desire is to allow other followers of the sport to enjoy the possession of his blooded animals and give the thoroughbreds their proper "place in the sun."

Bantam King, the comely stallion, and Fire Spark, the vivacious bay gelding—a pair that held the 1916 national championship—were purchased by Miss Amy Dupont at a private sale. The pair was sold for $2,500 after Mr. Hamilton had refused $1,950, the highest bid at the public sale.

William Dupont came into possession of the celebrated brown mare Cass Melbourne, whose record includes a blue won over Fire Spark.

KENTUCKY HANDICAP TODAY.

Old Rosebud and Roamer Among 11 Entries for Event.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 1.—Eleven thoroughbreds, which horsemen credit with being among the best handicap horses in the country, have been named to start in the fifth renewal of the Kentucky Handicap at Douglas Park here tomorrow. Old Rosebud, a Kentucky Derby winner, probably will go to the post favorite. He has won three of his four starts this Spring on Kentucky tracks, in one of which, carrying 129 pounds, he covered a mile and an eighth within one-fifth of a second of the track record. In the handicap he has been assigned only 120 pounds.

Andrew Miller's Roamer, which is making his third trial for the stake, will carry six pounds less than last year, when he finished second. A. K. Macomber will be represented by Boots and Ed Crump. The entry will probably rule second choice.

SENATE MODIFIES FOOD STORING BAN

FARMERS AT WHITE HOUSE

President Tells Wheat Growers the Government Will Guarantee Profitable Prices to Them.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The first Administration food bill, which has been under consideration in the Senate all week, probably will reach a final vote tomorrow. Debate was limited to ten minutes late today by unanimous consent and no Senator will be permitted to speak more than once.

Little progress was made with the bill today. An amendment by Senator McCumber modifying the provision adopted yesterday making the holding and storage of foodstuffs and other necessities a felony, was adopted. The amendment permits storing where no effort is made to cause a shortage or affect the price. Senator Fletcher's amendment to authorize the Secretary of Commerce to engage in the catching and marketing of fish to enlarge the nation's food supply, was rejected.

Two amendments designed to prohibit speculation in food products were introduced. One, by Senator Thomas, would authorize the President to suspend grain exchanges where dealing in futures is permitted, and the other amendment, by Senator McKellar, would forbid speculation.

Debate on a proposal by Senator Fall that all unreserve lands in New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, and South Dakota be opened under the 640-acre Homestead act was in progress when the Senate recessed. Senator Husting, opposing the plan, got into such a lively exchange with Senator Fall that the Vice President intervened.

Spring wheat growers of the Northwest were assured by President Wilson in a personal interview today that the Government intended to protect farmers in marketing their crops, and that prices would be guaranteed high enough to stimulate production. The farmers' representatives were told that the Government hoped permanent marketing reforms might grow out of wartime measures. It is not the present intention to fix minimum prices, the President said, because the Government believes production prices will remain high without putting this measure into effect.

The visitors told the President that farmers were anxious that grain market reforms might come from the experience gained by the food administration. Sentiment among farmers is strong, they said, for Federal operation of grain exchanges and Federal ownership and operation of grain elevators and other storage facilities used in interstate trade.

The services of woman suffragists in the elimination of food waste were offered to Herbert C. Hoover today by the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which has organized a Suffrage Thrift League, with Mrs. Walter McNab Miller at its head.

A food research commission will be named by Mr. Hoover as soon as the administration is established. It will be composed of many of the country's food experts, and will study diet and other related subjects.

GRAIN THE ALLIES NEED.

France, England, and Italy Will Require 560,000,000 Bushels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—France, England and Italy will require a total of 560,000,000 bushels of grain to meet the conditions to be faced before the next harvest, and most, if not all, of that amount must come from the United States and Canada, according to Emile Level, food executive of the permanent French commission.

Mr. Level named 160,000,000 bushels as the portion which France would need, 300,000,000 as England's share, and 100,000,000 as his estimate for Italy. Some grain, he said, might be obtained from India and Australia if transportation facilities could be arranged.

He discussed also the danger of supplies getting into Germany through Switzerland, and said that the French had fairly good control of the situation at this time.

A representative of the commission conferred with Chairman Denman of the Shipping Board today to obtain information concerning the prospects for the shipping program.

RETIRES TO ASSIST HOOVER

Silk Manufacturer Understands Services Will Be Accepted.

Samuel L. Feiber, a silk manufacturer, has left his place in the Samuel Eiseman Company to volunteer his services to the Government. Through Senator Wadsworth he has learned that Herbert C. Hoover, the proposed National Food Administrator, has accepted his offer to work in the new bureau.

He said yesterday that he believed that all men who intended to retire from business this year should offer their services to the Government. "There are thousands of business men in this country who can be of assistance to the Government. They cannot shoulder rifles, but they can do their bit anyway. Uncle Sam should have an army of retired business men."

URGES TWO MEALS A DAY DURING WAR

Assistant Secretary Vrooman Wants Food Speculators "Clubbed" Into Submission.

SAYS WE MUST FEED WORLD

Medico-Psychological Association Hears That Mankind's Salvation Depends on American Crops.

Americans should get along on two meals a day during the war Carl Vrooman, Assistant United States Secretary of Agriculture, told the members of the Medico-Psychological Association at the Hotel Astor yesterday in a speech in which he made a bitter attack on food speculators and asked the physicians' help to arouse a public sentiment that would "club them into submission."

In advocating two meals a day for the duration of the war, Mr. Vrooman said that at that we would be eating twice as much as the Germans get to eat.

"There are more than 30,000,000 people in Germany who have had less than one square meal a day for weeks," he said. "There is not a country in Europe where the people are on full rations. We can get along very well on two meals a day."

Mr. Vrooman asked the heads of institutions present to see that enough food was raised on their farms to feed the inmates. He said that not only was this country called upon to feed itself and the Allies, but that at the end of the war it would be called upon to feed the decimated millions of the Central Powers.

"I don't intend to make any statements to you that are exaggerations," he said, "because it would be impossible to exaggerate the seriousness of the war and what goes with it. It is America's problem to see that more men do not starve in Europe this year than were killed in the trenches last year. Famine is looking over the skyline of every European country. If we do not keep starvation away from the capitals of Europe it will not be kept away. Our crops are all that stand between mankind and starvation in the months to come. It is not humanely possible to overstate the seriousness of the food shortage the world is facing today."

Mr. Vrooman urged that food be grown where consumed because of the lack of transportation.

"The transportation shortage is appalling," he said. "It is the weakest link in the chain. We haven't enough ships; we haven't enough cars and locomotives."

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture made an eloquent plea for the awakening of the country to the fact that we are at war.

"We haven't waked up," he declared. "Oh, that something might awake us! We will wake up perhaps when one of our allies gets a stab in the back. Or perhaps we will wake up when our boys who are going to the trenches begin to come back in little pine boxes. Our people must wake up. Our country has gone to war with hands as clean and heart as pure as the knights of old, when they went in search of the Holy Grail. We must realize that each of us has a part to play. If there is a man, woman or child in this nation within whose heart there does not stir a burning desire to do his part to win this war for democracy he should go home, get in his closet and ask God to forgive him for being a parasite on society."

Mr. Vrooman urged the purchase of Liberty Bonds. He asked the physicians to fix a standard scale of fees and not seek advantage in war conditions. Then he turned to the merchants.

"If the merchants, when they have to pay a cent more for a commodity would not tack on ten cents to the retail price, it would be a great gain," he asserted. "A priest in a Western city told me the other day that recently five women in his congregation had gone insane because they could not get food for their children.

"And yet there are people who look like men who wax rich and fat like vultures speculating with the necessities of life! Let these cormorants feel the loathing of every red-blooded American. The solution when it comes will be a unified public sentiment with which Congress will club into submission these vicious Americans who try to make a profit at the expense of their fellow citizens at war, of the nation and of humanity."

After Mr. Vrooman's address a number of the physicians said they were going home and preach the doctrine he had laid down. Some of them told of the progress being made in their States toward increasing the food supply.

At the morning session Dr. William D. Sandy of Columbia, S. C., read a paper on "Malingering." In the discussion which followed Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, the alienist, said that the popular idea that insanity pleas were frequently successful was erroneous. They are frequent, but rarely successful, he said. According to Dr. MacDonald it is practically impossible for a person to feign insanity.

The convention closed at the end of the afternoon session. Chicago was tentatively chosen for the 1918 meeting.

Society Women Back Project at Hicksville—Ask Farmers' Aid.

The first public canning kitchen for "war food conservation" was opened yesterday at Hicksville, L. I., for free instruction daily in food preservation. It has been started with funds contributed by the well-known women who organized the recent Long Island Food Reserve Battalion, which toured Long Island in a special "canning kitchen train." They include Mrs. Ralph Peters, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. William Laimbeer, Mrs. J. Watson Webb, Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. George E. Kent, Mrs. H. I. Nicholas, and Mrs. Herbert Harriman.

The organizers of the kitchen have asked the newspapers to carry their appeal to the farmers for co-operation in the work. They want the farmers to ship their surplus products to the canning factory instead of permitting the foodstuffs to decay in the fields.

Commissioner Hartigan of the Mayor's Bureau of Weights and Measures said every article of food had advanced in price within thirty days; yet his inspectors bring in daily reports that never before has there been so many and such large quantities of foods in storage here.

"Apparently the only reason for the excessive prices," said he, "is that the wholesalers, jobbers, and speculators are using the situation for their personal benefit. The Federal laws pending in Washington will be of little avail to remedy matters, as they will control interstate commerce only. Each State must find its own remedy."

CRAIG MANAGER GETS BAIL.

District Attorney Hears Firm's Loss Will Exceed Million.

Although members of the brokerage house of W. R. Craig & Co. of 25 Broad Street have declared that the firm's losses through the alleged peculations of Robert Moore, a trusted manager, now under arrest charged with forgery in concealing the misappropriation of $65,000, would not total more than $600,000, information received at the District Attorney's office yesterday showed that there was a book loss to the firm of more than a million dollars. Beyond admitting that such information had been brought to him Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley, who is investigating Moore's accounts, would not make any statement.

It also developed yesterday that one customer of the firm had been enjoying an income of more than $2,000 a month, which he believed was legitimate, through Moore's alleged manipulations of the books. R. M. Stuart Wortley, senior member of the firm, yesterday assured customers that all losses would be made good, as he said the company was still in a strong financial position.

Moore succeeded early yesterday morning in obtaining a bondsman to go on his bail of $25,000, and he was released from the Tombs, where he spent the night. His handsome residence at 202 Wood Street, Rutherford, N. J., was unoccupied yesterday and neighbors said the family had left, presumably for New York. Moore, whose family consists of a wife and two children, lived very quietly, taking no part in the social life of the community. He owned three automobiles and kept a number of servants.

Jobbers to Cash In Again.

Jobbers in the men's wear piece goods have their preparations well under way to cash in on the predicted scarcity of woolens for the Spring season. There is said to be quite an influx of brokers and speculators into the market again to take advantage of conditions expected to develop in the near future when the clothiers find themselves short of piece goods. Some of the leading houses in the clothing trade have been doing a good deal of "shopping around" and purchasing anything that looks as if it might prove available.

Silks Instead of Woolens.

As prices continue to advance in the dress goods trade the prediction made a short time ago by a silk manufacturer that silks will be bought in place of the higher-priced woolens appears more certain of coming true. According to suit and skirt manufacturers who have been asked their opinions on this question, the substitution will probably be made unless the price of silks also begins to soar. Just at present the scarcity of raw silk is worrying the manufacturers in that trade. The weather has held up the sale of silk suits, but makers believe that a prosperous Summer is ahead of them.

Use of Military Colors.

In silks and dress goods the color demand has turned to quieter effects. Those who have been giving the matter attention for the coming Fall believe that women will be provided with dark, rich colorings. The note of contrast to be struck will be in the trimmings to be used. These will relieve the sombre appearance of the background materials. The bright, vivid yellow of the cavalry, the brilliant red of the artillery, and the light blue of the infantry are expected to be shown quite generally in trimmings. In the words of a color expert, the dominant note of the season will be seen in color contrasts.

Shoe Men Are Puzzled.

Judging from appearances in the local shoe trade, wholesalers are somewhat in doubt as to whether they should smile or "grouch" at the condition of business. The last week's buying of seasonable footwear has been all in favor of grumpiness, but there is a tendency to cheer up when the advance Fall business now on the books is contemplated. The fact remains, however, that there is much to be desired in the movement of Spring shoes of all kinds, especially the fancier ones. Stocks are said to be heavier in the hands of the wholesalers than they would like to see them, and the truth of this statement appears to be borne out by the way the retailers are sacrificing goods in order to move them. Better weather will help all around, but if it does not come soon the wholesalers will receive little benefit. A pretty good demand for rubbers is reported, but these goods are scarce and high.

Capes to Make Suits Good.

It seems that the suit manufacturers were unduly pessimistic some time ago concerning prospects for the coming Fall season. According to the sentiment in the trade now, there is every good reason to believe that business will be quite up to the standard. One of the big factors in creating a good demand for suits is the popularity of the cape. This article is quite popular now, and is expected to make even better progress with the turn into Summer and during the early Fall. The tendency expected to develop is for women to buy suits for the early Fall and wear their capes over until late in that period.

The Exporters Are Anxious.

For more reasons than one, exporters of hosiery in the local market would be pleased to get definite information concerning the present status of the embargo on imports of these goods into Great Britain. One reason is the chance for increased business that the removal or modification of the embargo would provide, but an even more important one is the kind of adjustments that would have to be made on goods bought a long time ago by English firms held up by the embargo, and later resold by the exporters. With hose as scarce as they are now, however, there is almost a disposition to hope, because of inevitable demands for redress on the part of certain British importers, that the ban is still on them. Foreign business is only fair at the moment, some interesting recent sales including children's hose to Mexico, in spite of the scarcity of these goods that is told of locally.

Sheeting Holders Reluctant.

It has been many a day since sellers of sheetings and other coarse cottons in the local gray goods market were as reluctant to take orders at current prices as they were yesterday. The sharp rise in cotton, coupled with the marked scarcity and high cost of burlaps, had a particularly stiffening effect on sheetings suitable for the bag trade. Bids of 8¾ cents for 31-inch five-yard sheetings, for deliveries to September, brought no response from sellers, and bids of 9¼ cents for 40-inch 4.25s, for similar shipment, were also in the market without takers. There was quite a liberal business put through on four-yard 56-60 sheetings at 11 cents for July-August delivery, however, and 5.50 sheetings sold for August-September at 7¾ cents. Drills were also firmly held.

Set Cotton Price Would Not Help.

With cotton now higher than at any other time since the civil war, there has been some speculation locally as to the possibilities of the Government's establishing a maximum price for it. While sellers of gray goods do not look for any such action, it is said by well-posted traders that even if this were done there could be no lowering of prices on goods wanted for civilian uses. It is asserted that the time has come when the cost of the staple is playing second fiddle in the figuring of selling prices of the goods, and that the question of supply and demand, strengthened by the scarcity of labor, is by far the dominating factor. The possibility of civilian needs going unfilled, if Government demands increase and the labor supply further diminishes, is not considered entirely remote. In any event, it is generally conceded that a long period of high prices is ahead, regardless of the position of cotton.

Crying for the Moon.

The desire for the unobtainable, which is so prominent in the average member of the human race, in a slightly modified form can be held responsible for a reversal of things in the fabric world. Three years ago even the simplest of country maids would not have considered herself in the mode were she dressed in a gingham gown, but, now that these goods are scarcer and higher than they have been for years, gingham garments, or at least garments made partly of ginghams, are quite the thing. Gingham neckwear is also in vogue, and gingham hats are by no means missing from the scene. On the other hand, stores all over the city are showing them in various all-fabric models or in combinations. One of the new things is a sport hat of raffia braid, trimmed with a scarf or band of gingham.

Printcloths Still Very Active.

The sharp rise in cotton yesterday had a stimulating effect on buyers of gray printcloths in the local market, and at the same time caused sellers to become even more conservative than they had been heretofore. Spot and nearby goods were especially hard to get, an actual absence of several constructions from the market being reported. For instance, bids of 9½ cents for quick 38½-inch 64-60s were said not to have brought out any. June 39-inch 80 squares were sold at 12¾ cents, and business on 68-72s was done at 11 cents for shipments to August. Bids of 8½ cents failed to bring out nearby 38½-inch 60-52s for nearby shipment. The same thing was true of 38½-inch 60-48s at 8 cents and of 39-inch 56-44s at 7¼ cents, though they both sold to October at the figures given. Closing prices were:

39-inch, 80-80.s	12¾c	38½-inch, 64-60s	*9½c

JUROR UPSETS A VERDICT.

He Went to Scene of Accident and Dahlgren Loses $25,000.

Because one of the jurors in the case visited the scene of the accident before reporting to the court one day during the trial, Justice Philbin in the Bronx County Supreme Court yesterday set aside a verdict of $25,000 returned by a jury on April 12 last in favor of George Arthur Dahlgren, Jr., for injuries he suffered on June 13, 1916, by falling down a flight of stairs while living in a house at 465 East 174th Street of which his mother was janitor.

The defendant was Mrs. Tillie Flisser, a resident of New Jersey. James B. Henney, attorney for Mrs. Flisser, learned of the visit of the juror, and brought the matter to the attention of Justice Philbin, who questioned the juror, who, it was said, admitted the visit.

Vanderbilt Damage Suits Settled.

William K. Vanderbilt and his stepdaughter, Mrs. Barbara Rutherfurd Hatch, have settled for $50 each two suits brought against them for injuries to Charles and Rose Shillovitz, children of Philip Shillovitz, who brought personal injury actions in their behalf. The Vanderbilt car collided with an automobile in which the Shillovitz family was riding at Fifty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue, on Dec. 25 last. The attorneys for the plaintiffs will receive $20 in each case.

GOVERNMENT NEEDS FIRST.

City Bank Bulletin Discusses "Business as Usual" Slogan.

Discussing the necessity and advisability of economy, the National City Bank in its June bulletin issued yesterday declares that the unescapable facts of the situation are compelling a readjustment of business. Regarding the slogan "Business as Usual," the bank points out that the best guide the average man can take for his expenditures is to keep before him the needs of the Government for money. "Let him," it says, "compare the use the Government will make of it with any use he is contemplating, and let him remember that having turned any part of his income over to the Government, he cannot go on using it himself without creating an inflation of credit which will diminish the value of his aid to the Government."

Analyzing the economy issue the bank says:

"There is an axiom in physics that no two bodies can occupy the same space at the same time, and somewhat analogous to this is the proposition that no person can spend his income twice at the same time. He cannot at one and the same time give his income over to the Government for its use and also go on spending or investing it as usual himself.

"On the face of the situation this would seem to be axiomatic, but it is not quite that. By the employment of credit it is possible to do something that for a time looks very like eating your cake and having it too. You can spend your income as usual, and borrow your contribution to the Government.

"This appears so simple that many people regard it as a solution of the problem. Business as usual appears to be possible and just the thing. But there is more to it. Expenditures involve purchases and getting possession of certain tangible things. You have turned over certain purchasing power to the Government, and in your effort to continue using that power yourself you now meet the Government in the market as a competitor. The supply of goods is no greater than before; the supply of labor is no greater than before; but the demand is increased. You are determined to put up a building, and you meet the Government's agent at the steel mill. Who shall have the steel?

"Evidently there is a limit upon the effort to do business as usual, a physical limit fixed by the capacity of the industries. Business must be adapted to the new conditions which the war creates. The ideal adaptation would be to give the Government every man it can use advantageously, every ton of steel that it can put into a gun or a ship, every yard of cloth that it needs for the army, and supply every other requirement, first; then do business as usual on what is left."

BRIDGE BILL SIGNED.

Whitman Approves Measure Checking the Central's Plans.

ALBANY, June 1.—The Welsh bill, designed to prevent the New York Central Railroad Company from constructing a bridge over the Hudson River at Castleton, with piers in midstream, in accordance with plans approved by Secretary of War Baker, was signed today by Governor Whitman.

The Governor also signed the Sage bill appropriating $700,000 for a new State office building site west of the Capitol.

MAY CLEARINGS A RECORD.

Ships and Tonnage Exceed Any Other Figures for This Year.

More vessels cleared for foreign ports from the Port of New York in May than in any previous month this year. The net tonnage also made a record for this year. Statistics made public yesterday by S. W. Hamilton, Deputy Collector of the Marine Division of the Custom House, with the approval of the Treasury Department, showed that 428 vessels, representing a net tonnage of 1,155,508, left here last month, compared with 383 vessels and 1,043,466 tons in April. Clearances from New York the earlier months of this year were: March, 396 vessels, 1,061,028 tons; February, 318 vessels, 911,748 tons, and January, 383 vessels and 1,098,986 tons. Comparing February's outward movement, during the first month of unrestricted U-boat warfare, with May, the gain in vessels departing last month totaled 110, representing a tonnage gain of 243,760.

A significant feature of Deputy Collector Hamilton's report was the growth of American-registered ships and tonnage leaving the port last month. Summarized by months for the current year, clearances of American-owned vessels were as follows: May, 134, with a tonnage of 335,668; April, 107, tonnage 270,321; March, 125, tonnage 319,972; February, 91, tonnage 246,735, and January, 93, tonnage 277,176.

British vessels and tonnage out of the port last month ran somewhat below the April record, there being 136 British departures in May, representing a tonnage of 491,659, whereas in April the figures were 140 vessels, having a tonnage of 493,690. During May, eleven French vessels left here for French ports with war munitions and foodstuffs. This was a gain of two compared with April.

The number of vessels engaged in foreign trade entering this port in May showed a decline, the report giving 428, representing a tonnage of 1,099,438, against 447 vessels in April, carrying 1,142,282 tons. More American ships reached here last month, but their tonnage was lower than in April. The American ships numbered in May 127, or 308,821 tons, compared with 121 in April having a tonnage of 317,202.

Terminal Building in Darkness.

A short circuit in a high tension cable supplying power to the Hudson Terminal Building yesterday afternoon put out all the lights in the building and cut off the power operating the elevators for five minutes. The power is supplied from the power house in Jersey City and transmitted through a cable across the North River. The train service in the Hudson Tube was affected. The restaurants in the concourse were filled with diners who were in complete darkness until power was switched on from another cable.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

SCHUBERT PIANO CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Schubert Piano Co. of New York, whose factory is at 1 West 159th Street and warerooms at 44 West Thirty-seventh Street, by these creditors: Peter Duffy, over $400,000 for money loaned; Peter S. Duffy, over $15,000, and Harold V. Williams, $1,500. The company, it is alleged, admitted in writing inability to pay its debts. Judge A. N. Hand appointed Arthur F. Gotthold, William D. Sporborg, and Peter Duffy receivers. They are not to receive more than the compensation of one receiver, and Mr. Duffy is to serve without compensation. Liabilities are over $500,000 and assets $200,000. The bankruptcy petition was precipitated by a judgment which was obtained against the company on May 28 for $19,000 in favor of Charles L. Ament and an execution to the Sheriff was threatened. The business is an old one, having been established thirty-five years ago by Peter Duffy, who afterward incorporated it on July 1, 1885, with a capital stock of $3,000, which has never been increased. It formerly was interested in branches in Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Cleveland, and Parkersburg, W. Va. The company manufactured both pianos and piano players. The income from the sales on the installment plan is $10,000 to $15,000 a month.

WONDER CLOAK AND SUIT CO., INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Wonder Cloak and Suit Co., Inc., retail dealer in cloaks and suits, 2,146 Third Avenue, by the following creditors: Adolph Rode, $198; Cecil Grosshandler, $200, and Carl Weiss, $105. The liabilities are said to be about $4,000 and the assets about $2,000. The concern also made an assignment to Nathan M. Abramson. The business was incorporated in 1917.

DEO NETTER, a salesman, residing at 142 East Seventy-fourth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $21,720 and no assets.

CHARLES G. EWEL, a merchant, 59 Cedar Street, Kingston, N. Y., has filed a petition in bankruptcy here with liabilities of $485 and assets of $387.

SOLOMON KAMSLER, manufacturer of ladies' hats, 28-30 West Thirty-eighth Street, has filed schedules in bankruptcy with liabilities of $8,894 and assets of $4,439.

LUDWIG STEINBERG, a jeweler, 112 Grand Street, has filed schedules in bankruptcy with liabilities of $9,709 and assets of $2,906.

LOUIS C. SLOAN, retail furniture dealer, 2,573 Eighth Avenue, has filed schedules in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $4,051 and assets of $1,969.

HARRY SOLOFSKY, 5 and 10 cent store, 2,018 Amsterdam Avenue, has filed schedules in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $4,423 and assets of $4,000.

REGINE STERN, a school teacher, 434 Seventh Street, Brooklyn, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $42,055.93; assets, $200.

BONNARD SPECIALTY CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Bonnard Specialty Co., 112 Berriman Street, Brooklyn, by Cecil Gross, $582.75.

ENTERPRISE CLOAK AND SUIT CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Ray Kesterbaum, 811 Broadway, Brooklyn, doing business as the Enterprise Cloak and Suit Co., by the following creditors: Randolph & Co., $23; Ellis & Lorret, $55; Leebranz & Kaufman, $48.25, and I. Schwartz, $87.75.

Failures of the Week.

Bradstreet's reports 285 failures in the United States for the week ended May 31, against 230 for the previous week and 277, 285, 239, and 215 for the corresponding weeks 1916 to 1913. The Middle States had 52, New England 19, Southern 68, Western 58, Northwestern 16, and Far Western 22. Canada had 13, against 20 for the previous week. In the United States about 87 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had $5,000 capital or less and 9 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

Out of Town.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Louis Stein, an interior decorator, 59 East Van Buren Street, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $8,811; assets, $13,066.

Business News of the Nation in the PUBLIC LEDGER

The Public Ledger prints more than "complete stock, bond and financial reports."

North, East, South and West—staff correspondents report business and industry. From Chicago comes a daily letter from C. B. Evans; in Atlanta Q. M. is reporting Southern business; from Boston comes the New England Business letter by B. P.; New York comments from Spillane and R. L. B.; F. M. Garcia writes from Rio de Janeiro, and Wilfrid Lamb from Buenos Aires.

Every day the Ledger's Business Section contains four to eight pages of news and comment concerning business—your business and every other man's business—news not found in any other daily newspaper.

Every phase of the whole world's financial, industrial and business activity is covered.

The Public Ledger is more than the "leading reporter of local business news"; it is the national business man's newspaper.

Brief-Lived Slump on False Submarine Report—Cotton's Bad Showing.

The progressive bull market was a victim of a peculiar accident yesterday which threatened for a few minutes to undo the work of several recent strong days. Juxtaposition of two interesting items of news, neither of them very important, produced in the minds of traders a fear that the submarine menace had been brought close to these shores and prices broke from 2 to 4 points before the misapprehension on which the break was predicated was cleared away.

Announcement that a small American sailing ship had been sunk by a German submarine was so vaguely worded that many people got the impression that the vessels had gone down just off the South Atlantic coast. Within a few minutes there came a statement that the steel nets across the Narrows, at the mouth of New York Harbor, had been lowered and shipping kept from moving in or out. The inevitable conclusion which traders reached brought about a rush to sell securities, which was only checked by a later announcement that the U-boat's victim had been sunk in European waters and that the port had reopened. Why it was closed for the half-hour that the nets were down was not explained. The effect of the scare was to send Steel common, which had sold as high as 131⅝, the equivalent of 135⅝ with the dividend added, down to 126¾. While Bethlehem Steel B dropped 4¼; Industrial Alcohol, 6⅝, and Mercantile Marine preferred, 3⅝. The break had little bearing on the final prices, the losses being recovered in almost every instance, with gains in many, but it served to show that the market was in a vulnerable position following its rapid advance. The activity again exceeded a million shares, with trading largely concentrated in half a dozen industrials.

The first report on the condition of cotton for the season, published yesterday by the Department of Agriculture, was worse than the lowest estimate had made it, the condition for May 25 being put at 69.5 per cent. This is the lowest on record, comparing with the previous lowest condition of 70.5 in 1907. On the corresponding date last year the figure was 77.5, and the ten-year average is 79.1. Cold weather in the last two months hurt the crop throughout the entire South. On the Cotton Exchange prices rose rapidly, reaching new high records for every month on the list. Most of the advance was retained at the close.

It was estimated yesterday that New York banks had lost upward of $65,000,000 to the interior. Exports of $800,000 gold to Spain, and a trifle over $3,000,000 to Japan were announced. With the shifting of loans, due to the entrance upon a new month, call money rose to as high as 4¼ per cent., with most loans made at 4 per cent. It has not been determined yet whether or not to renew the London bank credit of $50,000,000, which has been maintained here for the purpose of stabilizing exchange. With this Government making substantial advances to Great Britain and the other Allies, offerings of sterling exchange have been less in amount and the occasion for the joint stock banks' credit has largely passed.

LONDON MARKET IS STRONG.

Traders Active After Payment of $200,000,000 in War Loan Dividends.

LONDON, June 1.—The payment of $200,000,000 war loan dividends today created only a small disturbance in the money market, but imparted strength to the stock market, where it is anticipated a good portion will find reinvestment, and a slight increase in activity in gilt-edged securities and industrial and shipping shares indicated that some of the money already had been utilized. Ammunition, Marconi and low-priced shipping shares were firm features and Brazilian and Mexican issues had a good tone. Speculative shares and Americans were dull.

In the midst of yesterday's flurry in stocks American Smelting and Refining refused to sell downward, and after quiet was restored the price rose more than 5 points. So sharp was the contrast presented with the general run of active issues that Smelters' course aroused gossip of possible favorable developments. Most of the metal speculation centred in talk of an increase in the dividend rate or an extra payment. The Directors meet next Wednesday, it was learned, but no official forecast of their action could be obtained. The company's Mexican properties are by no means in active operation as yet, but the gradual improvement now in progress is understood to be encouraging to the management.

A Test for the Bulls.

Many a bullish trader suffered from nerve strain during the half hour stocks were dropping after news came that the Port of New York had been closed. Those who were not in receipt of this information had an even more disturbing time as they watched the slump recorded by the ticker. Around the opening they had seen Steel quickly move forward more than a point, although bereft of the big dividend, and the market tendency was toward further strength and breadth. Coming on the heels of the upturn, the drop of more than 4 points in Steel, under really tremendous selling, supplied a distinct surprise. It showed, incidentally, the effect of a steady rise of more than a fortnight, which had eliminated much of the old short account. Most traders presumably owned long stock, and when the unsettling information came, too many tried to sell at the same time.

Catching Steel Stop Orders.

The way stocks acted gave the impression that the Steel account was filled with stop-loss orders around 128. After the quotation reached this level from a point above 130 the market for Steel made an almost perpendicular descent to 126¾, and immediately turned upward again. The fact that a trader had a stop order in at 128 did not mean that he expected, if the market moved off, that his stock would automatically be closed out at this figure. It meant that as soon as 128 was reached his broker would sell at the best price obtainable. There was so much Steel offered from 128 down to 127 that a full point separated the stop-order price and the actual price obtained in many cases. Steel sold at 130 at 10:25 o'clock and by 11:30 o'clock it had fallen to 126¾ and was back to 128.

Cramps to Pay a Dividend.

Cramp & Sons Ship and Engine Building shares are back on a dividend basis for the first time since 1902. The Directors yesterday announced that 3 per cent. would be paid on Aug. 1. It has been a long and weary wait for some shareholders for a return on their investment. There were times in the fourteen-year period when the shipbuilding trade was flat on its back, and things did not look good for Cramps. Poor years in succession did not promote the expenditure of money for additions and improvements, but the demand brought about by the war changed all this. Cramps' plant has been thoroughly modernized, overhead costs have been cut, and the Directors ordered the dividend with the comfortable feeling that full operations are promised for many months ahead.

New Form of Directors' Fees.

A banker who attends a large number of Directors' meetings, at which he is accustomed to receive the conventional twenty-dollar piece as remuneration for his services, was greatly surprised yesterday when, upon leaving the board room, the Secretary handed him an envelope which was of unusually light weight. At first he thought it might contain a check, but upon opening it he discovered two ten-dollar "slices" of the Liberty Loan. The banker said he would take them home and present them to his wife, who would hereafter accumulate these Federal Reserve Bank Liberty Loan participation certificates and exchange every five for a fifty-dollar bond.

What $50 Will Buy.

The Liberty Loan Publicity Committee put out a statement yesterday showing what the Federal Government could buy with each $50 received in payment of a bond. It is calculated that $50 would buy 1,000 pounds of flour, or 1,250 pounds of bread, or 700 pounds of sugar, or 800 pounds of potatoes, or 400 pounds of fresh beef. It is figured that $50 would buy 1,000 rounds of ammunition or three standard rifles. In the line of clothing $50 would cover the cost of 8 pairs of blankets, or 25 cots, or 200 pairs of socks, or 21 cotton khaki suits. The statement shows that $50 will equip one soldier for the front, and that $500 will keep him for one year.

The Automobile Trade.

Reports from automobile making centres indicate that makers of trucks are less pessimistic over the outlook for sales than those whose lines are limited to pleasure cars. As a matter of fact, the comments so far heard on the entire motor situation do not show apprehension among any class of manufacturers that a slump lies ahead. From the steel trade come scattered reports that buying by auto producers is slowing down. It is from the manufacturers of raw material rather than from makers of the finished product that unfavorable news in respect to auto making is derived. The motor car companies have not indicated that they were curtailing operations, and doubtless some time will yet pass before the broad attitude of the public toward new purchases in war time will be demonstrated in factory work.

WAR HURTS CANADIAN MINING

Year's Operations of Dome Company Bring Deficit of $68,921.

The Dome Mines Company presents a gloomy picture of labor conditions in its Canadian mining field. In the Porcupine district, where 2,300 men are normally employed, more than 600 have enlisted with the Canadian forces, said the annual report yesterday, and many have gone to other mining camps for the sake of higher wages.

The company earned in the year ended March 31 a gross income of $2,171,785, against $1,778,959 the year before. Expenses consumed $1,241,862, an increase of more than $350,000 over 1916, and the final balance for dividends totaled $731,079. This was equal to $1.83 per share of stock, and as dividends mounting to $2 per share were disbursed, the year's operations brought a deficit of $68,921.

The last quarterly payment to stockholders was half as large as in the preceding quarter. The company announced at the time the dividend was declared that the uncertain labor outlook made necessary the cut.

NEW INVESTMENT TAX.

Governor Signs Mills's Bill Affecting Secured Debts.

ALBANY, June 1.—The Mills bill, reenacting the old secured debt tax law with modifications, under the title of the "investment tax law," was signed by Governor Whitman today. Controller Travis estimated that the new statute would increase the State revenues by more than $1,000,000 annually.

The measure provides for two optional forms of payments and imposes a heavy penalty for failure to register securities under the new law. Holders of bonds may pay either an annual tax of two mills or a tax of 1 per cent. of the face value of the securities and obtain exemption from further taxation for five years.

RECORD FOR COTTON

Highest Prices in Forty-five Years Reached on Receipt of Crop Report.

The publication yesterday morning of the Government's first crop report, indicating a condition of 69.5, the lowest in the recollection of the oldest traders, caused a rapid and excited upward movement and all deliveries made new high records for the season. The swift advance in prices brought quotations to the highest level in forty-five years. The highest prices of the day were reached in the afternoon, when active months sold 65 to 78 points net higher, and the market closed strong, only a few points off from the best.

July contracts sold up to 22.45 cents and October contracts touched 22 cents within 2 points. July closed at 22.39 cents and October at 21.93 cents.

Private reports recently published had prepared the trade for low condition figures, but it seemed that no one had expected an official report as low as 69.5, which reflected the poorest start for the crop in the history of the market.

The market was rather nervous and unsettled before the Government report was issued at 11 o'clock. The opening was 5 to 9 points higher, but there were reactions during the morning and sentiment seemed to be unsettled by reports that an American vessel had been torpedoed. There was also selling on a belief that a bullish report from Washington had been discounted, and active months worked about 2 to 5 points net lower during the middle of the morning. The first advance on the official condition figures met heavy profit taking and after selling up from 21.17 cents to 21.55 cents, October contracts broke to 21.03 cents around midday, or 17 points net lower. Trade interests were reported large buyers on this decline, however, and as soon as realizing became less active, the market became strong and excited.

Few traders made any attempt to forecast the crop indicated by the June condition figures, but the poor start of the crop combined with unfavorable features, which are expected to make themselves felt during the growing season, seemed to create more or less general apprehension of a disastrously short supply. Both domestic and foreign trade interests were reported to be heavy buyers during the afternoon, supposedly as a hedge against their forward requirements. There was also rebuying by Wall Street and Western interests, who had taken profits earlier in the week, and so far as could be learned around the ring, the advance seemed to be bringing in very little pressure from the South.

Exports for the day were 1,517 bales, making 4,876,003 so far this season, against 5,037,314 last year.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

> With the additional stimulus imparted by the extensive and increasing Government demands, manufacturing in most branches throughout the country continues under high pressure, whereas in about all sections a lessening of ordinary distributive trade has become a more conspicuous feature. The diminished retail transactions largely reflect the backwardness of the season, and the extreme costs of necessities are also influential in causing curtailed purchasing by consumers. That the restricted movement of commodities has in some cases affected collections is now more evident, and where stocks of staple goods have not undergone normal depletion, special sales have been inaugurated to reduce the accumulations.
> With only five business days this week, bank clearings naturally show some falling off from recent preceding weeks, but the total at the leading cities in the United States is again the largest ever reported for this period, amounting to no less than $4,698,075,688, an increase of 33.1 per cent. as compared with the same week last year, and of 71.4 per cent. as contrasted with the corresponding week in 1915.

Bradstreet's says:

> Distributive trade pauses, but industrial activity in the leading lines tends to broaden, the grain crops to improve, and the Government to buy heavily of numerous kinds of supplies. But ordinary domestic buying reflects indubitable evidences of cautious buying on the part of an exceptionally well paid and more than well employed populace, for which attitude a trinity of causes may be assigned, namely, prolonged unseasonable weather, high prices, and indications of a rather widespread desire to economize. Under the circumstances jobbing trade is not above fair, reorders are conspicuous by their absence, interior distribution naturally is light, and while sections that have received high prices for crops are buying for Fall delivery, the movement in this respect is slow, there being expectations of lower prices for raw materials.

$3,873,000 Gold Taken for Export.

Gold exports are continuing on a moderate scale. Despite the artificial measures taken to restrict shipments of the precious metal to Spain, through the fixing of an arbitrary discount, another $800,000 was taken for that country yesterday. To Japan an additional $3,073,-000 was dispatched.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

About 150,000 shares of United States Steel common were dealt in on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, the broadness of the market in that stock being an outstanding feature of the dealings. The market was a broad one all day, with commission houses handling a heavy volume of orders on both sides of the account. This included a big turnover of odd lots.

LUMBER MEN MAKE PROTEST

Tell Commerce Commission Freight Increase Would Menace the Trade.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Pacific Coast lumber dealers told the Interstate Commerce Commission today that a 15 per cent. increase in freight rates, asked by the carriers, would menace the future of the fir and redwood shippers.

"The Western lumber business is just recovering from a long and heavy depression," said Junius H. Brown, Secretary of the California Redwood Association. "A raise in rates would mean a curtailment of shipments and consequent heavy losses."

W. G. Powell, rate statistician for the Nebraska Railway Commission, presented data to show the effect of the Adamson law on the Lincoln Division of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy lines. The division's payroll for trainmen and enginemen, he asserted, showed an increase of 11 per cent. as a result of the eight-hour basic day.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Benjamin C. Morris, Jr., formerly with Gilbert Elliott & Co., is now associated with J. K. Rice, Jr., & Co.

The New York Stock Exchange has admitted to the list International Paper Company stamped preferred stock and substituted on list Savage Arms Corporation common stock for Driggs-Seabury Ordnance Company common stock.

The American Metals Co., Ltd., has certified to the Secretary of State at Albany that its capital has been increased from $3,500,000 to $25,000,000.

During May there were incorporated in New York State 902 stock companies, having a total capital of $74,384,000, as compared with 950 companies chartered in April, capitalized at $61,765,000, and $44,634,000 in May last year.

The May stock transfer tax amounted to $609,103.

William J. Montgomery, Assistant Secretary of the Franklin Trust Company in the Wall Street branch, received congratulations yesterday on the completion of his twenty-fifth year in the service of that company.

COTTON CROP BADLY HURT.

Cold Weather in the South Kills Much of the Seed Planted.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Cold weather in April and May hurt the cotton crop severely through the entire South, according to an announcement made today by the Department of Agriculture. The condition of the crop on May 25 was 69.5 per cent. of a normal, compared with 77.5 last year; 80 in 1915, 74.3 in 1914, and 79.1, the May 25 ten-year average.

The condition of the crop by States follows:

Virginia, 75; North Carolina, 68; South Carolina, 70; Georgia, 69; Florida, 76; Alabama, 61; Mississippi, 66; Louisiana, 74; Texas, 74; Arkansas, 64; Tennessee, 63; Missouri, 73; Oklahoma, 77; California, 82.

Revised estimates issued today of the area planted and in cultivation at the end of June last year place the acreage at 36,052,000, the area picked last year at 34,985,000 acres, and the yield per acre at 156.6 pounds of lint.

An official statement today by the Department of Agriculture in connection with the condition of the crops says:

"Temperatures for many days in early May were so low that frost formed even in the southern part of the cotton belt. Much cotton was killed outright and the stand was damaged everywhere.

"There has been much replanting in every State, and the cotton everywhere has a stunted appearance and has grown but little. In addition to cold weather drought in some sections has kept the seed from germinating. The crop will average probably three weeks late in age and probably more in size and appearance."

DRY GOODS TRADE STRONG.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Wholesale distribution of dry goods for the current week is running in equal volume to the corresponding period of a year ago. Road sales for immediate delivery are about the same in volume as last year, while those for future delivery continue well ahead. Customers have been in the market in smaller numbers. Collections are ahead of the same week a year ago. The market generally strong."

and Bond Scrip Certificates,

Issued under the Mortgage and Deed of Trust dated May 1, 1912, made by said Company to The New York Trust Company, as Trustee:

The District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York having on May 17, 1917, rendered a decision directing a decree for more than $32,272,000 against The Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company in favor of The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee of the mortgage securing the First Mortgage Five Per Cent. Thirty-year Gold Bonds of Western Pacific Railway Company, the undersigned, holding and representing large amounts of the Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Adjustment Mortgage Gold Bonds above mentioned, believe it imperative that the holders of such Bonds be in position to take prompt and concerted action for the protection of their interests, and, therefore, have consented to act as a committee for the protection of the interests of the holders of the Bonds.

It is to the advantage of the Bondholders promptly to deposit their Bonds with the Committee in order to participate in the benefits to be gained by concerted action on the part of a large majority of the Bonds.

The holders of the Bonds and of Bond Scrip Certificates are urgently requested to deposit their Bonds, with the October 1, 1917, and subsequent coupons, and their Scrip Certificates, on or before June 30, 1917, with The New York Trust Company, 26 Broad Street, New York City, the Depositary under an agreement, dated June 1, 1917, providing for such deposits. Deposits may also be made with First Trust & Savings Bank, 68 West Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois, the Agent of the Depositary. Transferable certificates of deposit will be issued therefor.

The Committee will promptly pay any interest which may be received by it on the deposited Bonds to the holders of the certificates of deposit representing the Bonds in respect whereof such payments of interest shall be made, deducting any income tax required to be withheld.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement may be obtained by application either to the Depositary or to its Agent above mentioned.

Witness Tells Commerce Commission Trip from Kansas Should Take a Week.

PROFIT 10 CENTS A BARREL

Merchants Say That Reduction of Free Storage Time Will Increase Cost to Public.

Flour merchants connected with the New York Produce Exchange told Examiner Wilbur La Roe, Jr., of the Interstate Commerce Commission at the hearing continued yesterday in the rooms of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building, that any reduction of free storage time to shippers in this harbor would, in the final analysis, be borne by the public. Another thing developed at the hearing was that sometimes it took seventy days for a carload of flour to reach New York from Kansas instead of the seven days stated by at least one witness as a reasonable period for the transit of the commodity.

H. J. Greenbank, of the firm of Bogert & Greenbank, flour merchants, who was the first witness of the day in the taking of testimony in the case involving the petition of the railroads to cut down free storage time from five to two days, made the statement that ultimate consumers would have to stand the extra expenses incurred by handlers if the commission took favorable action upon the railroads' plea.

"Flour a year ago cost the grocer about $5 or $6 a barrel," Mr. Greenbank said. "Today it costs about $15. If the commission grants the railroads this proposed reduction of free storage time, or increases the cost of storage, the public will have to bear the burden. As matters are today, we are happy to make 8 or 10 cents profit per barrel, and that won't go far if you increase the expenses."

Combating the contention of the railroads that flour merchants were tying up freight cars badly wanted for general transportation purposes through uncalled for delays at terminals, Mr. Greenbank told in detail how the roads notified the merchant of the arrival of the flour, the weighing, the examination of the product, and the expenses involved. He protested that to reduce the free storage time from 5 to 2 days would be ruinous.

"We have figures to show," the witness was told, "that in June, 1916, of 410 cars of flour, 46 per cent. had been on hand for thirty days, and 85 per cent. for more than six days. How do you account for that?"

"Well," Mr. Greenbank replied, "those cars were probably ten, twenty, or thirty miles up the road when we were notified of their arrival."

Favors Five Days' Free Time.

W. P. Tanner, another flour merchant, testified that for the last six months of 1916 his storage rate increase, together with the reduction of free time, had meant an increase of 1,100 per cent. to him without the saving of a day in the moving of the flour. He declared five days' free time was the minimum the flour trade could stand in this locality, and declined even to compare conditions in New York with those in Philadelphia or other cities.

"It is practically impossible," the witness said, "for a merchant to count, even approximately, on when he may expect a carload at Jersey City. From Kansas, it is generally figured in the trade to allow thirty days for a load of flour. However, there was a period when all my deliveries from that section averaged seventy days. The railroad should deliver the load in seven days."

A question by Examiner La Roe led Mr. Tanner to say that the flour merchant had no competitor "except possibly the corn meal dealer." He concluded by giving it as his belief that the unloading, weighing and inspection could not be accomplished under three days, and that at least two more days were required for what he termed "disposition."

Henry A. Meyenberg, also a flour merchant, who said he handled 1,000,000 barrels of flour a year, told of the difficulties experienced by the trade, together with what he designated as "necessary delays." A. C. Bedell, Inspector in Chief of Flour Inspection of the Produce Exchange, was called to refute the charges of the railroads that a great deal of unnecessary delay took place in the examination of shipments after they reached harbor terminals here.

Tells of Irregular Shipments.

William F. Bausman, in charge of the European exports of the Washburn-Crosby Milling Company, was the last witness of the flour protestants. He spoke of the difference of time with which the shipper had to contend. Sometimes a car arrives from Buffalo in forty-eight hours. At other times the journey requires three weeks. Occasionally, he said, a carload of flour from Minneapolis reached New York in ten days, and again in ninety days.

"Until the railroads can give a reasonable assurance as to time," he said, "it is unfair to go below the present five-day limit, as that is an irreducible minimum."

Asked about the profit on export flour, the witness declared it varied, but that millers were satisfied with 5 to 10 cents profit a barrel. Even this, he added, had been absorbed by the increase in storage charges.

C. T. Bradford, Assistant Traffic Manager of the International Harvester Company, said that 80 per cent. of the company's shipping business was handled on the Atlantic seaboard, and about 75 per cent. of this through New York Harbor.

The proposed rate, he said, was unreasonable. A car standing in New York for 30 days would cost his company $10.83, while in Baltimore it would be only $5.41. For 60 days the difference would be, New York $64.99 and Baltimore $10.83.

The hearing was concluded with this witness, and briefs were requested by the Examiner by July 2.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Week's Feature Was the Decline in Those of Foodstuffs.

Flour was still to the fore in the week's changes of commodities prices, according to Dun's list, but this time it was due to the ground it lost rather than to unusual advances. Spring patent, while still quoted higher than any of the other listed varieties, sustained a loss of $2.25 a barrel. Provisions also were easier in tone. The metals markets appeared the strongest of all.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on forty-two standard commodities this week at this city, unless otherwise specified. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the same week a year ago:

In addition to the decline in Spring patent flour, as noted above, the other grades fell off in price as follows: Winter patent, $1.65 a barrel; Spring clear, $1, and Winter clear, $1.40. At Chicago short ribs showed the only rise in provisions. Mess pork was unchanged, but price losses were sustained by prime lard and by live beef, sheep, and hogs. Bacon was lower here, but hams did not change.

A summary of the foodstuffs changes shows more reason for joy on the part of the consumer than has been the case for some time. In numbers there were more than twice as many declines as advances, and some of the latter were in minor foods like spices. All of the listed grades of butter were higher, due to none too liberal receipts and a certain amount of speculative buying. Cheese prices eased off, however, and the egg market showed no change either way on the grades listed.

In the vegetables the strength of potatoes contrasted with the price weakness of cabbage and onions. Beans appeared to have reached the top of their rise for the time being, but no declines in them were shown. Coffee, tea, and all of the sugars were steady at recent prices, while in the spices black and white peppers advanced and nutmegs declined. The fruits, both fresh and dried, were without feature so far as changes were concerned. Wheat continued unquoted for nearby months, but corn, malt, and oats went down. The only rise in grains was shown by rye.

Tin was the only item in the metals list to show a drop this week. On the other hand, higher prices were established by No. 2 foundry pig iron at Philadelphia by all the billets except forging, by tank plates, cut nails, and No. 28 galvanized sheets at Pittsburgh, and by foundry coke, copper, and lead. Two declines contrasted with sixteen advances in the changes shown by drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils. Declines in quicksilver and soda benzoate were among the features, as was the rise of opium, in jobbing lots, to $27 a pound. A year ago it brought $11.55.

The textiles had an unsettled week, with higher prices established on several varieties of woolen goods, as well as on all kinds of burlaps and many gray and bleached cottons. Colored cottons were very firmly held in all cases, and were scarce as well. The undertone of the leather market was stronger, though no actual changes were listed. In the hides the only decline was shown by calfskins, while No. 1 native packer and Colorado stock went up.

The remaining advances listed were in paint and Chinese raw silk. Turpentine supplied the last decline. In all, the week showed seventy-two revisions, of which fifty were advances. Last week the figures were, respectively, eighty-four and fifty-seven.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market was quiet and rather feverish, but on the whole the undertone was firmer and final prices in the Chicago contract market were 3 to 4 cents net higher. The crop news of the day was of somewhat less optimistic nature and this together with the pronounced strength in corn stimulated a little more active covering and brought about the rally. Cash markets in the interior were inactive and irregular. Minneapolis was 5⅝c higher; Toledo was nominally unchanged and in Kansas City prices were unchanged to 3 cents lower. So far there has been little evidence of hedge selling and owing to the prevailing market conditions the trade is very much at sea regarding future developments and as to how the new crop is to be marketed. Rye, market firm; No. 2 Western, $2.40, cost, insurance, freight, New York.

CORN.

The trend of corn prices was upward most of the day, and at the close the list was 3¾@6¾c net higher, with near months showing the most strength. The Argentine market was stronger, and there was some export interest shown in the market here. Country offerings have decreased quite sharply of late, partly owing to the unfavorable weather. In the local market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.71¾, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market responded to the strength in other grains, and after some irregularity during the forenoon made sharp advances, closing 1⅛@1⅜c net higher. In the local cash market standard was quoted at 68½@69½c; No. 2, white, 70c; No. 3, white, 68@69c; No. 4, white, 67½@68c; fancy clipped, white, 71@72c; ordinary clipped, white, 70@71c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market opened lower on cables and easier on live hogs, but became stronger in the afternoon on commission house buying inspired by the strength of grain and large clearances, closing a little under the top. Receipts at all Western points were about 66,000 hogs, including 12,000 at Chicago, with 8,000 expected on Saturday, 3,000 at Kansas City, and 7,000 at Omaha.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil trade was disposed to take a bullish view of the Government report on the cotton crop, which showed a condition of only 69.5 per cent., compared with 77.5 per cent. a year ago. The demand, however, was comparatively light, as the market for the cash article seems to be quiet at present, and, in consequence, prices moved within a narrow range, closing net unchanged to 6 points higher. Total sales were 20,100 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

No fresh feature developed in the coffee market yesterday. Discussion of the latest tax proposals evidently failed to throw any light upon market uncertainties, and fluctuations continued narrow, with a comparatively small volume of business. Closing prices were unchanged to 3 points lower. Sales were reported of 28,250 bags. The local spot market remained dull and nominally unchanged on the basis of 10¼c for Rio 7s and 10½c for Santos 4s. Range of prices.

SUGAR.

After opening 1 to 5 points lower, the market for sugar futures developed an easier tendency, and on liquidation by tired longs prices sagged off, the close showing net losses of 4 to 9 points. Sales amounted to 19,200 tons, which included switching operations September to December at 20 to 16 points and July to December at 4 points. Range of prices:

The local market for raw sugar was easier, and under more liberal offerings prices declined ⅛c, although the volume of business was light, with buyers inclined to hold off and await developments. There were sales of 6,000 bags of Cubas due next week at 4⅝c, cost and freight, equal to 5.89c for centrifugal, and about 20,000 bags of Porto Ricos at equal to 5.83c for centrifugal. The market closed easy at 4⅝c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 5.89c for centrifugal and 5.01c for molasses. There was only a moderate business in refined sugar, but prices were firm and unchanged at 7.50c to 8c for fine granulated.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 12,658 packages. Under strong pressure to sell prices declined fully 1c, and at the reduced figures buyers are taking hold slowly. There is quite an accumulation of stock in first hands, and indications point to some further decline before the trade improves much. This applies to all grades of creamery. Ladles a little easier, but packing stock holding up pretty well. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 42¼@43c; extras, (92 score,) 41¾@42c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 40½@41½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 38½@40c; thirds, 37@38c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 43½@44c; extras, 42½@43c; firsts, 41@42c; seconds, 38@40½c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 41½c; good to prime, 39@41c; common to fair, 35@38½c; renovated, extras, 39c; firsts, 38@38½c; lower grades, 34@37½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 36@37c; ladles, current make, firsts, 34½@35c; seconds, 34c; lower grades, 32½@33½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 33½c; No. 2, 33c; lower grades, 31@32½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 29,074 cases. The market continues irregular. There was a fairly active demand for the moderate proportion of strictly fancy stock in the recent receipts, such being absorbed at firmly sustained prices, with possibly the tone more in sellers' favor. On very cheap eggs also there is a fair movement, but on medium grades of current receipts the market favors buyers, with quite liberal offerings of stock within range of 34½@36½c. High grade dirties firmer; low grades unimproved. Nearby eggs steady. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 38½@39c; storage packed firsts, 37½@38c; seconds, 36@36½c; fresh gathered, firsts, 36@37½c; seconds and lower grades, 32½@35½c; dirties, No. 1, 34@34½c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@33c; checks, good to choice, dry, 33@33½c; undergrades, 30@32c. State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 39@40c; ordinary to good, 38@38½c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 37½@39c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 37@38½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 39@39½c; gathered brown and mixed colors, ungraded, 36@38½c. Duck eggs—Indian Runner, 42c; Baltimore, 38@40c; Western and prime Southern, 36@38c.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two big transactions, each of which involved properties chiefly on the upper west side and a Brooklyn homestead on the Shore Road, aggregating in value about $1,000,000, gave the realty market plenty of activity yesterday.

One of the deals was the sale of the thirteen-story apartment structure recently finished on the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Eightieth Street, a plot 77 by 100 adjoining All Saints' Protestant Episcopal Church. The property was purchased by an investor from J. C. & M. G. Mayer, Inc., who acquired the plot in 1915 and tore down a seven-story apartment house for the new building. It is fully rented, showing a rent roll of $70,500, and has been held at $700,000. The buyer gave in part payment Fifth Avenue property below Thirtieth Street, valued at $30,000.

Electus C. Backus acted as broker in the deal for the Mayers and the buyer was represented by the William H. Whiting Company.

Brooklyn Home in $1,000,000 Manhattan Trade.

The second $1,000,000 transaction involved three upper Manhattan apartment houses, the former residence of Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst in the Murray Hill section, and one of the finest show places in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, overlooking New York Bay. The Manhattan property was purchased as an investment by Mrs. Mary S. Shepard, who gave her Brooklyn homestead in part payment. She bought the four Manhattan parcels from Frederick Brown.

They included the Hudson-Overlook, 100 by 100, southeast corner of Pinehurst Avenue and 180th Street, acquired early in the week by Mr. Brown, valued at $200,000; the Farnon, 100 by 100, at 551 West 170th Street, northeast corner of Audubon Avenue, valued at $190,000; the Montauk Arms, 100 by 100, at 412 to 420 West 148th Street, between St. Nicholas and Convent Avenues, valued at $180,000, all six-story houses, and the former Parkhurst residence at 133 East Thirty-fifth Street, 20 by 74, valued at $45,000. The apartments are all well rented.

In part payment Mrs. Shepard gave her Brooklyn estate, one of the finest places on the Shore Road, consisting of about fifty-two lots, fronting 149.9 on the Bay Ridge Parkway, known as the Shore Road, and about 700 feet on Ninety-first Street, extending back to the Colonial Road. On it is a large residence and a garage. The Shepard place was held at $250,000.

The Knap & Wasson Company were the brokers in the transaction, Mrs. Shepard being represented by B. A. Green.

Holdings of Defunct Realty Company Sold by Bondholders.

The Leonora Realty Company, David Pasinsky, President, purchased from the Halcyon Realty Company the two seven-story elevator apartment houses known as the Shoreham and Lucille, occupying the block front on the east side of St. Nicholas Avenue, between 113th and 114th Streets.

The houses each have a frontage of 118.5 feet on St. Nicholas Avenue, and on 113th Street the frontage is 88.2 feet, while on 114th Street the property measures 131.2 feet. H. B. Davis, as attorney, represented both buyer and sellers.

Sharp & Co. negotiated the sale. Levi P. Morton owned the property for many years and disposed of it to the New York Real Estate and Security Company, which failed several years ago. The Halcyon Realty Company represents the bondholders of the defunct company.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

An investing client of Slawson & Hobbs purchased from the Rande Realty Corporation 315 Riverside Drive, a five-story private dwelling, on a lot 21 by 100, located between 103d and 104th Streets. The property which was held at $75,000 was acquired last year in a trade for 228 West Seventieth Street.

The four-story dwelling, 55 West Ninetieth Street, on a lot 18.9 by 100.8, located near Columbus Avenue, is reported to have been sold by Mathilde C. Lueder to an investor.

The five-story thirteen-foot dwelling, at 63 West Fifty-fourth Street, on the block with the Rockefeller homes, was sold in foreclosure yesterday for $31,955. J. B. Kirkman, as plaintiff, taking the property on the first bid. Henry Brady was the auctioneer. The incumbrances amount to $34,020.

The University Club Secures $1,000,000 Loan for Building Additions.

The New York Life Insurance Company has loaned to the University Club $1,000,000 on the property situated at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street, having a frontage of 100.5 feet on the avenue and running irregular to Fifty-fifth Street, where it has a frontage of 52 feet and a frontage of 174.11 feet on Fifty-fourth Street.

A nine-story building is to be constructed on Fifty-fifth Street, and a six-story building on Fifty-fourth Street, and alterations made to the building on Fifth Avenue, making all into one entire building.

Bronx Sales.

The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company resold to an investor 1,524 Brook Avenue, a four-story tenement on a lot, 25 by 100.9, taken in foreclosure last week.

James T. Barry sold 1,817 Mohegan Avenue, a five-story flat, on a plot 50 by 100, to the West Farms Construction Company, which gave in part payment the taxpayer at 2,256 Crotona Avenue.

Forest Hall, a seven-story elevator apartment house, occupying a plot 98 by 100 on the northwest corner of Forest Avenue and 158th Street has been sold by Thomas Mulligan to Marie Kahrs for investment.

G. Carlucci & Co. sold for Angela Carretta and Gerardo Spota the four-story tenement, 2,367 and 2,369 Hughes Avenue, on a plot 50 by 88, to Mrs. Elisa Caruso.

$600,000 Hotel for Long Island.

A hotel estimated to cost about $600,000 is to be erected on the site of the American Versailles planned for the Manhasset Bay section. A tract of seven acres at the rear of the sixty-seven acres acquired by the Versailles Corporation has been bought by the Manhasset Bay Corporation for the project.

The hotel will be five stories of concrete, and have 200 rooms, restaurant accommodating 5,000, large dance space, and stage.

The new company is composed of C. Pierre of the Chez Pierre at Long Beach; A. Borgo, formerly of the Hotel Claridge, London; Horace G. Knowles, and Chessman Kittredge. The latter two are connected with the newly formed Country Club of America, and the proposed hotel will form the central figure of that organization.

New Jersey.

J. Edgar Leaycraft & Co. have sold for Joseph B. Hoyt his residence at Sea Bright to G. E. Higgins. The property was held at $25,000.

Westchester.

The Robert E. Farley Organization has sold a plot on Myrtle Avenue, in the Nepperhan Heights section of Yonkers, to R. A. Kenyon.

Bargain Prices Expected at Sale of 1,445 Bronx Lots Today.

There is every indication that the 1,445 Bronx lots which Joseph P. Day and J. Clarence Davies, associate agents and auctioneers, will start selling this morning for the Lorillard Spencer estate will go at bargain prices.

It will be the largest offering of vacant land at auction of the year.

The sale, which will be held under a mammoth tent on the property, rain or shine, involves 1,445 lots, adjacent to three stations of the White Plains road extension of the subway at Bronx and Pelham Parkway, Allerton, and Burke Avenues and extending eastward toward the holdings of the Astor estate and the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad.

It was announced last night that every lot will be offered without reserve or protection. Unusually easy terms for buyers will prevail, as there will be allowed to remain on bond and mortgage 60 per cent. of the purchase price at 3½ per cent., or 75 per cent. at 5 per cent. for one, two, three, or five years, with titles insured free by the New York Title and Mortgage Company.

Messrs. Day and Davies stated that the [illegible] poor condition of the demand for real estate and the poor [illegible] are expected to result in low [illegible] inquiries as to terms of sale [illegible] comparatively scarce, and [illegible] low bids and [illegible] been sold by Caroline F. Manice and the latter by Rosetta Schiff.

The sales were made by Wm. A. White & Sons. This completed the plot, which is 80 feet on Park Avenue and 97 feet on East Sixty-fourth Street, which the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church is to improve in the near future.

Recent Buyers.

Frederick J. Steiner is the buyer of the dwelling 134 East Nineteenth Street.

The K. T. B. Realty Company is the buyer of the dwelling 109 West 120th Street.

The Boston Excelsior Company is the buyer of the three and five-story buildings at the southeast corner of Eleventh Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street.

Commercial Leases.

Wm. A. White & Sons, associated with M. & L. Hess, leased for a term of twenty-one years the plot at 326-332 West Thirty-ninth Street, 100 by 100, at a net rental of nearly $100,000. The lessee will extensively alter the existing buildings into scenic studios. The development of this plot will complete the improvement of the old Finck Brewery property, the balance of which, consisting of 125 feet to the east, was recently improved with the twelve-story Finck Building, which, under the management of Wm. A. White & Sons, has been entirely rented within the past year.

J. Edgar Leaycraft & Co. have leased the store at 568 Seventh Avenue to Louis Astor, shoe dealer, and the store at 103 Fourth Avenue to Jacob F. Fressel.

Realty Notes.

The Anahma Realty Corporation, with $4,000,000 capital, has been formed by Parks, McKenstry & Taft, lawyers, acting for August Heckscher, for the express purpose of taking over the Hotel Manhattan, Madison Avenue, Forty-second and Forty-third Streets, which Mr. Heckscher bought last year from the Belding estate and leased it to John McE. Bowman of the Biltmore Hotel.

RECEIVERS' NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—ELLSWORTH E. COOK, Complainant, against JARED FLAGG, Defendant.—In Equity.—No. E-12-395.

TO ALL PERSONS, CUSTOMERS OF JARED FLAGG, WHO, AS CREDITORS, MAY BE ENTITLED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE TRUST FUND DECREED BY THIS COURT IN THIS CAUSE:

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed Receiver by a decree entered in the above cause on May 9th, 1917; and has duly qualified as such, and has entered into and taken possession of the properties and assets constituting the trust fund set forth in said decree.

The bill in this cause having been filed by the complainant, not only in his own interest and behalf, but in behalf of all other claimants against the defendant similarly situated who may become parties to this proceeding and contribute to the expenses thereof, as the court may direct, said decree requires the undersigned Receiver to make publication notifying all said persons, customers of Jared Flagg, whose money and property were received by said Flagg under substantially the same conditions as the money and property of the complainant, Cook, was received, of the entry of said decree and requiring them to file their respective claims against the said Jared Flagg with the undersigned Receiver on or before the 16th day of July, 1917, and that, failing to do so, they will be excluded from the benefits of these proceedings.

All claims so filed shall be duly verified by the oath of the claimant or by some one in his behalf having knowledge of the facts and shall set forth with substantial accuracy, the dates when the claimant turned over to defendant Flagg the money or securities on account of which such claimant derives his right, and the amount thereof; also the amounts received back from the defendant Flagg with the dates of such repayments, and the contract between defendant and the claimant or a copy thereof shall in the case of each claim be attached, if obtainable; but if not obtainable, it may be otherwise proved.

If a preference is claimed, the statement of claim shall so specify together with the grounds thereof. Unless written objection, specifying the grounds thereof to the allowance of a claim is filed with the Receiver within ten days after the claim is filed, in proper form with the Receiver, the statement of claim so filed shall be conclusively presumed to be correct and if objection is so filed, said statement of claim shall nevertheless be regarded as prima facie correct, providing in either case, it agrees substantially with the books and records of the defendant now in the Receiver's hands. In case there is a material difference between the books and records of said defendant in the Receiver's possession and any claim so filed, the correctness of said claim as well as any question of preference, or other question raised by objections to any claim, shall be determined by a Special Master hereafter to be appointed for such purpose.

That in and by said decree appointing the undersigned Receiver, it is provided that: "The institution of any separate suits by any of the persons hereinbefore mentioned, customers of the defendant, against the defendant to acquire any lien upon or preference to the trust fund hereinbefore mentioned, or to enforce any judgment, execution or claim against the same except in this proceeding is hereby enjoined."

Dear Sir:

I am directed by the American Security & Trust Company, Executor of the last will of the late Chas. E. Wood, to say that it desires to emphasize the necessity for the liquidation of the assets in which he was interested as a member of the firm of Wood, Harmon & Co. You are therefore requested to proceed to the sale of such property as is under your control with all reasonable dispatch.

Liberty Bonds

All cash received from this sale before June 15th will be invested in Liberty Bonds.

Mr. Charles E. Wood, late member of the firm of Wood, Harmon & Company, had a substantial but minor interest in some of the firm's Brooklyn properties. In accordance with the wishes of his heirs and at the request of his Executors, we are offering a certain portion of our Brooklyn holdings now at about half their real value.

The firm of Wood, Harmon & Company is known as controlling the largest amount of desirable land in Brooklyn. When you wish to designate the best real estate in Brooklyn it is enough to say it is a Wood-Harmon property. So the public may be assured these are unapproachable bargains and everybody who wishes may take advantage of the fact that subways are near at hand and rents mounting higher.

This is a most attractive section and has been improved with a number of substantial homes. While Subway is nearing completion and property enhancing in value, you can "do your bit" in the Nation's emergency by cultivating the land. It is a beautiful, rich garden spot, in fact, the finest land in Greater New York, where 300 bushels of potatoes per acre have been and can be raised. We have a letter from a customer who writes that he raised on his lots 45 barrels, 135 bushels, or, at the rate potatoes were selling this Spring, $405 worth of potatoes.

This is a chance to be independent of the food merchant, in part at least, as well as making wise provision for the future by investment in New York City land.

HOW TO REACH THE PROPERTY

The Nostrand Avenue Subway Terminus is at Flatbush Avenue and Avenue H, from which point, within a year, you will be able to ride to any part of the Interboro system for five cents.

At present—the Flatbush Avenue trolleys which run from Park Row over the Brooklyn Bridge, pass this property. It can also be reached by the Nostrand Avenue Line, which runs over the Williamsburg Bridge from Delancey Street, by transferring to a Flatbush Avenue trolley at Flatbush and Nostrand Avenues.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Relatively low pressure covers practically all parts of the country save along the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, and storm centres were charted Friday night over Western Missouri, the St. Lawrence Valley, and Montana. Showers and thunderstorms occurred within the last twenty-four hours, generally east of the Rocky Mountains, except in the Gulf States, the Dakotas, Minnesota, and Montana. A tornado is reported to have occurred Friday afternoon in the vicinity of Springfield, Mo.

Temperature is considerably lower in the south plains States, the central Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, the region of the Great Lakes, and in the North Pacific Coast.

The weather was abnormally cool Friday over the plains States and the Rocky Mountain region, and the lowest temperatures of record for the month of June occurred Thursday night at a number of points in the central Rocky Mountain region.

Indications point to unsettled and showery weather over practically all districts east of the Mississippi River during the next forty-eight hours.

No important temperature changes are indicated for the Eastern half of the country during Saturday and Sunday.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be moderate south, with overcast, showery weather; South Atlantic Coast, gentle variable, fair.

FORECASTS TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York and New England—Overcast, with probably showers Saturday and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Probably showers and local thunder storms Saturday and Sunday; mild temperature.

Western New York—Showers Saturday and probably Sunday; not much change in temperature.

3 A. M.	53	53	4 P. M.	76	60
6 A. M.	54	53	6 P. M.	72	60
12 M.	68	53	11 P. M.	65	60

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 57; for the corresponding date last year it was 65; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 64. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 58; at 8 P. M. it was 60. Maximum temperature, 62 degrees, at 6:45 P. M.; minimum, 52 degrees, at 9 A. M. Humidity, 98 per cent. at 8 A. M. and 84 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.11 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.03 inches.

Applications for inspector of heating and ventilation, Grade 3, will be received until 4 P. M. on June 14. The subjects and weights of the examination are: Experience, 5; duties, 5. A qualifying physical examination will be given. The inspector will be engaged in the preparation of specifications in accordance with the standards of the Education Department for the equipment of school buildings. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age on or before the closing date for the receipt of applications. There is one vacancy at present in the Education Department at $2,093.33 a year.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for ship draftsman, for men only. Present and future vacancies in the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., and in the various navy yards, stations, and offices of Superintending Constructors of the Navy Department, at salaries ranging from $3.28 to $6 and over per diem, will be filled from this examination. Many vacancies now exist. This examination is held to secure eligibles having technical training and experience in the design and construction of ships and their fittings and systems. The department is finding difficulty in obtaining for the rates of pay it has to offer men with the qualifications necessary to meet its requirements. As the need for ship draftsmen is pressing, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, education, training, experience, and ability. In rating the subject of experience the degree of difficulty and importance of the work performed, the length of experience, and the rating which an applicant has had as a draftsman or workman will be considered. Applicants must have reached their eighteenth birthday on the date of making oath to the application. Until further notice, applications will be received at any time. Papers will be examined immediately upon their receipt by the commission and a grade and a rating in that grade will be assigned the competitor. Those who are found qualified will be offered employment at once.

The register of eligibles will be divided into four grades, the compensation and minimum requirement for each grade being as follows: Grade 1, $3.28 to $4 per diem; Grade 2, over $4 to $5.04 per diem; Grade 3, over $5.04 to $6 per diem; Grade 4, over $6 per diem. Applicants must qualify under one of the groups of the $5.04 to $6 per diem grade, and, in addition, must have been for at least one year in a supervisory ship-drafting position. Persons with the minimum qualifications for a grade will be appointed only at the minimum salary of that grade. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes.

Since the work of examining school children who participate in athletics has been discontinued by the Department of Health, the responsibility of safeguarding the health of these boys and girls has fallen upon the Division of Educational Hygiene of the Department of Education. To carry on this important work funds have been obtained to appoint, under the Board of Education, substitute Assistant Directors of Educational Hygiene, to work under the supervision of the Director of Physical Training. The duty will be to certify to the physical ability of school children to take part in athletics. Assignments of physicians to this work at the rate of $7.50 per day will be made from time to time, as requests come from Principals for this service. It is expected that five men and five women physicians will be appointed, two to represent each borough. Applications, stating qualifications, age, date of graduation, medical school, past and present clinical position, medical societies, &c., should be addressed to the Board of Examiners not later than June 11. The oral examination, including clinical tests, will be held in June.

There have been placed, as of May 25, 1917, upon the eligible lists of holders of license as assistant teacher of freehand drawing in high schools the names of the following:

Thomas Spector, 80; Clare E. Huebner, 80.9; Edith Phelps, 79.2; Bernice C. Smith, 78.6; Celia Hotchner, 78.3, and Ethel F. Terrell, 72.9.

Jamaica Training School—Julia A. Smith.

New York Training School—Emily A. Doherty, Loretta A. O'Raw, and Fanny Schoengold.

On Aug. 1 about $75,000 will become available for the payment of a part of the arrears [illegible] of public school teachers, which date back to September, 1914.

MURDERS BOY OF 15 IN HATE FOR MOTHER

Slayer Then Gashes His Wrists and Jumps Into Sound, but Is Rescued.

HAD BROKEN UP HOME

Lured Victim to Flat by Promise of Tools to Make Toys—Had Posed as Boy's Friend.

A half hour after the body of Frederick Steinmiller, 15 years old, had been found in the room of Michael Koerber, a German, at 414 East Seventy-eighth Street, yesterday, Koerber was placed under arrest in St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, by the New York police. Koerber had been brought to the hospital early in the morning after he had attempted to commit suicide at the foot of Boulevard, North Beach, by cutting the veins in his wrists and then jumping into the Sound. The police said he admitted the murder of the boy, and concluded that the cause of the crime was desire for revenge because the boy's mother had asked him to leave the Steinmiller home, where he had been a boarder.

Several months ago Koerber sought quarters at the Steinmiller home, at 3?1 East Seventy-eighth Street, and, the police say, was the cause of a disruption in the family. His attentions to Mrs. Steinmiller caused her husband to leave home. Following this Mrs. Steinmiller ordered Koerber to leave, and he went to the home of Mrs. Lena Bauer, in Seventy-eighth Street. Koerber said he would take revenge in a way Mrs. Steinmiller would remember, and only a few days before he lured the Steinmiller boy to his room Koerber wrote a long letter to Mrs. Bauer, telling of the alleged wrongs done him by the Steinmillers.

On Thursday night Frederick told his mother that Koerber had told him to come to the Koerber flat for some tools the boy had wanted to use in making toys. Mrs. Steinmiller made no protest, for the boy had been in the habit of visiting Koerber frequently, and the two had become comrades in long walks and in making mechanical contrivances. Frederick had promised to return early, but when he did not reappear his mother did not worry, for he had spent several nights with Koerber.

When the boy did not come home yesterday morning before school time Mrs. Steinmiller became uneasy, and after waiting for a few hours went to the Bauer home. There was no response to knocks upon Koerber's door, and Mrs. Bauer finally got a pass key and the two women entered the room. They threw up the blinds and found the body of Frederick lying across the bed. His head was almost severed from his body, and there was an odor of chloroform in the room.

Their cries brought Policeman Lehane, and a general alarm was sent out for Koerber. A few minutes later Captain John E. Reith of the Grand Avenue Station in Astoria reported that the man they were seeking was in the St. John's Hospital at Long Island City. To detectives who went to the hospital Koerber admitted he had killed the boy, for whom he had always pretended the greatest affection.

Koerber had done building and contracting work under the name of Bernett & Koerber in North Bergen, N. J.

MAYO PLEADS POVERTY.

Examined Before Trial of Woman's Suit for $250,000.

Virginius St. Julian Mayo appeared yesterday before Referee McQuade at 165 Broadway to answer further questions before trial of the suit of Miss Wilhelmina Meyer, who is seeking $250,000 damages on the charge that he lured her into a spurious marriage. Mayo was living with Miss Meyer in New Haven when Miss Lillian Cook, a stenographer employed by Mayo's company, committed suicide.

The purpose of the examination before trial was to discover what property Mayo had. In reply to questions yesterday Mayo said that he was practically without property of any kind. He had sold all of his patents to the Mayo Radiator Company in order to cancel $18,000 in debts and had received only $8,000 in cash. He said that he owned only about $2,000 worth of the stock of the company.

Asked concerning his real estate, he replied that he owned none except a house in Brooklyn and about an acre of land in New Haven. The examination will be resumed on June 11.

STOLE DIAMONDS AND RAN.

Young Man Grabbed Wallet from Safe and Escaped to the Sereet.

A wallet containing between four and five thousand dollars' worth of diamonds was taken from the safe in the office of Leblang & Cohen, manufacturing jewelers, on the thirteenth floor of 71 Nassau Street, yesterday afternoon, while Benjamin Cohen, one of the partners, and five workmen were in the next room. As Cohen came out of the workshop he surprised a young man passing through a gate in the railing in the main office, behind which stood the safe with its doors closed but not locked. Cohen grasped the man by the arm but he got away and fled down the stairway.

Cohen delayed for a moment to look into the safe, and then he and his brother, Michael, who is foreman of the workshop, started in pursuit. Cohen took the elevator while his brother went down the stairs, but the thief got away. The police guarding the Maiden Lane district were furnished with a description of the thief, who was about 19 years old and well dressed. The wallet taken from the safe contained about twenty-four papers of unset diamonds, which were not insured.

Former Fireman Sent to Prison.

Michael P. Crowley, 58, of 302 West 104th Street, who at one time was a lieutenant in the Fire Department of this city and who recently had an office as a lawyer at 38 Park Row, was sentenced by Judge Gibbs in the Bronx County Court yesterday to not less than one year and three months and not more than seven years imprisonment. He was convicted of robbery in the second degree on the complaint of August Nicholson, a fireman in Engine Company No. 76, who paid Crowley $800 to get him on the preferred list of the Civil Service for promotion to Lieutenant.

SUNDAY VISITS THE POLICE.

"Mugged, Measured, Fingerprinted" —Preaches Twice to Women.

Billy Sunday visited Police Headquarters yesterday morning and volunteered as a subject for the Bureau of Identification. He was "mugged, measured, and fingerprinted," as he afterward described it to Commissioner Woods. Sunday also gained some information concerning the art of self-defense, which he said "might come in handy." Sergeants Shaw and Cantor showed him "jiu jitsu" methods, which were photographed for each pose and given to Sunday for future study.

In the afternoon and evening at the Tabernacle Sunday preached the same sermon to women exclusively, taking his text from II. Kings, iv., 26: "Is it well with thee; is it well with thy husband; is it well with thy child?" At the afternoon service the woman who had often disturbed meetings at the Tabernacle was taken in charge by the women ushers and sent to the Bellevue psycopathic ward. There she said she was Mrs. Marie Willard of 144 West 103d Street.

Sunday told his audiences that he thought too many New York women appeared in public scantily clad.

"Why don't you women start a dress reform—of women, by women, and for women?" he asked. "I am not a crank. I don't want you to dress in the fashion of the time of my mother, with a pair of hoops sticking out. But I want you to cover yourselves up when you go on the streets." After he had been applauded for this he proceeded to condemn divorce, saying: "I am a Roman Catholic on that subject." He warned against marriage to "some old lobster" for "wealth, a life of ease, or social position," and praised "old maids."

47 KILLED IN CITY STREETS.

Of 40 Auto Accidents in May 25 Were to Children.

Forty persons were killed in New York City by motor vehicles in May of this year, as compared with twenty-seven for the corresponding month in 1916, according to the monthly traffic accident report issued yesterday by the National Highways Protective Association. The total number of deaths due to vehicular traffic in New York City for the month of May, says the report, was forty-seven. Three of these were by trolleys and four by wagons, against four by trolleys and ten by wagons in May, 1916. In the State outside of New York City twenty-six persons were killed by automobiles, two by trolleys and one by wagon. Of those killed in the city twenty-five were children, and in the State eight. Eight were killed at highway railroad grade crossings in the State of New York in the month just ended.

Regarding the increase in the number of deaths by automobile accidents, Colonel Edward S. Cornell, Secretary of the society, said: "Our figures, which are larger than the Police Department's, but which we took from Coroners' records and maintain to be absolutely correct, show an alarming increase in deaths from this cause. There is only one way to put a controlling check on this slaughter, and that is by a law requiring the licensing, on the basis of qualification, of all who drive automobiles, instead of limiting this requirement to chauffeurs as is done at present."

In New Jersey, according to the report of the National Highway Association, twenty-four persons were killed in May by automobiles, one by trolley and one by wagon. For the same month the deaths at highway railroad grade crossings were six.

BROKER SUICIDE IN HOTEL.

Robert E. King of Boston Gave Hint of Death in Telegram.

Robert E. King, a Boston stock broker, committed suicide in the Broadway Central Hotel last night after sending a telegram to his sister-in-law, Dorothy Page of 37 West Sixty-eighth Street, telling her to call at the hotel in the evening because "he feared something would have happened by that time."

When Miss Page telephoned the operator told her there was no response from King's room, and Miss Page asked that a bellboy be sent up to the room to see whether it was unoccupied.

"I fear something has happened," she told the telephone operator. The night clerk summoned the bellboys and all went up in a body. They opened the door with a pass key, and found King dead upon the bed. He had shot himself through the head.

There were no letters or messages in the room giving reasons for the act. Miss Page called at the hotel and identified the body. She refused to give other information.

THREE STATES SWEPT BY DEADLY STORMS

Lives Lost and Great Property Damage Reported in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—Several persons were killed and much property was damaged in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri by tornadoes which swept these three States today and tonight. Wires to all the stricken places were down and meagre information was obtained before communication was cut off.

With 400 houses reported destroyed at Coalgate, Okla., a town of 3,500 inhabitants, and possibly 200 at Coffeyville, Kan., it was feared that the death total at these two places would be high. One message said that thirteen bodies had been counted at Coalgate, and that the business section of the town was virtually destroyed.

Three persons were killed, several seriously injured, and much property was damaged by a tornado which struck Moore, five miles southeast of Olathn, Kan. Unconfirmed reports from Buffalo, Mo., told of considerable damage there. Another storm was reported to have passed between Springfield and Lebanon, Mo. All wires were down in both directions.

At Drake, Okla., five known deaths were reported. Nine persons were injured, two perhaps fatally, by the tornado which passed north of the town of Seminole. Much livestock was killed and crops in the path of the storm were badly damaged.

SEIZED AS GERMAN SUSPECT

Otto, Reputed ex-Consul to Jamaica, Taken to Ellis Island.

Rudolph H. Otto, said to have been at one time the German Consul to Jamaica, and who, according to other reports, has been more or less prominent in the German propaganda, has been interned on Ellis Island, it was learned yesterday. Otto for more than a year made his home in Plainfield, N. J., at which place he was taken into custody by agents of the Department of Justice early this week.

It is said that Otto saw much of Count von Bernstorff in the last months of that German diplomat's stay in the United States. Government agents refused to say anything about the case last night.

Help clear your complexion with Resinol Soap

If you find yourself "left out" because of a poor skin, and want a clear, fresh complexion, use Resinol Soap at least once a day. Wash thoroughly with a warm, creamy lather of it, then rinse the face with plenty of cold water.

It does not often take many days of such regular care with Resinol Soap to show an improvement. In severe cases, a little Resinol Ointment should be used at first. All druggists sell Resinol Soap and Ointment.
